Wife of Young Fleischmann Wins Divorce

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, July 17. — Judge Charles A. McDonald in the Superior Court granted a divorce today to Mrs. Gertrude Brosius Fleischmann from Harry Fleischmann, son of Gustav Fleischmann, yeast manufacturer.

Witnesses testified Fleischmann had left his bride a day after their marriage, Feb. 16, 1920, and that she had not heard from him since.

On the day following the wedding, Mrs. Fleischmann testified, her husband departed, telling her he was going to California to build a "love nest." She was able to trace him to San Francisco, then to Los Angeles. Counsel for Mrs. Fleischmann told the court he had employed detectives in both California cities to continue the search, but had learned nothing of Fleischmann's whereabouts.

Overflow Meetings Show Enthusiasm; Says He's No Orator

BY KYLE D. PALMER
"Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, July 17.—Greeted by overflow meetings where he was hailed as the next United States Senator from California, Charles C. Moore delivered a strenuous series of addresses in San Diego and nearby communities today outlining the platform upon which he seeks the Republican Senatorial nomination.

Everywhere he appeared he was received with enthusiastic shouts and congratulations. He addressed nearly 2000 San Diegans in the Spreckels Theater at noon and spoke to a gathering almost as large in Coronado this evening. This afternoon the candidate, accompanied by prominent San Diego men and women visited Chula Vista and National City.

NO ORATORICAL FLIGHTS

When Mr. Moore, speaking in the Spreckels Theater at noon, told his hearers that "anyone who expects me to attempt oratorical flights now, or if I am elected, in the Senate of the United States, will be disappointed," his further utterance was drowned in a chorus of "We've had enough oratory," and an enthusiastic Moore admirer shouted: "We want Moore of California," whereat the enthusiastic San Diegans gave expression to their emotions by hearty cheers.

DEPUTIES SEEK MURDERERS

Forty-three Wellsburg Coal War Gunmen Already Jailed; More Sought on "John Doe" Warrants

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WELLSBURG (W. Va.) July 17.—With forty-three prisoners in custody, three in Wheeling hospitals, fifteen in the Ohio County Jail there and twenty-five in jail here, deputy sheriffs armed with 300 John Doe warrants charging murder, scouring the country as far as the Pennsylvania border and a large force of State police and deputies guarding the striking miners' tent colony at Cliftonville, where a battle between a Sheriff's force and a large crowd of men today resulted in the death of at least four men and, the wounding of others, the situation in Brooke county was tense late today.

Sheriff Duval, who led his little band of deputies against a large crowd of men, said to have crossed from the union coal field of Pennsylvania, was among those dead. The others are:

FRANCIS MILICH, Monnessen, Pa.

——— CROOKE. An unidentified man.

SON WITH HIM

With Sheriff Duval when his men pressed battle against the attacking force and drove them back from the mine, after the tipple had been fired and at least two of the participants had fallen, was his son, Thomas. The latter saw his father shot down, the body later being found to contain marks of seven bullets, but continued on with the defenders. Not long afterward when the fight was over, he was made Sheriff of Brooke county in his father's place by a court order.

Watchers at the mine were waiting for the ruins of the tipple, burned in the attack, to cool before searching for bodies of two men believed to be buried under the debris.

Rumor persisted that the bodies in the morgue by no means represented the total casualties of the fight, but none of the deputy sheriffs would confirm reports that numbers of men had been shot down and their bodies dragged through the woods by their companions. Errors in repeated announcements at the Sheriff's office

Alaska Pioneers Gather to Celebrate Finding of Golden Yukon

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SEATTLE, July 17.—Sourdoughs of the Far North, who twenty-five years ago mushed over the frozen trails of Alaska and, the Yukon country in search of gold, marched through the streets of Seattle today with the old packs on their backs, the old gold pans clattering about them, and hastily grown whiskers once more adorning their faces as they celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of the arrival of the "gold ship" Portland here with news of the great Klondike "strike."

The parade marked the inception of a three-day "Days of '97" carnival under the auspices of the Yukon Order of Pioneers.

NEW WALKOUT FLOPS AS PEACE PARLEYS REVIVE

Maintenance-of-Way Workers Fail to Join Mad Rush When Oilers Leave

BY RALPH J. McCANNA
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, July 17.—Peace talk was revived in railway circles here today. While about 8000 stationary firemen and oilers were called out, the predicted unauthorized rush of maintenance-of-way men to the ranks of the 300,000 striking shopmen did not materialize.

Although Ben W. Hooper, chairman, and other members of the United States Railroad Labor Board were chary of comment on prospects, a spirit of optimism, that had seemed all but dead at the week-end, once again pervaded the board's offices in the Transportation Building.

Added to this was the fact that conferences with union leaders and railway executives were resumed by Chairman Hooper, and W. L. McMeniman, one of the three labor members on the board.

Among the callers at the Labor Board offices were W. H. Finley, president of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway, and W. G. Bierd, president of the Chicago and Alton.

The fact that the runaway strike of maintenance-of-way men did not gain the proportions that had been forecast was construed as evidence that E. F. Grable, their president, still is holding the whip hand.

Mr. Grable, who arrived in Chicago tonight, from his Detroit headquarters, is pledged to peace. He has said he would authorize a walkout of his 400,000 men only if the carriers require them to do strikers' work.

In any event, Mr. Grable said, there will be strike action authorized before Thursday. Then he will meet with the general chairmen.

Many of the general chairmen have been reported in favor of a walkout. Mr. Grable, it is expected, will have a conference with Labor Board members before returning to Detroit to confer with his chamber.

One forecast Sunday night was that 75,000 maintenance-of-way men in the vicinity of New York would join the strikers today. However, less than 2000 in that territory left their jobs, it was estimated tonight.

HOPE STILL HELD

A strike of the 8000 clerks and freight handlers on the Chicago & Northwestern line today also had been apprehended, but E. M. Fitzgerald of Cincinnati, their chief, responded to a request for strike sanction with word that no action would be taken pending a conference he is to have with the Labor Board Wednesday. Hope that this walkout will be averted was expressed.

DARING FIRE LADDIE NABS PET MONKEY

But Deauville Department Resents Dash to Rescue Frisky Simian

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DEAUVILLE, July 17. — Ordinarily there is trouble when the fire department is called out on a false alarm, especially if it be called to find a lost pet. But Preston Gibson and Mrs. Malcolm Waite, wife of the former Dartmouth football star, and one of the leaders of the American colony here, got away with it this afternoon.

Mrs. Waite's pet monkey broke its diamond-studded leash and was having such a glorious frolic among the trees of its mistress' garden that it could not be lured back.

Finally Mr. Gibson conceived the bright idea of putting in a fire alarm. This was duly answered, but strangely enough the firemen resented being called out to chase monkeys. However, Mrs. Waite prevailed on them to do their best and with fire ladders they took up the chase. One daring man climbed up to the topmost branches of a large tree and at the cost of many bites dragged the little animal by its collar of rubies back to Mrs. Waite.

Peggy Caffee is Questioned After Inquest

Mrs. Peggy Caffee, eyewitness of the murder of Mrs. Alberta Meadows, was taken to the office of Chief Deputy Dist.-Atty. Doran after the inquest yesterday for further questioning. Although the nature of the quiz was not disclosed, the assistant prosecutor declared he was satisfied with her story.

The former chorus girl is still being kept in seclusion in Long Beach, although attaches of the Sheriff's and District Attorney's offices deny that she is under arrest.

"I don't see any reason for it at present," said Mr. Doran.

OPEN ENCAMPMENT OF NATIONAL GUARD

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

MONTEREY, July 17.—The annual encampment of the California National Guard was formally opened here today to last until the end of the month.

Adjt.-Gen. Borree, commander of the guard, has arrived to take active charge. Guard officers said it was the biggest encampment in the history of the organization, more than 2000 men being under canvas.

JAILED WOMAN BATTLED WITH GIRL OF CHORUS

Clara Phillips in Terrific Fight; Meets Husband in Jail and Offers Kisses, No Tears

A terrific fist fight in a downtown restaurant in which Mrs. Clara Phillips, who will be arraigned this morning at 10 o'clock in Judge Houser's court for the murder of Mrs. Alberta Meadows, savagely fought with a chorus girl, was made known yesterday by Sport Croff, manager of Charles restaurant, 223 Mercantile Place.

SAYS CLARA GAVE CHASE TO HUSBAND

Neighbor Relates "Race" in Alley Three Days Before Hammer Murder

Three days before Mrs. Alberta Meadows was murdered on Montecito Drive, Mrs. Clara Phillips was seen following her husband at a rapid gait through an alley near Hoover and Fifty-second streets.

Neighbors of Mrs. Phillips and persons who saw the unusual scene early Sunday night, July 9, were unable to offer any details or explanations last night.

The woman who operates the grocery store at 5270 South Hoover street, and who begged that her name be withheld, said last night:

"It was about 7 or 8 o'clock Sunday night preceding the murder when I saw Mrs. Phillips chasing her husband across Hoover street and down the alley between Fifty-second and Fifty-third street.

"It looked unusual, but I didn't ask any questions. She's a customer of mine and pays cash and I can't afford to lose the trade of cash customers, so I said nothing. But Mrs. Phillips, with a sort of a mad look on her face, came walking back and as she reached me she said:

"'We were just having a little race.'

"But I hadn't asked her anything.

"No, she didn't have a hammer in her hand, or anything that I could see. She was just chasing him. And he didn't have any hat or coat either. I did not see him come back, though Mrs. Phillips returned to her home."

The informant stated that Mrs. Phillips entered her store almost daily to buy cigarettes. Other neighbors stated that Mrs. Phillips had frequently been seen dashing out of her house and running to the corner and then back again, darting around to the rear entrance of the house.

IS RECORD PETITION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, July 17.—What was said to be the largest nominating petition in any one county by a candidate for State office was that of Gov. Stephens bearing 2506 signatures, the quota, filed with Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan here today.

"Mrs. Phillips frequently came into the restaurant while she was a chorus girl at the Broadway Pantages Theater," Mr. Croff said last night. "Peggy Caffee, the eyewitness to the murder of Mrs. Meadows, also was a member of the chorus. So was this other girl.

"Just about a year ago, this chorus girl was in the restaurant when Mrs. Phillips suddenly rushed in. The two women were fighting a moment later. The girl said Mrs. Phillips attacked her.

"I was standing only a few feet away," Mr. Croff continued, "and rushed in to separate them, but before I was able to do anything, Mrs. Phillips struck the girl several times.

ALL HE COULD HANDLE

"She was all I could handle although I grabbed her arms and locked them behind her. I do not know what the fight was about, but Mrs. Phillips kept crying out something to the effect that the girl had said something about her. Mrs. Phillips also spoke of her husband two or three times, but I do not remember the exact connection he had, if any, with the affray."

Mr. Croff also told of a similar episode that occurred within a block fom his restaurant, when Mrs. Phillips is declared to have dragged one of the chorus girls from an automobile and had to be pulled away from her by some men who were present.

Mr. Croff knows Mrs. Phillips, Peggy Caffee and the girl whom Mrs. Phillips is said to have attacked very well, because of the frequent visits they made to his restaurant, which has a back entrance adjoining the theater where the three were employed in the chorus.

MEETS HER HUSBAND

Coming dramatically after a Coroner's jury had accused her as being the woman who beat Mrs. Meadows to death with a hammer last Wednesday on Montecito Drive, Mrs. Phillips late yesterday met her husband, A. L. Phillips, local oil promoter, for the first time since he told the authorities she slew the young widow and had fled for El Paso.

Without a trace of a tear in her eyes and with a smile on her lips, Mrs Phillips threw her arms around her husband—the man over whom she is declared to have killed the woman she believed to be a love rival. Their meeting took place in the County Jail.

It was the first time they had seen each other since Mrs. Phillips walked out of the gates at the

"DEATH WATCH" TAXI DRIVER IS FOUND

Man Who Piloted Indicted Woman and Peggy Tells of Two Calls

A vital witness was found last night to the asserted "death watch" which Clara Phillips, ex-chorus girl, defendant on a murder charge, held the night before the slaying of Alberta Tremaine Meadows, the young widow whose head was crushed with hammer blows last Wednesday.

He is L. W. Streeter, driver for the Black and White Taxi Company. Twice on Tuesday—the day on which Mrs. Phillips bought the hammer with which she is accused of killing Mrs. Meadows—Mr. Streeter drove Mrs. Phillips on mysterious missions.

The first was in the morning, when she rushed to the auto park where Mrs. Meadows kept her coupe, and then, urging her driver to use his utmost speed, raced against time for her own home.

The second trip was a shadowing expedition, on which she and Peggy Caffee, who later was taken on the fatal ride with Mrs. Meadows, tried to spy on the young widow in her apartment.

HUSBAND MET VICTIM

While the visit to the Meadows apartment was being made, A. L. Phillips, because of whom the accused slayer is said to have beaten Mrs. Meadows to death, was talking with the object of his wife's search. They had met that night by chance, he says, at Figueroa and Santa Barbara streets while Mrs. Meadows was riding with her younger sister.

"About 8 o'clock, perhaps before or after, I was given a call from our University Club stand to go to 1249 South Grand avenue," Mr. Streeter said. "That was Tuesday evening, and when I got to the Ponet Square Apartments, which are at that address, two young women were waiting for the car in front of the apartments.

"They came down from the porch, and when they got in the car I saw they were two women whom I had seen that morning.

CORONER'S JURY HOLDS MRS. PHILLIPS GUILTY

Finds Mrs. Meadows Was Killed by Hammer Blows Inflicted by Accused Woman

"Alberta Gibson Tremaine Meadows, deceased, came to her death of a fracture of the skull inflicted with hammer blows by one Mrs. Clara Phillips in a premeditated attempt to kill and murder," was the straight-from-the-shoulder verdict of the Coroner's jury, returned yesterday morning.

Babbling women and giggling flappers; men in working garb who played hookey from their jobs; a row of six stern-visaged men, the Coroner's jury; police officers, detectives, deputy sheriffs, reporters and newspaper photographers; rapid-fire questions from Coroner Nance; a sorrowing father, a sobbing sister and a saddened admirer of the murdered girl sitting in a corner; a trembling eye-witness to the slaying, seated in the witness chair—these provided the atmosphere of the tense drama in the John R. Paul funeral parlors.

ON VERGE OF COLLAPSE

The sister, Genora Tremaine, and the eyewitness, Peggy Caffee, were on the verge of collapse—one from grief, the other from the sickening thought of the blood-smeared body of Alberta Tremaine.

Peggy, attired in a white turban hat, an extremely low-necked green sweater, an abbreviated white silk skirt that revealed her shapely white-stockinged calves, was relating her story. The slain girl's father and younger sister had never before seen her. They were hearing for the first time from the lips of the eyewitness the gruesome details of their loved one's tragic death.

The father leaned forward, intensely interested. The sister, with bowed head, was striving to stay the flow of tears beneath her wide-brimmed hat.

Peggy told the Coroner she was not acquainted with Mrs. Meadows, had never met her before Wednesday when Mrs. Phillips introduced the two girls as they were stepping into Mrs. Meadows's car at Ninth and Broadway.

She told of Mrs. Phillips remaining all Tuesday night at her house, of Mrs. Phillips's statement that she wanted to "go out to a girl's place—she wanted to talk to her."

HAMMER WAS PURCHASED

"Prior to that, on Tuesday, did you go shopping with Mrs. Phillips?"

"Yes, she purchased a pair of shoes and some hose."

"Anything else?"

Peggy faltered.

"Afterward she bought a hammer, not a big one, not a little one—at a 5 and 10-cent store."

Peggy saw the hammer when Mrs. Phillips purchased it.

"She never said what she was going to do with it."

"How was it wrapped?"

"In brown paper and dark string."

Peggy was insistent in her statement that she had never gone near the First National Bank on the day of the murder.

The setting was shifted from Tuesday to Wednesday. They met Mrs. Meadows after 4:30 p.m. Mrs. Phillips asked Mrs. Meadows to drive her home in the Ford coupe.

"Did you see any package at all, at any time?"

"No."

"What was Mrs. Phillips wearing?"

"She had on a dark blue cape."

"You three got in the car?"

"Yes—Mrs. Phillips sat in the middle."

RIDE TO DEATH SCENE

Then the ride to the scene of death began, through Garvanza, up the lonely Montecito Drive.

Peggy, her lips twitching, her body shaking as from palsy, clutched the arms of her chair tenaciously. In hoarse whispers she told how calm Mrs. Phillips acted, asking Mrs. Meadows about her car, about her dead husband.

"What was the occasion for stopping the car?" Coroner Nance asked.

"Clara said she would like to talk to her."

"Did you get out of the car?"

"Not then—I stayed in it—they were standing about a foot from the car."

"What was said?"

Peggy was trying to make her narrative more understandable with feeble, jerky gestures, but her hands would fall limply into her lap.

ASKED ABOUT TIRES

"Clara asked Mrs. Meadows if Mr. Phillips had purchased the tires on her car. I stepped out of the car then.

"Clara asked her about her wrist watch—asked her if Mr. Phillips purchased that.

"Mrs. Meadows said, 'No, Mrs. Phillips, I purchased it myself.'

"Both of Clara's hands were under her cape—kind of as if they were on her hips—one of them might have been behind her.

"She never seemed to be cross—until she mentioned the wrist watch. Then she got mad.

"'He did buy it!' Clara said—and then she hit her.

"They ran down the hill. Clara was after her. I had run down the hill before them. Clara had only struck her once. I think it was then she knocked the girl's hat off.

"I heard voices. I turned around and looked. Clara had hold of her left arm, walking up the hill. I thought they had made up—they were talking.

"CLARA HIT HER AGAIN"

"When they got up beside the car, Clara said—'You certainly did'—and hit her again.

"Clara told me to get out of the way—I was kind of in front of the girl. I saw blood! I got sick at my stomach—ran down hill.

"I was sick—leaning against that wall. I looked back—hollered 'Help!' I saw the girl on the ground. I saw Clara strike her twice then. I staggered toward the wall—"

The witness swayed in her chair. She was trembling from head to foot—crying, gasping. A glass of water was handed to her. She could not hold the glass. Detective Sergeant Cline poured the water into her mouth. She looked appealingly at the detective and the Coroner.

"I don't want to talk about the blood! Please don't make me talk about the blood!"

Peggy, after many minutes, partially regained her composure. She resumed her testimony.

"Then Clara came along in the car—tooted the horn—told me to get in.

WAS SCARED OF CLARA

"Oh—she was awful furious looking, and I was scared of her.

"'Don't you dare tell your husband!' she told me.

"She was very mad. Mrs. Meadows's handbag was in the car. Clara dropped her rings in it.

"She told me: 'Remember, you're in this as much as I am!

"I went home to look for my husband. I was afraid she would come after me."

Peggy was directed back to the events of last Tuesday.

"Clara told me on Tuesday in my apartment that her husband was going around with another lady—said she heard it and was pretty sure because her husband had been neglecting her.

"She told me 'A neighbor—friend our ours'—told her."

That was all of Peggy's testimony.

CONFIRMS DEATH STORY

"Do you testify here that Mrs. Meadows was killed by hammer blows inflicted by Mrs. Phillips?" Coroner Nance asked her.

And Peggy feebly replied:

"I do."

But before Peggy was excused from the witness stand Fred A. Tremaine, the slain girl's father, asked two questions of the girl who witnessed the slaying of his daughter:

"Were you with Mrs. Phillips all day Wednesday?"

Peggy replied that she was—though she had previously stated she had not visited the First National Bank, where Mrs. Phillips is said to have spent four hours waiting for Mrs. Meadows.

"Continuously?" asked Mr. Tremaine.

"Yes," said Peggy.

FATHER IDENTIFIES BODY

Other witnesses included Mr. Tremaine, who identified the body as that of his daughter.

"Do you know any reasons why anyone should inflict such injuries on her?" has was asked.

"No, sir, I do not."

"She's never told you of any reasons?"

"No, sir."

Officer Corcoran told of finding the body, theb roken hammer handle, the wrapping paper, the piece of blue string.

Detective Sergeant Lefty James produced the broken hammer handle and described the rock found on Mrs. Meadows's body. At this point he was questioned by Fred Tremaine, the dead girl's father.

"How heavy was that rock?" he asked.

"About forty or fifty pounds," answered the detective sergeant.

"Could one woman handle that rock alone?"

"I think one woman could roll it alone."

Genora Tremaine, the sister, began sobbing hysterically. She refused to shift her gaze from the blood-stained handle, she swayed in her chair and was taken from the room by her father and Jules Lucas, a young admirer of Alberta Meadows.

The room was cleared and three minutes later the verdict was returned by the Coroner's jury—W. O. Tolliver, foreman, James O. Hedges, N. H. Clark, N. D. Beckner, George W. Witchell, A. M. Condra and J. Virgil Pugh.

And throughout the morning—on the side of the street opposite the undertaking parlors where the mutilated body of Clara Phillips's victim lay—paced the suspected murderess' husband, A. L. Phillips, at the side of Deputy Sheriff Nolan.

OTHER WOMEN SLAYERS

Eleven Have Taken Principal Roles in Murders in Los Angeles in Recent Years

For some time women have taken a prominent part in murders in Los Angeles county. One of the most famous cases in recent months was that in which Mrs. Louise Peete was convicted of the murder of Jacob Denton and is now serving a life sentence.

Mrs. Madalyne Obenchain is now on trial for the second time, charged with being a party to killing J. Belton Kennedy, in Beverely Glen. Indicted with her is Arthur C. Burch, who has been tried two times. In both his trials and the former trial of Mrs. Obenchain the jury failed to reach an agreement.

Since January 1, 1922, the murder record of the county holding women for the crime appears as follows:

Esther Albano killed Leone J. Manfre on April 11, last, for demanding money. She was acquitted.

Elisabeth Bannon was tried as an accomplice for the killing of James H. Brisham on January 6, last, while acting as an aid to her husband. The husband was sentenced to from ten years to life. The wife was acquitted.

Mabel Boyle, it is charged, killed her husband on April 3, last, because of jealously, and is now held for trial.

Marie Crockett is accused of having killed her husband on February 22, last, for threatening her. Held for trial.

Julia Johnstone killed her husband on January 31, last, for taunting her. Freed on probation.

Helen McClung killed Mrs. Margaret Hagan on June 13, last, for putting ant poison in letter box. Pleads insanity.

Alla Ranshaw, the officers charge, killed Miss "Bobbie" Williams on February 19, last, on account of jealousy. Held in trial.

Mabelle Roe killed McCullough Graydon on September 20, last, fight over possession of beach cottage. Tried twice, convicted, then granted a new trial now pending.

Rosina Salino killed Thomas Pigyo on May 13, last, because he made an alleged attempt to assaurt her. Pardoned by Governor.

Sheriff Thanks Police for Aid in Murder Case

This statement was issued last evening at the office of the Sheriff:

"Sheriff Traeger expresses himself as being deeply grateful to the men of the police department under Detective Sergeant Herman W. Cline for the fine co-operation in the development of the facts of the Meadows murder case. Detective Cline has developed one of the most important connecting links in the mystery and deserves a great deal of credit. I feel that the work in the case only verifies the assurance given me by Chief of Police Oaks on taking office that there would be the closest harmony in the work of the two offices for the betterment of public interests."

New Queen of Prison to Have no Extra Favor

Mrs. Clara Phillips, held as the hammer murderess of Mrs. Alberta Meadows, may have supplanted Madalynne Obenchain as queen of the County Jail, but she will enjoy no special visiting privileges.

Yesterday Undersheriff Biscailuz informed her husband's attorneys that Phillips will be permitted to visit her only twice a week—the same rule that applied to the other prisoners. In case an important conference is necessary, however, Phillips may see his wife in the company of his lawyers. The former was released from custody following the inquest yesterday.

At 11 a.m., today, soon after her arraignment before Judge Hauser, Mrs. Phillips will be visited at the jail by her sister, Miss Ola Weaver.

FOUGHT WITH CHORUS GIRL

SMILE SEEMED FORCED

A tiny smile, which at times seemed forced, played now and then across the lips of Mrs. Phillips, when she observed newspaper men gazing at her. But when she looked up into her husband's eyes and then buried her fluffy brown head of hair on his shoulder the smile faded and a bit of seriousness passed over her countenance. They talked in whispers when they first met in Jailer Cronin's office.

In front of the big windows in Cronin's office the couple who are involved in California's most fiendish murder stood. An expression more of contentment and satisfaction that she was once more in the arms of the man for whose love she is charged with having killed Alberta Meadows, rather than fear of the serious charge which she faces was on the woman's face.

KISSES PASSIONATELY

She cuddled to him as a dove would its mate, and when he kissed her and whispered to her she played with the lapel of his coat. Then suddenly she would tighten her arms about his neck and passionately kiss his lips.

A few minutes later the couple posed for newspaper photographers. Phillips was the same debonair fellow he has been through the entire ordeal. He placed an arm about his wife's shoulders, holding a cigar in one hand. The other hand he placed on his wife's arm, which he stroked at intervals affectionately.

Between poses Mrs. Phillips would look up into her husband's eyes with that look: "Is it true that I have him again at last." In one pose the woman leaned her head against her husband's breast, closing her eyes, it seemed to blot out the tragedy of it all except she had him once more. After posing Mr. Phillips and his wife were allowed to talk together privately.

PHILLIPS CALM

Phillips arrived at the jail shortly before 5 p.m., dressed in an immaculate palm beach suit, a cap, and black patent leather shoes. Without commenting Phillips took a small package from under his arm and slowly opened it as newspaper men inquired how he felt and how he had spent the night. It was a one-pound box of candy which he had brought to Clara.

"I have just talked to your wife and she says she still loves you and you are the only sweetheart she ever had," a reporter told Phillips.

"That certainly is good information to hear," Phillips replied without emotion.

While he waited for his wife to be brought downstairs from the women's quarters, Phillips talked with his attorneys, McDonald and Thompson, and newspaper men.

On being asked if he had been released from custody Phillips said with a big smile:

"Yep, I'm a free citizen of the United States again."

And upstairs Mrs. Phillips was preparing to come down. She was daintily dressed in a black mesaline dress, covered in black silk lace and trimmed around the collar with fur.

A few minutes before Mrs. Phillips came down to greet her husband, a 19-year-old girl, Elinor Madison, who is charged with having stolen $90, broke down in the woman's quarters and began crying.

"What are you crying about, little girl?" Mrs. Phillips asked her, patting her on the back.

"I'm worried, that's all," the girl answered.

"Brace up and smile like I do," Mrs. Phillips told her.

The writer talked with Mrs. Phillips in Matron V. O. Bartoo's apartment in the jail shortly before she saw her husband.

"Do you still love your husband as much as ever?" she was asked.

"Indeed I do," and a big smile broke across her pretty features.

"Is he the only man you ever loved?"

FIRST AND ONLY LOVE

"Yes. He's the only man I ever loved. He's my first and only sweetheart."

"Then your nine years of married life has been one great big honeymoon?" the writer asked.

Clara Phillips paused. She gazed out the barred window, then turning and looking into the eyes of the reporter she answered slowly:

"Well, I guess so. That is—yes and no."

"Is there any statement you wish to make that might help you in the eyes of the public?" she was asked.

"Only I might say that I'm glad to be back in Los Angeles and that I have lots of friends who are glad to have me back."

"Have any friends called to see you?"

She would not answer.

"Have you seen your mother or sister since you returned?"

She would not answer.

RECEIVES NO CALLERS

Questions pertaining to the crime she is charged with having committed and the cause of it were evaded by Mrs. Phillips.

"Please do not ask me anything pertaining to it, as I can not answer," Mrs. Phillips requested.

When asked about reports that she had become jealous of her husband's stenographer in San Francisco and caused a scene in the former's office, she declined to answer. Likewise she refused to discuss a report that she had stabbed a man at Pantages' Broadway theater.

Mrs. Bartoo, matron of the County Jail, stated no one had called to see Mrs. Phillips.

WOULD COMBINE OIL COMPANIES

Merger Proposed to Mexican Finance Minister

Americans Demand Control, Pay Just Returns

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MEXICO CITY, July 17.—All oil companies in Mexico to be combined by the government into one concern under one head directed by Americans was the proposition made to Adolfo de la Huerta, Finance Minister, at conferences in New York, according to the Excelsior. Just returns were planned for the government, according to the newspaper, and the corporation was to have the right to explore virtually the whole republic, including virgin lands. The oil men are said to have made their proposals to De la Huerta in writing and he is expected to lay them before President Obregon upon his return to this city.

It was stated that the oil men agreed to pay the government on export taxes 40 per cent cash on what should be paid in Mexican government bonds under the law of June 7, 1921, although the agreement stipulates that this should be changed or modified later. No change is proposed in the present production tax. The oil men put up to De la Huerta the question of their rights prior to and after the present constitution went into effect.

DE LA HUERTA ONLY LISTENS

During he conferences De La Huerta is said to have limited himself to listening, leaving the decision regarding the agreement to President Obregon when the Finance Minister makes his recommendations upon his return. By these means, it is said, the oil men hope to reach a final agreement regarding future developments in Mexico.

Another important question covered was the development of present Federal zones, such as river beds and lagoons, which Mexico reserves the right to explore on its own account.

CLOSELY RELATED TO DEBT

The proposed oil men's agreement is closely related to the bankers' arrangements, as in order to pay the interest on foreign debts Mexico must reply on oil revenues as the principal source, plus the 10 per cent from profits of the railroads, which it is hoped will return to a paying basis with their return to the owners. The first payments on the foreign debt to begin next January will be raised from the Mexican oil companies, according to the law of June 7.

The Excelsior impresses the importance of the proposed agreement, mentioning the present salt water appearance in the oil fields as showing a tendency to drying up and that it is imperative at Mexico permit the exploration of new fields in order to enable the country to continue to derive revenues from oil.

Death Follows Youth's Dive in 'Shallow Water

Raymond Art, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Art of 1036 East Forty-eighth street, died yesterday at 4:10 p.m. at Pike's Sanatorium from injuries received when he dived into shallow water at Anaheim Landing last Sunday. The youth was a graduate of McKinley High School and popular in athletics. Besides his parents the boy is survived by a sister, Evelyn, and four brothers, La Vern, Marvin, Melvin and Dorian. The body is at Motell's Undertaking Parlors in Long Beach pending funeral arrangements.

LA FOLLETTE OPENS ELECTION CAMPAIGN

GIVES CAUSE OF PRESENT INDUSTRIAL DISEASE; PLAYS ENEMIES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MILWAUKEE, July 17.—Predatory wealth has reached undreamed-of proportions, and has dominated disarmament, Congress, the tariff and other Republican legislation, Senator La Follette stated in opening his campaign for renomination here tonight.

He stated that monopolistic control of industry through overcapitalization is the greatest cause of industrial disease, and to overcome monopolistic control he advocated that the government take over the natural resources of the country and extend the privilege of their exploitation through a strict leasing system.

Mr. La Follette spoke to several thousand persons and wound up his address without reference to the state ticket.

A few spectators left the hall early. These were characterized by Mr. La Follette as "a few of his enemies" and what he termed the "chaff" which is blown out in a hurry when "thrashing" is going on.

WOMAN DEAD, FOUR HURT IN AUTO CRASH

MACHINE FORCED OFF ROAD BY RACING CARS AND FATALITY RESULTS

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—Mrs. Ruby Downey of San Francisco was killed, and her husband, P. Downey, and Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Prince and C. Ehrhart were seriously injured when their automobile overturned today on the State Highway, south of the city. According to Hubert Schmitz, driver of the car, he was forced off the highway by two other machines, which were racing abreast toward him.

Mrs. Downey and the injured members of the party were brought to a hospital here where it was determined that Mrs. Downey was dead, that the Princes have fractured skulls and Ehrhart has possible internal injuries. Schmitz was unhurt.

Schmitz said the two racing cars sped by without their occupants having any knowledge, perhaps, that they had caused an accident.

bargaining, nevertheless insisted upon imposing special conditions.

FAVOR ACCEPTANCE

Illinois operators and others representing majority production in the unionized fields favored flat acceptance of President Harding's proposal.

"We beg to state," they said in a separate letter to the President, "that we accept your proposal of July 10 without reservation and qualification.

"While making this unreserved acceptance, we think that it is due to the public and to the industry that we should point out not only some suggestions which we believe would be helpful in the consummation of so great an undertaking, but also some of our difficulties in acceptance.

"Inasmuch as the old machinery for making scales based on the central competitive field has broken down, and is therefore now irretrievably abandoned, we suggest that it should be made possible under a national arbitration for negotiations to be undertaken by States or other large groupings of districts, subject to the general direction of the arbitration commission of the major issues involved.

"The wage scales expiring March 31, 1922, in the unionized industry based upon an inside day wage of $7.50 per day for mine labor, are far above the wage levels of the country. We had thought that the scale of November, 1917, based upon $6 per day for common labor would furnish a better medial line between the two parties. The largest part of the nonunion coal production of the country at the present moment is carried on below this level.

"We welcome an exhaustive inquiry into the functioning of the industry, as we believe any exposure of the truth of the situation will show the intolerable and wasteful conditions under which the unionized industry is married on under the present labor regime, and the penalties that are imposed upon the public by the inability to secure the enforcement of contracts and the thousand other ills. We suggest that it would be desirable to separate the problems of anthracite and bituminous coal."

PRESIDENT'S REPLY

After listening carefully to their report, the President made this reply:

"I have heard your decision. I would not be frank if I did not confess a disappointment in your lack of unanimity. To the large majority of you who have pledged readiness to resume activities under the government proposal I must express my own and the public's gratitude.

"We have now reached a point, owing to the refusal of mine workers and a minority of your operators to accept the proposed arbitration, where the good offices of the government in seeking a voluntary adjustment of the dispute between mine operators and mine workers are without avail.

"I cannot permit you to depart without reminding you that coal is a national necessity, the ample supply of which is essential likewise to common welfare and to interstate commerce.

"The freedom of action on the part of workmen and on the part of employers does not measure in importance with that of public welfare and national security. I, therefore, invite you to return to your mine properties and resume operations."

The President's reply, it was explained, marked the exhausting of his patience with both sides in his efforts to bring the strike to an end. He is determined to get coal for the country this winter at all hazards. His statement that coal is a necessity to interstate commerce needed no emphasis, it was pointed out, to indicate how thoroughly he has made up his mind to employ the powers of the Federal government to get coal mined.

Alfred M. Ogle, president of the National Coal Association, and chairman of the general operators' groups, said that the employers would accept the President's suggestions and in each district they would attempt the opening of mines by such methods and means as seemed available. He predicted that some immediate production would result from Pennsylvania mines, but declared that more difficulty might be encountered in Illinois and Indiana.

Earlier in the day Gov. Sproul, Senator Pepper, Pennsylvania, and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon conferred with the President. They assured the President that they were prepared to back him to the limit in any move he might make to bring an end to the strike in Pennsylvania. All of the powers of the State, Gov. Sproul assured the President, would be placed at the disposal of the Federal government.

It was noted in this connection that the Western Pennsylvania operators were opposed to acceptance of the President's proposal, that they are desirous of a showdown with the miners. Secretary Mellon's presence at the conference aroused considerable comment in view of the fact that he is a stockholder in some of the biggest mining companies in the Pittsburg district.

The districts which wanted to accept the President's proposal were Illinois, Iowa and small parts of Ohio. Those in favor of rejection were Indiana, Central and Western Pennsylvania, and most of Ohio.

President Lewis of the United Mine Workers declined to comment on President Harding's statement to the operators.

Noticias de Washington

WASHINGTON, julio 17.—Después de que fracasó el Presidente Harding con los empresarios de carbón, que no convinieron en aceptar los arreglos que él les proponía, cesó en sus esfuerzos para procurar la paz en la industria carbonera, e invitó a los operarios a que volvieran a abrir las minas a fin de trabajarlas con protección federal. Si aun así resultare imposible producir el carbón necesario para el bienestar público, no vacilará el Presidente en hacerse cargo de las minas y trabajarlas hasta que se llegue a un arreglo.

Una comisión financiera británica vendrá aquí en septiembre para negociar la conversión de la deuda de guerra británica a los Estados Unidos.

Trece Muertos en una Guerra de Minetos

WHEELING (Virginia Occidental) julio 17.—El Sheriff H. H. Divall y otras doce personas fueron muertas esta mañana, y no menos de otras veinticinco heridas en una combate en la mina Stadard de la Compañía Carbonera Richland, a dos millas de Wellesburg, según mensaje telefonico del corresponsal del Wheeling News en Wellesburg. La mina, que ha estado funcionando con trabajadores libres, fué atacada, según se dice, por un numeroso grupo de hombres de la linea del Pensilvania.

Los Huelguistas Provocan Retardo del Correo

WASHINGTON, julio 17.—Brauer, superintendente del servicio de correos del ferrocarril en Chicago, notificó hoy al Sr. Work, Administrador General de Correos, que ayer se descarriló un tren del Chicago, Burlington y Quincy en Lovilia, Condado de Monroe, y que mineros huelguistas, junto con simpatizadores de los operarios de taller, habían rehusado de modo persistente permitir a las cuadrillas de reparación que escombraran las vias. Tanto los pasajeros como las tripulaciones de los trenes y las cuadrillas de reparación fueron expulsados del tren, y la via ha quedado obstruida, produciendo demora en el transporte de la carga postal.

NOTAS LOCALES

El Juez Aprueba el Juicio de Divorcio

Ayer se supo que el martes próximo pasado había aprobado el Juez Presidente Willis un dictamen del Arbitro E. P. Werner, por el que se concedía divorcio del Dr. L. L. Krebs a la Sra. Florence Krebs, dama significada de la sociedad de Pasadena. El juicio, en el que la Sra. Krebs acusa de crueldad mental, fué interpuesto el primero de los corrientes, y fué oído diez días después por el Arbitro Werner.

La Sra. Krebs, que se casó con el Dr. Krebs en Des Moines, Iowa, el 17 de agosto de 1898, recitó una larga lista de supuestos actos de crueldad por parte de su adinerado marido, quien en su respuesta ha negado todos los cargos que ella le hace.

Muchos Vitorean a Moore

Hoy pronunció Charles C. Moore una serie de sustanciosos discursos en San Diego y localidades próximas, bosquejando el programa que desea le sirva de base para ser electo senador republicano. Fué aplaudidísimo por mitines desbordantes, que lo aclamaron como el próximo senador por California. En cuanto sitio se presentó fué recibido con entusiásticos vítores y felicitaciones. Habló como a 2000 Sandieguenses a medio día en el Teatro Spreckels, y se dirigió a una reunión casi tan numerosa como ésa esta noche en Coronado. Por la tarde, el candidato, acompañado de prominentes señores y damas de San Diego, visitó a Chula Vista y a National City.

El Jurado del Coroner Culpa a la Sra. Phillips

El veredicto del jurado del Coroner, pronunciado ayer en la mañana, estuvo expresado en claras y terminantes palabras. Dice así: "La occisa, Alberta Tremaine Meadows, fué muerta por fractura del cráneo, infligida a martillazos por una señora llamada Clara Phillips, con premeditado intento de matar y asesinar."

Tanto la hermana de la muerta, Genora Tremaine, como la testigo presencial, Peggy Caffee, estuvieron a punto de desmayarse—la una de pesar, y la otra por el terrible espectáculo del ensangrentado cadáver de Alberta Tremaine.

Más tarde, cuando se permitió a la Sra. Phillips que recibiera a su marido en la Cárcel del Condado, lo saludó con una sonrisa y sin verter lágrimas. No se dice qué frases cruzaron, pero se cree que la Sra. Phillips no se da cuenta de la gravedad de la prueba que se le aproxima.

Tchitchern Blames Hague Conference Failure on Sir Phillip Graeme

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, July 17.—With impassioned bitterness, George Tchitcherin, the soviet Foreign Minister, today banged on the table and said: "The Hague conference was completely wrecked by France and Great Britain, who made any compromise impossible by bringing up those questions of principles which Genoa proved unsolvable. The Hague conference was not carried out according to the program announced at Genoa. The conference was called to discuss the practical possibilities of Russia's regeneration, and likewise Europe's aid to Russia. Instead of this the British representative, Sir Phillip Lloyd Graeme, and French politicians brought up the old question of principles, upon which the Genoa conference was wrecked. Thereupon a compromise became impossible. It was evident that the powers were trying to impose unbearable burdens upon Russia without giving definite assurance of aid. Sir Phillip Graeme's undiplomatic tactics largely helped wreck The Hague conference."

M. Tchitcherin is installed in the reopened old Russian Embassy.

LENROOT LOSES IN TARIFF FIGHT

Attempts to Lower Cotton Goods Rates Fail

So-Called Rhode Island Joker Approved

Additional Duties Provided for Some Cloths

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Further attempts, led by Senator Lenroot, Wisconsin, to lower duties on cotton goods, failed today. Duties were approved on a number of paragraphs in the cotton schedule as recommended by the Finance Committee. In many cases the rates represented a reduction from those in the original McCumber bill as reported from the committee.

NOT LOW ENOUGH

Additional amendments reducing rates were presented by Senator Smoot, Utah, on behalf of the committee, in addition to those introduced by him last week. In several instances the reduced rates were not low enough to suit either Senator Lenroot or Senator Smith, South Carolina, who was in charge of the Democratic fight on the schedule, but their combined efforts were not sufficient to force further cuts.

Only four or five Republicans were willing to vote against the cotton duties today, although fourteen of them participated in the successful attack led by Lenroot last week.

JOKER UNDER FIRE

The so-called "joker" inserted by the Finance Committee at the request of former Senator Lippitt, a Rhode Island manufacturer of cotton goods, was under fire, but the Senate approved it as amended recently by the committee. Senator Lenroot charged that the paragraph was inserted in the bill almost exactly as suggested by Mr. Lippitt. Senator Smoot said it was true, with the exception that one clause was left out in the original paragraph. Senator Smoot said Mr. Lippitt had opposed any limitation of duties to 45 per cent, as provided in the amendment to the paragraph proposed by the committee last week.

The paragraph as approved by the Senate follows:

"In addition to the duty or duties imposed upon cotton cloth in paragraph 905 there shall be paid the following duties, namely: On all cotton cloths woven with eight or more harnesses, or with Jacquard motions, or with drop boxes, or with Lappett or swivel attachments, 12 per cent ad valorem. In no case shall the duty or duties imposed upon cotton cloth in paragraphs 902 or 903 exceed 45 per cent ad valorem."

Senators Lenroot, Smith and Simmons opposed the paragraph.

CALLED OUTRAGEOUS

"There never was a more outrageous piece of legislation perpetrated than proposed by this paragraph," said Senator Smith.

"It is the most ingenious provision ever written into a tariff bill," said Senator Simmons.

The paragraph was approved by a vote of 34 to 23. Previously a motion by Senator Lenroot to reduce the duty of 12 per cent, as provided in the paragraph to 5 per cent was defeated by a vote of 21 to 35. On this vote Senators Borah, Idaho, Kellogg and Nelson, Minnesota, were the only Republicans who joined Senator Lenroot in attempting to reduce the rate.

POLICE FIND THREE SHOT DEAD IN HOME

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

OAKLAND, July 17.—Police breaking into the home of Devi Castagnola, 28, a janitor, at the request of a neighbor today, found the bodies of Castagnola, his wife, Louise, and 3-year-old daughter Louisa huddled together in a room, a bullet hole through each of their heads. They had apparently been dead several hours. A revolver was found near by, and the police said there was evidence that Castagnola had done the shooting.

RUSSIAN WORD AT THE HAGUE

Soviet Commissioners Form Letter to Allies

Ask What Reconstruction May be Expected

Food Tax Published and is Payable in Grain

BY LARRY RUE

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

THE HAGUE, July 17.—While the Allied and neutral delegates devoted the Sabbath to golf balls around the canals and sand dunes, the Russians put their heads together and framed a letter to M. Pattin, president of the non-Russian commission in an effort to resurrect the conference, which though officially dead, is disturbing its heirs and embalmers by winking its eyes and kicking in its coffin and showing other signs of life.

The letter again defines the Bolshevik attitude in a way calculated to make the Russian peasants on one hand think they are standing pat, and the Allied and neutral delegates believe that M. Litvinoff is receding on every point responsible for the rupture. The letter, which will be forwarded tomorrow, comes as an answer to a letter from M. Pattin informing M. Litvinoff that the debts subcommission sees no further use for continuing negotiations, but announces that it is not too late yet for the Russians to put forward new proposals.

RUSSIAN LETTER

The Russian letter as outlined by the Reds, begins by asking the Allies and neutrals to state the total amount of compensation desired for nationalized properties, which they agree to pay as far as possible. The Russians demanded to know the extent of claims before, and now they say in verbal propaganda that the Allies and neutrals fear an answer because the amount is so staggering, exceeding the German reparations figures, that even America would see the necessity of slashing the figures from 50 to 75 per cent.

The letter avoids using the word credit but it again asserts that Russia's ability to meet its obligations depends upon help received from outside countries. It asks that if the countries are willing to help in reconstruction, how far they are prepared to go to this end. It carefully explains the reason for desiring to know the extent of the claims against Russia. Restitution of property in many cases is impossible, even if Russia is willing, it is asserted.

A recommendation is made that the Russians be permitted to settle private claims with the private holders, agreeing to consider the claim according to category instead of individually. The Bolsheviks promise that 90 per cent of the claims can be settled privately to the satisfaction of private holders, agreeing to arbitrate the other 10 per cent which cannot be settled otherwise.

FOOD TAX PUBLISHED

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MOSCOW, July 16.—Details of the food tax to be paid by peasants after harvest have been published by the soviet press. The decree is one of the most remarkable legal documents of any country. It realizes the ideal of "a progressive tax" advocated for many years by reformers in France, England and Germany.

Allowances are made for dependents, etc., and though prosperous peasants are required to pay on a higher scale than the poorer fellow, there is a wide margin of advantage left for individual initiative. Finally—a point of enormous importance in Russia today—the tax is not onerous, running from nothing at all in the lowest category to 20 per cent of the total crop as highest.

PAYMENT IN GRAIN

For the first time, this year the tax is to be collected only in grain; hay, vegetables, etc., being charged as grain, according to the fixed scale.

Contrary to what had been stated in certain quarters, fifteen provinces listed as "famine" are required to pay only one-fifth of the tax. Seed grain furnished them by the government is not to be required until after the harvest of 1925, when they are expected to pay in full.

Simplification, introduced by collection in grain only, will save money and trouble in collection and paves the way for much greater saving by collection in cash which comes into effect next year if soviet money has become sufficiently stable.

At first sight the decree is a portentous and terrible document, for it includes no less than 395 categories. In practice it is extremely simple, and, once given peasant's location, the amount of land he farms, number of members of his family and cows, sheep and horses, it is instantly possible to state exactly which class he is in and how much he is to pay.

POLO NOW POPULAR WITH FILIPINO BOYS

ACCIDENT TO BRITISH PRINCE STARTS FAD; LAD WEARS PATCH OVER EYE

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

MANILA (P. I.) June 28.—Since the Prince of Wales received a black eye during a polo game here recently, Filipino urchins living in th vicinity of Forbes Field have taken up the sport. Polo as played by these youngsters, however, differs considerably from the matches staged by the regular teams.

The players are "mounted" on bamboo sticks some five feet in length which they guide with reins made from nipa. Their mallets are curved pieces of split bamboo upon the ends of which are fastened empty condensed milk cans as mallet heads. Between goals, which are represented by a pair of old scarlet pantaloons hoisted on a stick at one end of the field, which is the street leading to the polo club and by a torn emerald green camisa (shirt) at the other, the charging palyers knock a real polo ball obtained from the club.

One 10-year-old player, captain of his team, in imitation of the Prince of Wales, after his accident, wears a black patch over his right eye. He also has at hand his personal "physician" bearing a wicker basket full of old medicine bottles.

ENRAGED FATHER DROWNS TWO

Triple Tragedy Follows Boy's Punishment by Mother

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WINFIELD (Kan.) July 17.—Enraged because his wife chastised their 3-year-old son, Otis, for teasing a pet cat, Daniel Goors, aged 40 years, a farmer, near Atlanta, Kan., twenty-five miles northeast of here, last night beat his wife with a club, seriously, but not fatally, and drowned his son and mother-in-law, Mrs. Carrie Newson, 65 years of age, in a near-by creek, and then killed himself with a rifle.

Widow of Late Impressario is to Wed Prince

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 17. — Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein, widow of the impresario, announced today that she was engaged to marry the Prince Oleg V. Radomar, whom she described as a Montenegrin Prince, a cousin to the King of Italy, born in Russia, and schooled in Petrograd. The Prince is, according to Mrs. Hammerstein, in his twenties and many years her junior.

The Prince is in Smyrna working for the Standard Oil Company, says Mrs. Hammerstein, in her suite at the Herald Square Hotel, and the date of their marriage is uncertain. It all depends, she admitted, on how long it takes attorneys to straighten out her business affairs. It may be a year and it may be longer.

"I met the Prince in the fall of 1920," she said, "when he came to the Manhattan Operahouse to offer to sing at the Oscar Hammerstein memorial concert. The Prince has a splendid voice. He was a captain in the Allied armies during the war, fighting on the east and west fronts. I do not think the difference in our ages will make any difference in life. The Prince is very serious-minded and he does not care for frivolous things. No, he is not wealthy."

Admiral Togo's Flagship May Miss Boneyard

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TOKIO, July 17.—A local movement has been started to save the Japanese battleship Mikasa from the scrap heap, although disarming it and rendering useless for war purposes. This action is urged for sentimental reasons as the Mikasa was Admiral Togo's flagship in the battle with the Russians in the Sea of Japan and it is comparable with Admiral Nelson's victory. Admiral Togo when interviewed, said he hoped the ship would not be sunk or demolished, but the matter was in the hands of the Minister of the Navy. It is generally believed here that America will recognize Japan's sentimental reason for keeping the Mikasa and it will be saved for future generations.

Indian Braves End Sun Dance; Tests Mettle

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALT LAKE CITY, July 17.—The annual sun dance of the Fort Duchesne Indians ended at sundown there yesterday after a three days' continuous dance, the participants partaking of neither food nor drink during the ceremony. Many of the braves fell from exhaustion during the dance, but as soon as they recovered they resumed the barbaric hop, skip and shuffle around a pole, on which was a buffalo head.

Ear-splitting screeches, accompanied by volley after volley of shots directed at the buffalo head, opened the spectacular dance. Following this the Indians, brandishing ancient tomahawks and bowie knives, engaged in a sing-song chant accompanied by Indian tomtoms. Hundreds of white persons were witnesses at various times at the dance.

SANTA CRUZ MAN ACCIDENT VICTIM

AUTO PLUNGES OVER BANK NEAR MONTEREY; CRARUP IS FATALLY HURT

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

MONTEREY, July 17. — The body of Carl Christian Crarup of Santa Cruz, who died yesterday as the result of injuries received when his automobile plunged down a 100-foot embankment on the coast nineteen miles south of here, was prepared today for shipment to his home. Passing automobilists, attracted by the constant sounding of an automobile horn from the bottom of the embankment, looked down and saw the wrecked machine and Crarup, who was sitting on a rock. The machine had fallen in such a position that a rock was pressing against the horn button. Crarup died a few minutes after help reached him.

OFFICER WOUNDED

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—Eugene Gfroerer, a special policeman, was in a hospital here today seriously wounded as the result of a pistol encounter with two suspected robbers last night. He said the men opened fire when he halted them and he returned the fire. He is expected to recover.

TO TAKE OVER ROAD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The Pennsylvania Railroad was given authority by the Interstate Commerce Commission today to take over all the properties of the Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad by a 999-year lease. Minority stockholders objected.

RURAL SCHOOL BOOKS CHOSEN

Library Suitable for One-Room Building Named

Many Old Favorites in Educator's List

Volumes for Eight Grades Submitted

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, July 17.—A library of twenty-five books for a one-room country school has been selected by Dr. John J. Tigert, U. S. Commissioner of Education. The list is Dr. Tigert's ballot in the voting contest which is being conducted among librarians and teachers on a two-foot shelf for a country school, and sponsored by the American Library Association and the National Education Association.

Dr. Tigert's list follows:

For first grade: Indian Child Life, by Deming; Mother stories, by Maud Lindsay; Mother Goose, illustrated by Arthur Packham.

For second grade: After They Came Out of the Ark, by E. Boyd Smith; The Show Baby, by Josephine D. Peary; The Early Cave Men, by Katherine Dopp.

For third grade: All the Year Round, Vol. I, Autumn; Vol. II, Winter; Vol. III, Spring; Children's Book, by Horace Scudder; Child's Garden of Verses by Robert Louis Stevenson.

For fourth grade: Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, by Lewis Carroll; The Firelight Fairy Book, by H. B. Boston; Just So Stories, by Kipling.

For fifth grade: Trees Every Child Should Know, by Rogers; The Bible for Young People; Robinson Crusoe.

For sixth grade: Uncle Remus; His Songs and Sayings, by J. C. Harris; New Europe, by Allen; Hans Brinker, by Dodge.

For seventh grade: Little Women, by Alcott; George Washington, by Scudder; Tom Sawyer, by Mark Twain.

For eighth grade: Tales from Shakespeare; Ivanhoe, by Scott; Natural History of the Farm, by J. G. Needham; The Home and the Family, by Kinne and Cooley.

The two associations planned the voting contest in the hope that many schools now without books fr general reading will be encouraged to make new efforts to establish school libraries and will be helped in the choice of books.

Filipino Amuck; Eight Persons Cut with Bolo

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

MANILA, July 17.—A Filipino ran amuck today in the heart of the American residential, hotel and club district, slashing and cutting eight persons with a bolo. A large crowd pursued the Filipino to the beach and Manila Bay, where he jumped into the water and was lassoed and captured by an American Army captain, who had followed him in a boat.

There were no Americans among the frenzied bolo wielder's victims. Among the injured were a Filipino woman whose both hands were cut off and who may die, a native girl, 8 years old, who was wounded in the back and neck, and another Filipino girl of 18, who was injured when she jumped into the street from a second-story window to escape her pursuer.

Two Dead, Two Are Missing in Island Wreck

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HONOLULU (T. H.) July 17.—A train of forty-one freight cars, loaded with pineapples, plied up today on the Oahu Railroad when rounding a curve and caused the worst accident in the road's history, with two known dead and two others believed killed.

The fireman and engineer of the train were killed instantly, while the conductor and brakeman are missing and are believed to be under the wreckage, dead. Two others were injured. The property damage is estimated at $25,000.

ARREST IN CHINA TO BE TEST CASE

PORTLAND MAN'S CASE WILL SET PRECEDENT FOR EXTRADITION

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

SHANGHAI, July 17.—The arrest here of David Lightner, alias D. L. Hibsman, who arrived on the Norwegian steamship Louise Nelson and who is wanted in Portland, Or., on a charge of having violated the Federal narcotic laws, promises to settle the question of whether extradition is possible for China to the United States or from the United States to China. The case also is expected to determine the status of the United States court in China, whether it is a regular Federal District Court or merely an extraterritorial tribunal. Existing laws leave this question open and this is the first case of its kind on record.

Lightner declares he will fight extradition.

Try This On Your Catarrh

Hawking, Spitting and Foul Breath Relieved by "Deo" Vapors

Catarrh is nothing more nor less than a chronic inflammation of the mucous membrane of the nose and throat. It usually begins with a cold in the head, although it may result from breathing dust or any foreign matter that irritates the delicate membranes.

Ordinary methods of treating catarrh are failures simply because they don't reach the affected areas. You must get to heal those raw, tender spots that are hidden away where liquid and sprays never touch them. The best and most effective method is to inhale the fumes of "Deo" each night and morning.

Place a spoonful or "Deo" in a bowl or cup and hold over a flame. Fill your lungs and air passages with the soothing, healing vapor. Hold your breath for a few seconds and inhale slowly. This allows the vapor to penetrate every nook and corner, destroying germs and gradually healing the inflamed membranes.

Right away you begin to feel better. That nasty dripping in the throat will cease, the hawking and spitting will stop—your head will feel clearer and you will again be able to breathe freely through your nose.

"Deo" is the trade name of Dean's Eucalyptus Ointment, which is composed of entirely antiseptic, healing oils. Guaranteed to give satisfactory results or your druggist will refund your money. Sold everywhere in 50-cent tubes and 50-cent jars. Ask for the genuine "Deo," manufactured by Dennis Mfg. Co., Berkeley, Cal. (Advertisement.

WARNS AGAINST PROPAGANDISTS

Wainwright Says They Seek to Weaken America

Nation's Colleges Unwitting Agents, He Asserts

Prophesies Political Parties May be Wrecked

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 17.—Organized enemies, often led and financed by aliens, are trying to destory the American republic, J. Mayhew Wainwright, Assistant Secretary of War, said last night at the convocation of the twenty-third summer session of Columbia University. These sinister forces, he said, aim to wipe out the Army and Navy and turn America into a weakling nation.

The country's most respected seats of learning, Mr. Wainwright asserted, harbor the active agents and unwitting tools of this propaganda. The antagonism between capital and labor he described as America's greatest menace. Unrest, he attributed principally to the unassimilated masses. Indifference of citizens, he said, was causing lack of courage among public men, adding that blocs are weakening and may destroy the party system. Contempt for the law and the sanctity of human life he pointed out as a national shortcoming, adding:

"Even murder appears to be condoned by large sections and elements of our population."

Mr. Wainwright, a graduate of Columbia College in the class of 1884, spoke on "The National Outlet."

OPPOSES BLOCS

Mr. Wainwright appealed to the students to enlist actively against the forces of discord and to uphold the traditional American principles of sound government. He said an impression prevailed that the universities "have permitted their professors and instructors to advance theories of social and political reform inconsistent with and destructive to the underlying principles which our forefathers founded our government upon and deemed essential for the hopes and future happiness of the people."

Blocs will wreck the party system, Mr. Wainwright prophesied. "The party system of responsibility is weakened and may be destroyed by blocs organized for this or that particular interest or element," he added. "Farmers seeking special loans of public funds, industrial interests seeking undue advantage by way of traffic duties, veteran soldiers seeking extra compensation for their service, communities seeking special favors by way of appropriations for local purposes—all combining for reciprocal support—are resulting in the overthrow of the sound doctrine that the general good should be superior to all other interests and are placing sectional and special interests above national interests."

"DEATH WATCH" DRIVER FOUND

Mrs. Phillips, for she was one of them, recognized me as the driver she had had that morning.

"Both of the girls came up to my car in the morning in Mercantile Place, between Fifth and Sixth streets, off Broadway, and Mrs. Phillips had ridden with me.

"As she climbed into the car the other girl, whom I learned to be Peggy Caffee, said, 'You be sure to call me,' and Mrs. Phillips replied, 'I'll call you just as soon as I get home.'

CHANGED HER MIND

"She told me to drive her to Fifty-third and Figueroa streets, but as we got to Sixth and Hill streets, she suddenly changed her mind and asked me to go to the auto parking place at Ninth and Broadway. She said she wished to leave some keys in her car."

This is the place where Mrs. Meadows kept her coupe, and where Mrs. Phillips, Peggy and Mrs. Meadows met on the next afternoon, shortly before the murder.

"I do not know what she did in the automobile park, but she came out in a few moments and asked me to use all possible speed to take her to the Fifty-seventh-street address."

Mrs. Phillips lived at 703 West Fifty-seventh street.

"So that night when I saw the two women again, Mrs. Phillips said: 'Why, you're the driver I had this morning.'

GIVES NEW ADDRESS

"I thought she wished to go home, and started in that direction, but she asked to go to University avenue and Thirty-seventh street. I told her these two streets run parallel, so she said to go to Figueroa street and University avenue, and she would direct me from there.

"Mrs. Caffee said to her, 'Do you know where she lives?' and Mrs. Phillips replied, 'I can show him from out there.'

'When we got to University and Figueroa, she asked me to drive west on Thirty-seventh street and about midway in that block stopped and both got out.

"Mrs. Phillips was wearing a cape. I do not know whether she was carrying anything under it or not."

GIRLS WALKED EAST

"After Mrs. Phillips paid her bill, the two girls waited on the sidewalk until I turned around and started back to town. I looked around as I got to the corner and saw them walking back east on the north side of the street."

The location which Mr. Street designated is three houses west of the Arvilla Apartments, 815 West Thirty-seventh street. From witnesses in the apartments it has been learned that Mrs. Phillips tiptoed upstairs, by means of a back stair, and listened outside Mrs. Meadows's rooms, but found she was not there.

Investigators last night believed importance may be placed in the selection of the Pico street and Grand avenue address where Mrs. Phillips met the taxicab, so that the call could not be traced back to her. The two women had been at the home of Peggy Caffee, 1325 DeLong street, only a short distance away.

"Bluebeard" and His One Real Wife

Henri Landru and Mme. Landru

The latter, an honest, hard-working Parisian woman, had no suspicion of the real character of her terrible husband up to the time of his arrest. He explained his frequent, extended absences by saying he was obliged to be away on business. He maintained a small trade in automobiles as a blind.

LANDRU OUTWITS POLICE

How Famous Bluebeard Disarmed Suspicion When Questioned at His "Death Villa"

BY WILLIAM LE QUEUX

[In preceding articles Mr. Le Queux, the criminologist who helped to convict Landru of his many murders, has related the criminal beginnings of the French Bluebeard and described the unique method by which he disposed of Mme. Cuchet and her son. It was their cremation at Landru's villa at Vernouillet which first caused the police to suspect him. An officer was sent to question Landru about the huge volume of black smoke seen by neighbors to issue from the villa chimney at 3 o'clock in the morning.]

CHAPTER III

THE SECRET OF "THE DEVIL'S OVEN"

The sudden and unwelcome appearance of the police officer upon the scene of the double crime startled Landru. Next second, however, he recovered himself. His self-possession was always marvelous.

"Yes; what do you want?" he asked, holding his breath, but outwardly betraying no concern.

"I am here to make an inquiry," gravely replied the tall man in uniform. "There have been complaints at the bureau. You have been burning something very obnoxious during the night. Monsieur Meunier, the butcher in the Rue de Mantes, says that while passing your house with his wife, on their way home at 2 o'clock in the morning, they saw thick black smoke coming from your chimney, with a terrible smell of burning. I am here to investigate."

Landru laughed in the man's face.

"Your butcher friend must have been under some delusion!" he replied. "I have burned nothing. Come in and see. Come at once into the kitchen and satisfy yourself. I have not been awake at 3 o'clock in the morning, for, fortunately enough, I am a very sound sleeper."

"Two other people have complained—one a doctor from Triel, called to visit a patient in the Rue de Hameau," said the constable. "Hence my orders to investigate."

"Quite so," laughed Landru with his usual bonhomie. "It is your duty to call. Well, you are certainly at liberty to look around. Come," and he took the officer to the scene of the tragedy, all trace of which had, of course, been obliterated.

DISARMS SUSPICION

Landru, with his wonderful air of cool nonchalance, completely disarmed any suspicions the constable might have entertained, for the latter, after glancing around the small kitchen, passed to the dining-room.

Though all the time Landru was highly alarmed that suspicion should have been aroused against him, he treated the village constable with the most careless nonchalance, apparently highly amused that the local doctor and the butcher should have believed that they had seen smoke issuing from his kitchen chimney at an hour when he was fast asleep.

"Who else was here in the house?" asked the policeman.

"My wife and my stepson Andre," was the assassin's unhesitating reply.

"And where are they? Perhaps they will confirm your statement. It would be better."

"They will, no doubt, if necessary. But they are both in Paris—visiting friends."

"When will they return?"

For a second Landru hesitated. That question was a poser. He saw that the apparently simple garde-champetre—the rural French policeman—had received instructions from his brigadier to make more than a casual inquiry.

He had never dreamed that the smoke and consequent smell outside would attract anybody's attention in the dead of night!

The situation, he instantly realised, was one of gravest peril. Therefore he preserved that sphinx-like attitude which was his chief characteristic, and his deep-set eyes twinkled as he explained to his visitor that Mme. Cuchet and her son had gone to visit her sister and was staying the night with her.

"They will be back tomorrow, I expect," he added. "Then please come and make inquiry."

Landru, shrewd and quick-witted, wanted to gain time. He already had his excuse in readiness for the disappearance of the pair, but until next day he did not deem it wise to put it forward. If the police in Paris inquired of Mme. Friedmann regarding her sister she would reply that she had not seen her. In such case his intention was to explain that he had quarreled with the woman Cuchet, who had taken her belongings and left him.

CHANGES PLANS

As soon as the police officer had gone the assassin returned to the little dining-room with its carved buffet and, snatching up the fresh carnations he had been arranging for the benefit of his next victim, Mme. Labord-Line, he carried them out into the garden and tossed them away. In view of his unexpected visitor it was, he saw, far too dangerous to invite his newest conquest down to Vernouillet; therefore, he entered his car and drove in all haste back to Neuilly. There he garaged the car and, taking a taxi, called upon the good-looking South American widow.

On greeting her, he bent and kissed her hand with exquisite politeness. Then he said:

"I am full of regret, my adored. Instead of taking you out to my little villa today, I have just learned of some very sad news. A dear relative of mine was killed in the air raid in Belleville last night and I am compelled to travel to Lyons to break the terrible news to his poor wife and family."

"How very dreadful!" exclaimed the widow. "I heard the bombs at about 2 o'clock this morning. They say that over twenty people were killed."

"Yes—and sixty others injured, poor things!" was her bearded lover's reply. "I am so extremely sorry to disappoint you, dearest, but under the circumstances you will forgive me, will you not?" he asked, looking at her with that strange, intense gaze which few women could withstand.

"Of course, my dear heart," she replied. "When will you return?"

"Ah! Alas! I cannot say. I may be away for a week—perhaps even more. But I will write to you." After he had kissed her fondly and repeated those parrot-like vows of undying affection which were ever upon his lying lips—in those same terms of passionate endearment he used to dozens of other women—he left her and drove home to the bosom of his family, to whom his absences from home "on business" were so frequent that they were never now remarked.

Mme. Landru, an honest, hard-working woman, of course, knew nothing of her husband's love nest, that well-furnished little flat au troisieme in the Rue des Petits-Champs, or "The Lodge" out at Vernouillet, in one of the most picturesque parts of France. She regarded her Henri as a busy, money-making husband who, even if he had been gripped by the law for little pieces of sharp practice, was none the less a devoted husband and affectionate father.

America and Britain Ready to Sign Up on Question of Palestine and Mesopotamia

BY HENRY WALES

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, July 17.—Simultaneously with the opening of the League of Nations Council today, Ambassador Harvey announced the completion of successful negotiations between the United States and Great Britain regarding mandates. Treaties covering all the British mandates under the League of Nations, including Mesopotamia and Palestine, already have been drafted by Lord Balfour and Mr. Harvey and are awaiting the council's approval for ratification by the Parliament and the Senate.

A solution of the vexing mandate problems, which have been hanging fire for three years, permits the exploitation of the oil fields in Mesopotamia and stabilizes the Zionist movement in Palestine.

The Mesopotamia mandate does not change the previous existing mandate and it does not provide for the United States obtaining from the Germans their concessions on oil lands, but it does provide that Americans will be permitted to prospect in the region and search for oil deposits, enjoying equal rights on any claims they obtain with other foreigners or native Arabs.

The original Anglo-Franco and Italian holdings, embracing nearly all the known oil deposits of Mesopotamia, are not changed—Germany's former holdings being divided between the Allies with the United States left out through not ratifying the Treaty of Versailles.

Mr. Harvey indicated that the United States is negotiating similar treaties with Paris for the mandate territory which France holds, including Syria.

The drafts of the treaties already framed will be submitted to the League Council tomorrow for approval and then will be placed before the assembly in September at Geneva, after which they will be sent to the respective legislative bodies for ratification.

Faithful unto Death

From Woolwich, Me., comes this story of devotion: While relatives were searching for Miss Juanita H. Wright, 75 years old, her 2-year-old collie dog, dripping wet, appeared on the scene.

The dog, who had been an almost constant companion of the woman, led the searchers to an ice pond near by, where the body of his mistress was found in shallow water. It was evident from tracks on the shore that the collie had tried to pull her from the pond. Miss Wright had been in poor health.—[Our Dumb Animals.

DAILY TRADE TALK

Bank Growth Goes on; Oil, Bond and Mining News; World's Wants; Air Tragedy

Extension of banking facilities in Southern California continues at an unprecedented rate. Last week permits for two new banks and one branch were granted to institutions in this territory by the State Banking Department. The Security State Bank of South Pasadena will be opened with an original capitalization of $50,000, and conduct a general commercial business. The Security State Bank of Glendale will start operations with $50,000 capital, and also engage in commercial banking. The First Bank of Hermost Beach is to open a branch at Second street and Camino Real in that city, according to the department's official statement.

MAIL-ORDER BUSINESS

Business of the great chain and mail-order houses showed a large gain in June over the corresponding month last year, according to sales statistics just compiled. As well as showing a gain over 1921, the June percentages for the three leading houses of the group averaged a 7 per cent gain over the average for the first six months of 1922. The figures also show that chain-store improvement, which began earlier, held steadier during the first half of this year than that of the mail-order group.

During the first six months of 1922, F. W. Woolworth & Co. showed a 12.82 per cent gain over the corresponding period last year, while increases of 12.46 and 11.35 per cent were scored by Montgomery, Ward & Co., and the S. S. Kresge Company, respectively. Increases in June, 1922, over June, 1921, were, Montmogery, Ward & Co., 27.17 per cent; S. S. Kresge Company, 16.49 per cent, and F. W. Woolworth, 15.73 per cent.

A.I.B. CONVENTION

The American Institute of Banking is holding its annual convention this week in Portland. Several hundred delegates are in attendance, including a liberal representation from Southern California. The A.I.B. is composed of bank employees and specializes in educational development. The Los Angeles chapter is said to be one of the largest in the country.

PRINTED MATTER

An irresponsible fly-by-nighter frequently uses just as attractive stationery as an old line thoroughly reliable concern. Two offers recently made illustrate the point. One contains a list of high grade corporation securities. The other, just as attractive typographically, and even more convincing to the uninitiated, urged the sale of the investor's Liberty bonds and the reinvestment in the worthless, or at least doubtful offerings of the faker. It is just as important to your pocket-book to consult a reliable investment banker before making commitments as it is for your health to consult a reputable physician.

WHAT THE WORLD WANTS

Chile, heretofore but inadequately represented among the countries seeking information relative to the source of American goods, comes briskly to the fore in this week's crop of inquiries compiled by the Department of Commerce. Spain and Italy still lead in the number of inquiries listed. In the commodities desired, foodstuff retains its predominant position on the list, and the demand for lumber, naval stores, chemicals and pharmaceutical products remains strong. Manchuria is represented in a request for stationery and school supplies.

OIL PRODUCTION

June production by all oil companies in California, amounting to 355,274 barrels per day, shows a decrease of 2102 barrels per day as compared with May, according to statistics released yesterday by the Standard Oil Company of California. June shipments were 307,415 barrels per day, an increase of 22,505 barrels per day over May. Despite this improvement in consumption and slight decrease in production, there was an average daily surplus of 47,879 barrels. Stocks were increased 1,435,776 barrels during the month. Sixty-eight new wells were completed during the month, with an additional daily production of 35,986 barrels. Total stocks of crude oil on hand in this State on June 30 were 43,477,237 barrels, an increase of 8,455,325 barrels during the last six months.

NEWS OF OATMAN

Officials of the Gold Dust Company announce that the result of diamond drilling operations in the 500-foot level of the company's property in the Oatman district were highly satisfactory, and that preparations now are being made thoroughly to sample certain sections of the upper workings, and in making preparations for stopping ore with the idea of placing the property on a paying basis after the Tom Reed sampler is in operation. It is planned to start extraction of ore from exposed faces on the second level, and to drive laterals into ore shown by the drills on the 500-foot level, and then begin work of extracting ore lying between the 500 and 200-foot levels. The work of prospecting with drills has been ended for the time being, as the company feels that it has proved up what it desired to prove, and operations henceforth will consist of regular mining development as outlined.

TRAGEDY OF THE AIR

The financial district was shocked yesterday because of the tragic death of Kenneth C. Dulin and Gerald H. Schellenbach, two of the best known and most popular of the younger men in the investment banking business. Each victim of the uncertainty of aeronautics was an officer in the firm of Hunter, Dulin & Co., and each was recognized as an able, conscientious, and well grounded expert in a profession which held out to them alluring futures. Many expressions of sympathy found their way to the offices of the company, accompanied by evidences of the high regard in which the men were held by their associates and the business community.

OFFER INDUSTRIALS

New underwritings yesterday were below the usual number for the first of the week. The only flotation to appear on the Pacific Coast was an offering of $1,750,000 Johnson - Cowdin - Emerich, Inc. first mortgage, twenty-year 8 per cent sinking fund gold bonds, made by Merrill, Lynch & Co., at 99, to yield 7.10 per cent. The company is one of the leading manufacturers of ribbons in the country, whose earnings last year were 6.60 times interest charges on this issue.

MOTHER LODE MINES

The Mother Lode gold mining district in Placer county will have a revival of activity, according to yesterday's announcement of the formation of the Eagle Gold Mining and Milling Company, which intends to operate nine claims in that district. O. L. Randall is president of the new concern and A. M. Dunlop is general manager. A 100-ton mill will be erected on the property, it has been announced. Finances for the work have been provided by eastern interests.

FOOD IN STORAGE

The weekly cold storage report issued yesterday shows the following total supplies of commodities held in local warehouses: eggs, 215,503 cases; butter, 1,582,702 pounds; cheese, 1,277,547 pounds; apples, 1585 boxes; potatoes, 42,942 sacks, and onions, 90 sacks. All of the commodities, with the exception of apples, show increases over the previous week.

MUNICIPAL ISSUES

The William R. Staats Company will offer today $50,000 Harper-Fairview School District 5 per cent bonds, due from 1924 to 1948, at prices to yield 4.60 per cent.

Elliott & Horne report the delivery of $105,000 city of Los Angeles street improvement 7 per cent bonds, issues for paving Hoover street from Slauson avenue to Manchester Boulevard.

DIVIDEND DECLARED

The third quarterly dividend on the 8 per cent preferred stock of the First National Loan and Discount Company has been declared and is being paid to stockholders of record June 30.

BOND SALES

A syndicate composed of R. H. Moulton & Co., the Security Trust and Savings Bank, and the California Bank were the successful bidders at yesterday's sale of $175,000 Riverside High School 5 per cent

Collector's Definition of Transfer

Collector Goodcell yesterday issued the following statement:

Numerous inquiries have been received concerning Section 202 (c) of the Revenue Act of 1921, which provides that for the purpose of the income tax, no gain or loss shall be recognized when property held for investment or for productive use in trade or business (not including stock-in-trade or other property held primarily for sale) is exchanged for property of a like kind or use.

To constitute an exchange, the transaction must be a reciprocal transfer of property for property as distinguished from a transfer of property for a money consideration. In such an exchange neither principal would pay a commission to the other, although a broker, in his capacity as such, negotiated the exchange for either principal, the fact that the broker was paid a commission for his services would not of itself take the transaction out of the classification as an exchange.

If a person owning 100 shares of stock in "A" corporation should instruct a broker to exchange them for shares of stock in "B" corporation, it would be essential in order to bring the transaction within the meaning of the exchange provisions of the Revenue Act, that the person owning the shares of the "B" corporation stock should receive the 100 shares of "A" corporation stock, and that the person owning the 100 shares of "A" corporation stock should receive the shares of "B" corporation stock. The stock received in exchange should be treated by each party as taking the place of the property exchanged. If the instructions to the broker are to sell 100 shares of stock in "A" corporation and invest the proceeds in shares of stock in "B" corporation, the transaction cannot be treated as an exchange, but is a sale of "A" corporation stock and a purchase of "B" corporation stock.

In all cases where there is a doubt as to whether the transaction is a sale or exchange, all facts connected with the transaction should be transmitted to the Bureau of Internal Revenue for a ruling.

INVESTMENT BUYING IN EVIDENCE

High Grade Bonds Popular; Stock Market Indifferent to Labor Trouble

BY FRANKLIN R. SPRAGUE
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 17.—Further evidence of investment buying of high-grade bonds was to be discovered today. Many of the Liberty issues advanced to the highest prices recorded. Likewise there was strength in a number of the gilt-edge corporation issues, among them the Reading 4's, and the Pennsylvania general 4 1-2's. Aside from this display, the course of today's market was dull and uninteresting. The bond market as a whole could not be described as other than firm, the stock market was irregular, wheat and cotton were reactionary. The foreign exchanges moved over a narrow range, apparently awaiting some definite development with relation to the financial situation in Central Europe.

The strike news, both rail and mine, was looked on with alarm. On the whole, however, it could not be said that today's market reflected the adverse character of events even though it is realized that the situation which is developing may create serious industrial problems for the future.

However, the stock market was serenely indifferent to labor difficulties just as it has been all along. There was evidence of a firm underlying position throughout the list and in several instances, notably among the equipments, some good-sized advances were recorded during the morning trading. Baldwin, for a little while when it rose above 121, displayed some of the buoyancy which marked the course of this stock in the market of 1919. It was significant of the attitude of the market toward the railroad strike that the stocks of the carriers maintained a strong front, with no liquidation manifest in any quarter of the list.

A further easing of money was indicated by the course of rates today. On demand loans 3 per cent ruled throughout the day, but of greater significance was a drop of 1-4 of 1 per cent on time money for sixty to ninety days, and loans of four to five months, were to be had at 4 1-4 per cent.

The foreign exchanges moved without any degree of significance in any slight changes as were recorded.

METAL MARKETS

Market Review

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CLEVELAND, July 17.—The Daily Metal Trade today says steel and fuel trades begin to show commencement over growing conviction of near-by re-establishment by President Harding of war-time priority shipping regulations in relieving coal supplies with likely prospect of the greatest car shortage in the history of the American Railroads lying just ahead, even if the mine strike were settled today.

Further curtailment of middle western iron and steel activity takes place and four Youngstown district blast furnaces bank since Saturday. Chicago smelters are taking large tonnage of southern pig iron but New England users are well covered. Buying of copper at New York is active at 14 cents, delivered. Tin is higher at 30¾ cents. Heavy business is done in zinc at 5.75 cents, St. Louis. Lead is quiet at 5.45 to 50 cents, St. Louis.

The Land and The Bond

The Sutter Basin Company Land Mortgage 6% Gold Bonds due 1937 are secured by 54,208 acres in Sutter County, California. This land is among the richest and most productive in the State. It is practically all under irrigation and cultivation.

Practically any crop that can be grown in Central California will grow on this rich river bottom land. Wheat, barley, rice, beans, grains, vegetables, fruits and sugar beets are cultivated extensively.

The mortgage securing the bonds is a first mortgage on this land, except for reclamation assessments, and after deducting such assessments the value of the land is conservatively placed in excess of $15,000,000. A particular feature that makes these bonds so attractive as an investment, is the personal and unconditional guarantee of prompt payment of principal, interest and sinking fund by J. Ogden Armour, and this guarantee is incorporated in the bonds.

You can obtain these bonds in denominations as small as $100 at price of 97 and interest to yield 6.30%. For full information write, telephone or call at our office today. Ask about the Sutter Basin Bonds.

IMPORTANT NOTICE
To holders and prospective buyers of securities of
UNION OIL COMPANY OF CALIFORNIA
WE are informed that at a stockholders' meeting of the above Company, held July 14, 1922, the recent action of the Directors in creating and selling $10,000,000 of 20-year Non-Callable 6% Bonds, was ratified by a vote of approximately 95% of the outstanding stock.
These bonds are now outstanding, subject to the terms of the sinking fund under which $500,000 per annum, in semi-annual installments, shall be available for redemption purposes. The first of these installments of $250,000 is due August 1, for the purchase of bonds at prices up to a 5¾% basis, or approximately 102.93.
We recommend the purchase of these bonds at the current price, 101½. Descriptive circular will be furnished upon request. Simply use the space below, or telephone Broadway 75.

Calls and Conversions

The well-defined trend of lower interest rates has had a marked effect on government and corporate financing. The "calling in" of bonds is frequent, emphasizing the necessity of consultation as to sale or retention of bonds issued within the past two years at abnormally attractive yields and now quoted at enhanced prices.

Our careful advice on such topics is at your disposal. Write or call at our offices and we will gladly confer with you.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 17. — Stock market prices moved irregularly upward for the most part today on a very moderate and fairly broad turnover, regardless of the coal and railway strikes and renewed signs of saturation in the oil industry.

Western freight improvements were variable, but reports from Pittsburg and Youngstown indicated that the steel trade was beginning to feel the effects of the railway walkout. Additional cuts in prices of crude products were announced from Pennsylvania, mid-continent and southwestern oil districts.

Equipments were the most stable features of the day, further gross gains of 1 to 2 1-2 points being scored by the locomotive group, American Car, Pressed Steel Car, Railway Steel Spring and General Electric.

Oils furnished the basis of a series of drives against the short interest. Mexican Petroleum replaced its early heaviness with a brisk recovery at midday and a net gain of 1 1-2 points, but secondary domestic oils were sold in the final hour with Studebaker and Baldwin and American locomotives.

Foremost features among rails included Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, Rock Island and Atchison, where advances of large fractions to almost 2 points were made, though not retained. American Can and Industrial Alcohol ran counter to the moderate reaction before the close, the latter gaining almost 3 points.

Miscellaneous stocks, notably chain-store and mail-order issues, rubbers, tobaccos, metals and utilities, moved within contracted limits with mixed gains and losses at the end. Sales amounted to 485,000 shares.

All of the day's call money was placed at the one rate — 3 per cent, with no change in short or long-time loans, for which the inquiry was reported to be unusually light. Interior banks were in the market for merchants' paper at last week's quotations.

London sent over a higher range for leading exchanges and extensions to quotations than were made in this market. Firmness ruled for British, French and Italian bills. Most of the neutrals strengthened, but marks again eased and further weakness was shown by the Austrian remittance, while the Czecho-Slovakian rate was at its best for the current movement.

WANTED—FINANCIAL MAN

A large foreign company is being organized and incorporated in this State, with general offices in Los Angeles. The company has several million dollars actual assets more than capitalized for. We desire to obtain the services of the very highest type of financial man, preferably one now connected with a bank in an official executive capacity, or one who has had a thorough banking experience and training, who has a personal clientele on the Pacific Coast, to assist in handling our financial matters before and after organization. To the right man, a permanent and very lucrative connection can be made. Absolutely no conversationalist, but one who can show credentials of a recent date of the highest kind. No advertising man wanted, but one who can and has done big things on his own account without the aid of newspapers, as our business is not of a public nature. Absolutely no promoters. Address in confidence with your record. The salary and interest given in the business will be satisfactory and attractive.

CAMPBELL CO. DISCUSSIONS

Gain of 59% in L. A. Auto Sales

During the first 6 months of 1922, 16,582 passenger cars were sold in the city of Los Angeles, an increase of 59% over the sales for the first half of 1921. This marked improvement in the automobile business is naturally reflected in other lines of trade.

BOND QUOTATIONS

Market Goes Higher

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 17.—Liberties were again the center of interest and the strength of today's bond market. Still higher prices for the year were made by the second 4¼s at $100.74, the Third 4¼s at $100.84 and the Fourth 4¼s at $101.04.

International issues were extremely irregular, mainly as a result of the break in Mexicans, the 6s losing 2 points and the 5s 1½ points. Belgian 8s improved moderately with French municipals and Copenhagen 5½s.

Railroad bonds continued to ignore strike conditions, higher quotations ruling with Reading general 4s as the outstanding feature at a gain of 2¾ points. Erie general lien issues, Missouri Pacific 6s and Northern Pacific 6s made substantial improvement.

Moderate reactions were sustained by Louisville and Nashville 4s, Chesapeake and Ohio convertible 4½s, Baltimore and Ohio 4s and general, and Central Pacific first 4s. Total sales (par value) aggregated $15,871,000.

The day's new underwritings involved a $2,000,000 Province of British Columbia 5 per cent offering at a price to yield 5.35 per cent. Bankers are forming a syndicate to bid for $15,040,000 of Philippine government bonds to be issued as a 4½ per cent loan.

Pennsylvania Four Mills' Tax Refunded

THE NATIONAL CITY BANK OF NEW YORK, Trustee.

Mr. J. M. Hood, Jr., president of the Company, has summarized his letter regarding this issue as follows:

The Crown Cork and Seal Company has been in successful operation for over thirty years. Its principal product is the crown cork, which is the most economical bottle-stopping device produced and for which there is no comparable substitute. The company also manufactures bottle-filling and crowning machines, cork specialties and lithographed metal signs.

The company occupies a commanding position in the trade, being the largest manufacturer of crown corks and supplying considerably over half of the total business done in this line. The company's operations are world wide, with plants in Baltimore, Toronto, Mexico City, London, Paris, Yokohama, Rio de Janeiro, Lisbon (Portugal) and Seville (Spain.)

The Company's net profits for the past thirty years, after deducting interest, taxes and all other charges, have averaged $788,377. During the ten years ended December 31, 1921, the average annual net income available for interest and Federal taxes was $1,322,164 or 5½ times the annual interest charges on this issue, its only outstanding funded debt.

In 1920 the Company showed net income of $1,504,828, but in 1921 the decline in sales, together with substantial inventory adjustments, resulted in a let loss for that year of $1,557,144 before interest. Due to curtailed operation for the purpose of liquidating inventory, a further loss has been incurred in the current year, but applying the contingency reserve which the Company has set up on its balance sheet, it is expected that the operations for the balance of the year will show a profit.

The first mortgage bonds will be secured in the opinion of counsel by a direct closed first mortgage on all the real estate and fixed assets of the Crown Cork and Seal Company (as defined in the mortgage) and further by the pledge of all the capital stocks and other securities of subsidiaries owned by the Company.

The mortgage will provide for a minimum sinking fund sufficient to retire $2,000,000 face value of bonds by maturity and will also provide an additional sinking fund based on dividend payments.

The Company will covenant not to declare or pay any cash dividends on its capital stock except out of income subsequent to August 1, 1922, and then only if upon completion of such dividend payment net current assets shall equal at least 125% of the bonds outstanding.

After giving effect to the financing and also deducting all liabilities other than funded debt, the net tangible assets amount to $15,139,660, or more than three and three-quarters times the amount of the issue. The net current assets alone are $6,974,475.

Application will be made to list these bonds on the New York Stock Exchange

SECURITY UNDER MORTGAGE

Under the covenants of the trust mortgage the bonds constitute:
1. A direct closed first mortgage on the land and building.
2. A first lien on the income from the property, a sufficient portion of which must be deposited monthly with S. W. Straus & Co., to meet the interest and principal in cash promptly on the days due.

LAND AND BUILDING

1. The land is in the shape of a "T" fronting 38 ft. on Seventh Street by a depth of 85.59 ft., and 100 ft. on Hill Street by a depth of 155.87 ft., or a total grand area of nearly 19,000 square ft.

This building will be a six-story, mezzanine and full basement, reinforced concrete store, shop and loft building, covering the entire lot area with the exception of a small court on the alley and will contain in all about 150,000 square ft. of rental area. The street elevation will be entirely of terra cotta and will present an unusually ornamental appearance.

2. Earnings: The annual net earnings from this property will be approximately $150,000; over two times the annual interest charge and much more than sufficient to meet the annual principal payments in addition to the interest.

The property has already been leased for a period of twenty-five years to responsible tenants at the above figures.

BORROWING CORPORATION

These bonds are the direct obligation of the Seventh and Hill Building, Inc. of which John A. Williams and W. F. Dunn of San Francisco, Calif. are the principal stockholders. Messrs. Dunn and Williams are an old firm of successful real estate operators and their interest in this project is a further assurance af its success.

SAGGING TENDENCY IN COTTON MARKET

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 17.—The tendency of the cotton market today was to sag in featureless trading, but the decline was nominal until the afternoon when with sentiment still mixed, increased selling caused the list to ease until at the close it was 25 to 49 points net lower on the day. Demand for future contracts was still restricted by the variety of unsettling outside influences, including the railroad and coal strikes and the German reparations situation. Prices went 15 to 25 points net lower in the first couple of hours, then rallied about 10 points, but slipped back as the tone became heavy in the later dealings. Wall-street interests were the principal sellers.

Spots, quiet, at 22.20 cents for middling uplands.

Southern spot markets were: Galveston, 22.55c, 50 points down; New Orleans, steady, 25 points down; Savannah, steady, 50 points down; Augusta, steady, 35 points down, 22.45c; Memphis, steady, 50 points down, 22.50c; Houston, steady, 50 points down, 23.40c; Little Rock, quiet, 25 points down, 22.25c.

"PITTSBURG PLUS" PRACTICE ASSAILED

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

MADISON (Wis.) July 17.—Atty.-Gen. William J. Morgan today, in a letter to Harry M. Daugherty, Attorney-General of the United States, urged that in dealing with the proposed merging of steel producing corporations, the Attorney-General "take positive action against the Pittsburg plus practice and aid the nation to rid itself of that evil."

"I trust the time is not far distant when the Pittsburg plus plan will be eliminated; and if you can do anything to aid in bringing about that result, either in connection with the proposed steel merger or otherwise, you will, in my opinion, be rendering a very great public service," Mr. Morgan wrote.

WANTED

Party to make loan on first mortgage, ten-year term, interest 7%; redeemable $5000 annually beginning third year.

Property consists of 316 acres of land and improvements, controlling supply of two standard natural products, now under ten-year contracts to yield minimum revenues of $7500 per year. Loan $60,000. Bonds may be issued in lieu of straight mortgage.

Foster's —OTEXA—

With the bringing in of its 3000-barrel well, Mexian Syndicate Units jumped to a high of $130, while forthcoming dividend announcements are likely to cause even greater advances. Adjoining Mexian's gusher, Otexa, we believe, presents an even greater opportunity, since its physical holdings are virtually proven—proven by a Syndicate whose units are commanding a premium, while Otexa is available at par—$100.

We have been authorized by the Foster's to accept orders at $100 and have been granted an allotment to care for our clientele, since it is believed the Syndicate will be greatly over subscribed.

Grain Market Advances But Reacts Later

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, July 17.—The grain trade acted on the bullish news early and ignored it later. Advances in the first hour were all lost by midday. The finish was weak at about the lowest prices. Buying support was poor. Net declines for the day were 1¼ to 2 cents on wheat, 1¼ to 2 cents on corn and ¼ to 1¼ cents on oats and ¼ to ⅝ cent on rye. December led the decline on all grains.

The wheat trade was bullish early, but became bearish later. Higher cables, with an advance of 1¾ to 2¾d in the Liverpool, combined with buying by eastern houses and shorts advanced wheat prices early. There were limited offerings and little outside buying support. This became a factor later in the day. Then a selling movement started, due to reports from New York that the railroad strike possibly would be settled Thursday. Bull news had little effect though it included black rust damage and the decrease of 1,570,000 bushels in the visible supply, compared with an increase of 3,096,000 bushels last year. July dropped from $1.17⅝ to $1.14 and September from $1.15¼ to $1.11¼. The close was at a fractional rally.

Crop news on corn was generally favorable and while the trade was bullish early with fair demand, prices soon began to ease off. Commission houses and local traders toward the finish and it broke from 65½ to 63¾, finishing at the bottom. Cables were weaker and 1¼ with July at 62 cents. Export and domestic demand was good. Local stocks decreased 1,727,000 bushels and the visible was 3,127,000 bushels. Cash prices were ½ cent lower and receipts 524 cars. There was a big decrease in supply on ocean passage and the world's shipments. They attracted no attention after the break came.

Cash houses bought July oats fearing strike complications on the railroads and sold December while others did the reverse. Cash premiums were easier, the decrease of 1,210,000 bushels in the visible was without effect.

Northwestern traders sold rye fairly and local operators bought September rye and sold December wheat at 84¾ to 84¾ cents, difference 1¼ cents.

One Unit Every 40 Seconds

That's the Rate at Which Investors Bought

OTEXA UNITS

At Our San Francisco Office when the Sale Began Yesterday

The doors were open at 8 o'clock. One hour later, $8600 worth of Otexa units had been bought and paid for.

And all day yesterday at our Los Angeles office investors stood in line to buy Otexa units. We will frankly admit that we expected a rush for Otexa units. But, we were totally unprepared for such a siege as both our offices yesterday withstood.

It seems that everyone who ever invested in oil, as well as a countless number who had waited until they could invest in such an enterprise as Otexa with such men as the Fosters, were competing with each other to get their Otexa orders accepted first.

Those people knew that the very fact that Otexa is offered by the Fosters as an investment is almost a positive guarantee that it will show them a quick, handsome profit, as well as substantial dividends each thirty days for years to come.

Those people realize that when Fosters drill in 3000-barrel territory they are practically certain to get 3000-barrel wells.

They know that 3000-barrel wells for Otexa mean profits such as the Fosters have never paid before. For, with wells averaging no more than 200 barrels apiece, three Foster syndicates have paid dividends at the rate of practically 75% per year.

They know that, had those syndicates brought in 3000-barrel wells, like Otexa is practically certain to get, they would have averaged a return to date in the neighborhood of $500 on each $100 invested.

OTEXA DRILLS ON OIL-DRENCHED LAND

They know Otexa drills in long-lived gusher land, in Bunger, Texas, on leases literally drenched with oil from Mexian No. 7, Fosters' latest 3000-barrel producer.

They know that each and every Otexa unit holder will each thirty days receive cash payment at the market price of oil for 1-2500th of all the oil Otexa receives from all of its wells on both of its big, rich 10-acre, 7-16th commercial leases.

They know the Fosters are oil men—men who have made not only a fortune for themselves producing oil, but also, enriched thousands of others.

They know the road the Fosters travel is the short, quick route to immediate, substantial and long-continued dividends.

You, who want action, results and profits should do one of two things:

1. Come to our office early tomorrow.
2. Mail us a check immediately for the number of Otexa units that you want at $100 each.

The SHEIK

By Edith M. Hall

A sudden noise and men's voices in the adjoining room sent her to her feet with heaving breast and clenched hands. But the sharp, guttural voice predominating over the other voices killed the wild hope that had sprung up in her by its utter dissimilarity to the soft low tones for which she longed. Ibraheim Omair! She set her teeth with a long, shuddering breath, bracing herself to meet what was coming.

The voices in the next room continued, until Diana almost prayed for the moment she was waiting for would come; suspense was worse than the ordeal for which she was nerving herself. It came at last. The curtain slid aside again, and the same huge negro she had seen before entered. He came towards her, and her breath hissed in suddenly between her set teeth, but before he reached her the Arab woman intercepted him, blocking his way, and with wild eyes and passionate gestures poured out a stream of low, frenzied words. The Nubian turned on her impatiently and thrust her roughly out of his way, and, coming to Diana, put out his hand as if to grasp her arm, but she stepped back with flashing eyes and a gesture that he obeyed.

She walked slowly to the curtain and nodded to the Nubian to draw it aside, and slower still she passed into the other room.

Ibraheim Omair, the robber Sheik, lolling his great bulk on a pile of cushions, a little inlaid stool with coffee beside him, and behind him, standing motionless as if bronze, two other negroes, so like the one that had summoned her that they seemed like statues that had been cast from one mould.

Diana paused for a moment framed in the entrance, then, with head thrown back and swaggering, boyish stride, she moved across the thick rugs leisurely and halted in front of the chief, looking straight at him with haughty, curling lips and insolent, half-closed eyes. Her only course lay in the bravado that alone kept her from collapse. She must convey the impression of fearlessness, though cold terror was knocking at her heart. Masked with indifference her veiled eyes were watching the robber chief closely. This was, indeed, the Arab of her imaginings, this gross, unwieldy figure lying among the tawdry cushions, his swollen, ferocious face seamed and lined with every mark of vice, his full, sensual lips parted and showing broken, blackened teeth, his deep-set, bloodshot eyes with a look in them that it took all her resolution to sustain, a look of such bestial evilness that the horror of it bathed her in perspiration. His appearance was slovenly, his robes, originally rich, were stained and tumbled, the fat hands lying spread out on his knees were engrained with dirt, showing even against his dark skin. His heavy face lit up with a gleam of malicious satisfaction as Diana came towards him, his loose mouth broadened in a wicked smile. He leaned forward a little, weighing heavily on the hands that were on his knees, his eyes roving slowly over her till they rested on her face again.

"So! the white woman of my brother Ahhmed Ben Hassan," he said slowly, in villainous French, with a sudden, snarling intonation as he uttered his enemy's name. "Ahmed Ben Hassan! May Allah burn this soul in hell!" he added with relish, and spat contemptuously.

He leaned back on the cushions with a grunt, and drank some coffee noisily.

Diana kept her eyes fixed on him, and under their unwavering stare he seemed to be uneasy, his own inflamed eyes wandering ceaselessly over her, one hand fumbling at the curved hilt of a knife stuck in his belt, and at last he grew exasperated, hitching himself forward once more and beckoning her to come nearer to him. She hesitated, and as she paused uncertainly, there was a flutter of draperies behind her, and the Arab woman from the inner room, evading the negro who stepped forward to stop her, flung herself at the feet of Ibraheim Omair, clinging to his knees with a low wailing cry. In a flash Diana realized the meaning of the hatred that had gleamed in the woman's eyes earlier in the evening. To her she was a rival, whose coming to share the favors of her lord had aroused all the jealousy of the reigning favorite. A wave of disgust mingled with the fear that was torturing her. She jerked her head angrily, fighting against the terror that was growing on her, and for a moment her lashes drooped and hid her eyes. When she looked up again the woman was still crouched at the old Arab's feet, imploring and distraught.

Ibraheim Omair looked down on her curiously, his lips drawn back from his blackened teeth in an evil grin, and then shook her off violently with a swift blow in the mouth, but the woman clung closer, with upturned, desperate face, a thin trickle of blood oozing from her lips, and with a hoarse growl that was like the dull roar of a savage beast the robber chief caught her by the throat and held her for a moment, her frantic, clutching hands powerless against his strong grasp, then slowly drew the long knife from the ample folds of his waist-cloth, and as slowly drove it home into the strangling woman's breast. With savage callousness, before he released his hold of her, he wiped the stained knife carefully on her clothing and replaced it, and then flung the dead body from him. It rolled over on the rug midway between him and Diana.

There was a momentary silence in the room, and Diana became conscious of a muffled, rhythmical beat near her, like the ticking of a great clock, and realized with dull wonder that it was her own heart beating. She seemed turned to stone, petrified with horror of the last few moments. Her eyes were glued to the still figure on the rug before her with the gaping wound in the breast, from which the blood was welling, staining the dark draperies of the woman's clothes, and creeping slowly down to the rug on which the body lay. She was dazed, and odd thoughts flitted through her mind. It was a pity, she thought stupidly, that the blood should spoil the rug. It was a lovely rug. She wondered what it would have cost in Biskra—less, probably than it would in London. Then she forgot the rug as her eyes travelled upward to the woman's face. The mouth was open and the streak of blood was drying, but it was the eyes, protruding, agonized, that brought Diana abruptly to herself. She seemed to wake suddenly to the full realization of what had happened and to her own peril. She felt physically sick for a moment, but she fought it down. Very slowly she raised her head, and, meeting Ibraheim Omair's eyes fixed on her, she looked full at him across the dead woman's body and laughed! It was that or shriek. Almost unconsciously she grasped the cigarette case in her pocket and took it out, dragging her eyes from the horrible sight on which they were fixed, and chose and lit a cigarette with slow care, flicking the still-burning match on to the carpet between the feet of the negro who stood near her. He had not moved since he had failed to stop the woman's entrance, and the two stationed behind the pile of cushions had stood motionless, their eyes hardly following the tragedy enacted before them. At a nod from the chief they came now and carried away the body of the woman. One returned in a moment, bringing fresh coffee, and then vanished noiselessly.

Then Ibraheim Omair leaned forward with a horrible leer and beckoned to Diana, patting the cushions beside him. Mastering the loathing that filled her she sat down with all the unconcern she could assume. The proximity of the man nauseated her. He reeked of sweat and grease and ill-kept horses, the pungent stench of the native.

She refused the coffee he offered her with a shake of her head, paying no attention to his growl in protest, not even understanding it, for he spoke in Arabic. As she laid down the end of her cigarette with almost the feeling of letting go a sheet anchor—for it had at least kept her lips from trembling—his fat hand closed about her wrist and he jerked towards him.

"How many rifles did the Frenchman bring to that son of darkness?" he said harshly.

She turned her head, surprised at the question, and met his bloodshot eyes fixed on hers, half-menacing, half-admiring, and looked away again hastily. "I do not know."

His fingers tightened on her wrist. "How many men had Ahmed Ben Hassan in the camp in which he kept you?"

"I do not know."

"I do not know, I do not know!" he echoed with a sudden savage laugh. "You will know when I have done with you." He crushed her wrist until she winced with pain, and turned her head away further that she might not see his face. Question after question relating to the Sheik and his tribe followed in rapid succession, but to all of them Diana remained silent, with averted head and compressed lips.

Ibraheim Omair ceased his questioning. "Later, you will speak," he said significantly, and drank more coffee. And his words revived the agonizing thoughts she had crushed down.

Ibraheim Omair kept his hold upon her, and presently, with a horrible loathing, she felt his hand passing over her arm, her neck, and down the soft curves of her slim young body, then with a muttered ejaculation he forced her to face him.

"What are you looking for? You think that Ahmed Ben Hassan will come? Little fool! He has forgotten you already. There are plenty more white women in Algiers and Oran that he can buy with his gold and his devil face. The loves of Ahmed Ben Hassan are as the stars in number. They come and go like the swift wind in the desert, a hot breath—and it's finished. He will not come, and if he does, he will not find you, for in an hour we shall be gone."

the other Central American States to pass their probationary period of peace, Panama offers a field all set to go. The Panamanians have accepted the ways of those who have succeeded in government; they have passed good laws, and they enforce them, just as capably as we enforce our laws. I sometimes think they give us demonstrations of law enforcement we might profitably follow. The big lesson found in Panama is that Central American States can govern themselves, and, if given the necessary commercial encouragement and political instruction, will join the ranks of the peace-loving and industrious peoples of the world.

AN OBJECT LESSON

Panama has been selected as an object lesson in order to help the argument for better treatment of all of Central America. Trading with these small States is the one thing vital to the work of leading them to the ways of peace and industry. Idle, they are filled with a hot-blooded peasantry, ready to listen to the first revolution-spouting adventurer who gains their ears. When, like the Republic of Panama, they are properly aided and encouraged, they open their arms to the American business man, and repay him a hundredfold for every dollar he invests. Let us develop Panama until the last vacant acre of her rich lands is under cultivation and the crops not produced in this country are coming to our shores in American bottoms. It is an opportunity to start something that will hasten our desire for drawing closer together the American States and peoples, and have and hold for all time the trade we have, in the past, indifferently allowed Europe to take from us.

FRANCE BLACKMAILER, IS GERMANY'S CLAIM

By George Selder

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, July 17.—In an interview the Berlin Tageblatt quotes Bernard Shaw as telling its correspondent that France is trying to blackmail Germany, because France knows that the Versailles treaty cannot be fulfilled, and, furthermore, Prime Minister Lloyd George knows that France knows the treaty cannot be fulfilled.

"It is all horrible madness, and that is how they are trying to reform the world today," he said.

The correspondent asked Mr. Shaw concerning the relations between Great Britain and France.

"The British feeling," replied Mr. Shaw, "toward France is worse today than at Waterloo."

He declared that war leaders such as Mr. Lloyd George and Georges Clemenceau ought to be banished to St. Helena after the end of a war.

SEEK TO BREAK RAIL ALLIANCE

Unidentified Forces Spread Disruption Talk

Central - Southern Pacific Service Attacked

Forces in Union Pacific Field Are Active

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Powerful influence is being exerted on some members of the Senate to compel the disruption of the present transportation systems of California and Oregon now represented by the Central and Southern Pacific systems as operated by one company. Senator Kendrick read to the Senate a resolution passed by the Wyoming Public Service Commission urging the divorcement of these systems. Immediately following this action, notice of such an extract from the Congressional Record was broadcast all over Washington by a self-styled "California committee of producers and shippers" in spite of the fact that almost unanimously the organized chambers of commerce of the Coast are on record against the separation of the two systems.

Inquiry at the local headquarters of this "committee" fails to disclose the individuals back of the activity and all requests for further information proved futile. Only one corporation or interest has shown a desire to benefit by the proposed divorce of these two companies and that is the Union Pacific Company, but so far no connection with this "committee" and the railroad organization has been definitely established. Two other resolutions in addition to the Wyoming declaration have been injected into the record—one from Abilene, Kan., and the other from Omaha—Union Pacific territory.

CAMPAIGN WELL PLANNED

The significance of these resolutions appearing from day to day in the official record of the Senate indicates a thoroughly organized attempt to crystallize public opinion against the best interests of California and Oregon communities as expressed by their chambers of commerce, and this campaign is already getting on the nerves of the Interstate Commerce Commission and other Federal officials who will have to deal with the problem in due course.

Nothing happens to the resolutions except reference to the Interstate Commerce Committee of the Senate, but all official Washington is wondering who or what interest is financing so elaborate a campaign on a matter that pertains almost entirely to the west coast, and apparently in opposition to all the public sentiment in that section.

The Wyoming resolution is typical of all the rest. It says:

"(1.) Whereas the Supreme Court has held that the holding of the Central Pacific by the Southern Pacific Company constitutes an unlawful monopoly; and,

"(2.) Whereas, plans are being made to set aside the court's ruling by Congressional action; and,

SAYS CHANGE NECESSARY

"(3.) Whereas, the Central Pacific was built under the laws of the United States as a part of a central system of transportation to and from California, and was intended to function as a part of such central system of transportation, and was not built or intended as a part of a southern system of transportation, and is not a part of any southern system of transportation; and,

"(4.) Whereas, the shipping public between Ogden and Chicago are able to secure a large part of their transportation service by reason of the movement along their railroad lines of transcontinental shipments, and the returns on such shipments greatly assist in maintaining their railroads, and the future needs of the shipping public make necessary the full development of such railroads; therefore, be it

"Resolved, by the Public Service Commission of the State of Wyoming, that the commission recognizes the wisdom and justice of the decision of the Supreme Court freeing the Central Pacific from the control of the Southern Pacific Company, and that this body recognizes the harm which would result to the interests of Wyoming if the separation is not carried out in accordance with the opinion of the Supreme Court; and be it further

The real sentiment of the Coast States is entirely opposed, as indicated in an authorized statement by President Alexander of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, who is also head of a State-wide committee of California to preserve the present status of the two companies as an operating unit:

CLAIMS REFUTED

"My attention is called to press dispatches from Washington asserting that on behalf of producers and shippers of the Pacific Coast the Department of Justice has been asked to take cognizance of certain alleged activities of the Southern Pacific system. Of these alleged Southern Pacific activities I am not informed, but of the shippers and growers of the Pacific Coast and their views I necessarily know a great deal, because the State-wide committee of which I am chairman represents today the expressed views and sentiments of a very high percentage of all organized shippers and growers in this State, and the record of these great organizations is to date unanimously in favor of action by the Interstate Commerce Commission that will continue the unified operation of this system as a unit.

"The supposed protest cannot represent for instance, the State-wide committee of about 100 large shippers, of which I have the honor to be chairman. It cannot represent the chambers of commerce of San Francisco, Los Angeles, Sacramento, Fresno, San Jose, Oakland, Bakersfield, San Diego and a hundred or so other cities of California, since they also have gone on record of their own volition, supporting the State-wide committee in its lawful appeal to the Interstate Commerce Commission to maintain the unified operation of this great system because in their judgment the people of the State will be hurt by its dismemberment.

GROWERS FOR ALLIANCE

"Nor can this alleged protest represent the agricultural interests such as the California Vegetable Union, the Canning and Peach Growers' Association, the California Pear Growers' Association, the California Co-operative Canners, the California Walnut Growers' Association, all of which, with others, are on record supporting the action of the State-wide committee as a representative California development association, with a membership of thirty-five chambers of commerce and more than 1500 individual shippers, the Los Angeles Jobbers' Association, the California Manufacturers' Association, the Northern California Counties' Association, the United Chambers of Commerce of the Sacramento Valley, the California Fruit Distributors' Association, and a great many individual wholesale and retail shippers.

"Any intimation or suggestion that the supposed organization in Washington stands in any way for the views and judgments of California and Pacific Coast shippers and producers is in the face of the above evidence, an outrageous perversion of the truth. Leading shippers, intimately connected with growers' and manufacturers' associations for years are unable to tell who, if any, these people represent.

CHALLENGE ORGANIZATION

"I challenge this organization to publish its officers and membership. I challenge this organization to show what organization or men, if any, have gone on record in its support against the many thousands of shippers, growers and merchants who have come into the open on their own initiative and at the request of the State-wide ment, and I respectfully urge my fellow-citizens throughout California and the Pacific Coast to continue placing themselves on record against the dismemberment of the Southern Pacific-Central Pacific system to the end that there shall be no possible misunderstanding of our position as shippers, growers, merchants and citizens. In doing this we hold no brief for any railroad and represent only the public interests."

PRESIDENT INHERITED WOES, SAYS SENATOR

INDUSTRIAL PROBLEMS ARE LEGACY OF DEMOCRATS, HE DECLARES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

JERSEY CITY (N. J.) July 17. President Harding's present difficulties with the coal and railroad strikes are troubles "inherited" from the Wilson administration in some respects, Senator Willis, Republican, Ohio, declared in an address here tonight before the Hudson County Republican Club.

"Not only have the present unfortunate industrial troubles come to President Harding," said Senator Willis, "as the ripened, bitter and certain fruitage of mistaken policies in the past, but on March 4, 1921, there was handed to him the most tangled, disorganized wreck in governmental affairs that was every presented by one administration to another."

Discussing the industrial situation, he said the President had inherited from the preceding administration the legacy of largess and recklessness which is now culminating in disturbed industrial conditions so grave as to tax the wisdom of statesmanship for their solution.

During the war, said Senator Willis, "about everybody who wanted anything from the government treasury got it and if it did not occur to them to ask for enough, suggestion of more liberal asking was in some cases sanctioned and urged by those high in authority while in others threats extracted weak concessions from the government that were used as a basis for further demands."

"As a result of this truckling policy," he continued, respect for authority was weakened and government by threat and coercion encouraged.

"The public has rights which must be considered paramount in any industrial contest. The nation is bigger and more important than any class or group in it and therefore its laws must be respected and its authority maintained unchallenged.

Senator Willis reviewed acts of the Republican administration and urged re-election of Senator Frelinghuysen, Republican, New Jersey.

RAID "MASKERS," FIND HOBOS

Nevada Officers "Capture" Mosquito-fighting Campers

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

RENO (Nev.) July 17.—A dozen "Weary Willies" and "Dusty Rhoades" unwittingly played havic with city, county and State official life last night. Camping near Sparks the men were attacked by mosquitoes. they tied handkerchiefs over their faces for protection. Passing autoists reported the masked group, and from Gov. Boyle down through State, county and city to the lowly constable there was a rapid charge made by auto and motorcycle on the camp of mystery. The amazement of the officials was exceeded only by the surprise of the innocent hobos.

KATY BRANCH LINE CLOSED

Main Line Handles Freight at Denison, Tex.

Georgia Governor Orders Troops to Move

Attacks on Shop Foremen Start Disorders

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DENISON (Tex.) July 17.—The Texas and Pacific branch line from Sherman Junction to Denison, connecting with the main line of the Texas and Pacific Railway, has been abandoned and the station closed, a notice at the Union Station, posted today, announced. The freight which had been awaiting transportation from Denison was removed by a main line crew. W. M. Whitenton, assistant chief operating officer of the Katy lines, left here today for Dallas, where he was called by C. C. Huff, general attorney of the Katy road.

Capt. Tom Hickman of the State Rangers, is in Denison, but no orders have been received so far by him to bring rangers here, he said.

None of the four or five oilers and stationary firemen of the shops, who were ordered to strike this morning at 8 o'clock has quit his job.

Deputy Federal marshals, for the first time since the strike of the shopmen, today exercised jurisdiction outside of railroad property here when they ordered all pickets off the viaduct over the Katy tracks except one and stationed guards along the structure following reports, they said, of intimidation of three staff employees, who have been doing work of the strikers in the roundhouse.

WAYCROSS (Ga.) July 17.—Disorders occurred here late today near the Atlantic Coast Line shops between strike sympathizers, workmen and railroad officials. It is understood railroad and county officials have called on Gov. Hardwick for troops.

Sheriff H. J. Sweat telegraphed Gov. Hardwick tonight that he believed the strike situation beyond his control and that troops were needed at once. The Sheriff stated that so far as he could ascertain almost fifty men, said to be present employees of the railroad, had been either beaten severely or driven from the city.

The trouble is said to have started this afternoon when two shop foremen attempted to bring into the railroad shops two strike-breakers. The four men were set upon and badly beaten. Free-for-all fighting followed.

There were said to be more than 100 employees at work for the Atlantic Coast Line at this point and officials were said to fear serious trouble.

ATLANTA, July 17.—Gov. Hardwick tonight ordered Georgia National Guard troops to move as soon as possible to Waycross, where disorders were reported in connection with the strike of some 1000 union employees at the Atlantic Coast Line Railway shops.

GROWERS SEEK AID TO SAVE FRUIT CROP

ASK HARDING AND STEPHENS TO ASSURE RAIL LINES' OPENING

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

FRESNO, July 17.—Telegraphic appeal to President Harding and Gov. Stephens for the purpose of obtaining assurance that fruit crops of the San Joaquin Valley will be moved, has been started by the valley industrial association.

Meetings are being called in 200 San Joaquin Valley communities by the organization which claims a membership of 400 of the largest fruit shippers in the district. It is proposed to flood both executives with telegrams from these meetings, outlining the situation and the need for assurance that the immense fruit crop will be furnished shipping facilities during the remainder of the rush.

U. S. Atty.-Gen. H. M. Daugherty this morning answered a message from fruit growers and shippers, who met in Fresno Friday, which demanded uninterrupted transportation of the fruit crop.

He promised such relief as is possible under the circumstances, the wire states. President Harding's and Gov. Stephens's answers to similar telegrams are momentarily expected by J. W. Hunt, manager of the association. The association is directing the campaign to force government action in keeping the lines of transportation open here before a strike crisis ruins the valley fruit crop.

MANY RAIL CRAFTS TAKE STRIKE VOTES

CLERKS, FREIGHT HANDLERS AND EXPRESSMEN CONSIDER WALKOUT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CINCINNATI, July 17.—Approximately 200,000 railroad clerks, freight handlers and station and express men are either taking a strike vote or are expected to take one, according to information at headquarters of the brotherhood of railroad, steamship clerks, freight handlers, station and expressmen here today.

Officials refused to be quoted directly or name the roads where a strike vote is now in progress. It was stated, however, by Grand President E. H. Fitzgerald that wherever the constitutional majority for a strike on any road or system was secured, he would grant sanction to strike.

TROOPS AND STRIKERS CLASH IN CURACAO

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WILLEMSTAD (Curacao) July 17.—Regular troops and strikers clashed at the steamship piers here today, some casualties in wounded resulting. The Royal Dutch West India Company's offices were besieged and stoned and the Red D Line pier, on which the American flag was flying, was attacked.

RECALL OF OFFICIALS IS SOUGHT

San Bernardino Union, Incensed Over Troop Call, Circulates Petition

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN BERNARDINO, July 17.—Incensed because Sheriff W. A. Shay and Mayor S. W. McNabb telegraphed to Gov. Stephens Saturday morning asking for troops when the strike situation here became critical and open rioting was threatened, striking union men today revengefully turned to the ballot in an effort to depose both officials. Petitions to recall Mayor McNabb were circulated among the strikers and union leaders began to search the county seeking a candidate to oppose Sheriff Shay in the November elections.

"Names of the men who are working on the petition will not be announced at present," said M. D. Farrington, chairman of the publicity committee of the shopcraft federation comprising the six striking unions, in discussing the campaign to oust the Mayor. "We regret the action of Mayor McNabb and believe no one with the best interests of the city at heart would have taken such steps Saturday."

The call for troops was forwarded after nearly 1000 strikers and sympathizers were prevented from attacking twenty Santa Fe employees here Friday night by the combined forces of Sheriff Shay and Chief of Police A. A. Burcham.

O. S. Greenwood, Chief Deputy United States Marshal, on his arrival here Saturday, said the situation was "bad" and the request for troops was rescinded only after the deputy marshals had restored order and seven strikers had been arrested.

The strikers today bitterly attacked Sheriff Shay in their official bulletin and said he had "petered out." Sheriff Shay is the most popular Sheriff in the county's history and known as the most efficient. Mayor McNabb defeated a union-labor candidate here a year ago.

The city was quiet today and the mob that searched a Santa Fe overland in Cajon Pass Saturday morning for incoming employees had dispersed.

More than 700 men are working in the shops and Santa Fe officials are confident that the strike has been won.

DEPUTIES SEEK STRIKE GUNMEN

during the day that at least seven men had been killed and their bodies brought here were accounted for tonight by an official who said that men not known to be wounded were at first reported dead.

THREE IN HOSPITAL

Three wounded men of the attacking force were in hospitals in Wheeling and fifteen others, captured by deputies in the battle, were in the Ohio County Jail not far away. Twenty-five prisoners, three of whom had been shot, were confined in the Wellsburg jail. Seven of this number had been taken in the woods around the Clifton mine late this afternoon by State policemen who, it was reported tonight, were continuing the search.

On the other side of the State line four miles away, troopers of the Pennsylvania State Constabulary were on guard, operating in conjunction with the West Virginia forces.

Thomas H. Duval, who was in the fight with his father, but escaped unhurt, was elected Sheriff by the county court, and, among his first duties, arranged with W. S. Wilkin, Prosecuting Attorney, for a special grand jury to investigate the fight. He also filed charges of murder against twenty-seven men who, he alleged, took part in the battle.

Prosecuting Attorney Wilkin, reporting to Gov. Morgan at Charleston tonight, said the situation here was "deplorable." For the present, it was explained, no call could be sent for the National Guard, as the authorities felt the situation was safe in the hands of Capt. White, who has arrived in the county with a company of State police. These men immediately proceeded to Clintonville.

Irwin W. Mozingo, the only deputy wounded, was said to be in a serious condition.

LATE WALKOUT PROVES FAILURE

from the outset, came a report quoting R. A. Henning, general chairman of the Federated Shopcrafts, as saying that only refusal of eastern roads to agree to reinstate strikers with full seniority rights was delaying a settlement.

B. M. Jewell, head of the striking shopcrafts, declined to make any statement today. He said he passed a "quiet week-end." It may have been quiet, but reliable reports were that it was marked by one conference extending through until two o'clock this morning.

SHOP STRENGTH SAME

Roads which had not locked their striking employees out a week before have fixed today as marking the limit within which men might return and retain their seniority rights. It had been expected a determined effort to open shops with a full force would be undertaken by the carriers. However, little change in the operating strength of shops here and elsewhere throughout the country was reported.

While there were no outbreaks in Chicago, strike disturbances, occurring at other points, spurred Federal authorities to greater alertness. Many temporary injunctions against picketing on carriers' property were granted in various cities. In Chicago, Federal Judge George T. Page granted a petition of the Illinois Central Railway for such an order.

A renewal of strike disturbance at Bloomington, Ill., came today. Shots were fired at the home of a nonunion shopman. Local authorities, however, gained immediate control of the situation.

MACHINE GUNS TO QUELL RIOTS

Rail Strike Developments Appear Rapidly

Walkouts Reported in East Force Action

Tear Bombs Issued to Stop Possible Attacks

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 17.—Strike developments came fast in the New York district today.

Eight hundred men, including stationary engineers, firemen, oilers, and maintenance-of-way employees, walked out of power houses and repair shops of eleven roads.

Sheriff's deputies of Bergen county, New Jersey, armed with machine and riot guns and rifles, began at Hackensack to practice with tear gas bombs.

Sixty United States deputy marshals in addition to 100 already employed, were assigned to strike duty guarding the mails on the Erie.

INJUNCTION EXTENDED

U. S. District Judge Bodine at Newark, extended an injunction restraining Mayor Hague of Jersey City, and municipal police from entering yards of the Erie railroad.

At Trenton, U. S. Marshal Mulheron ordered sheriffs of twenty-one New Jersey counties to make a survey of men available as deputies for emergency duty.

Gen. Gosthals, commander of the vast service of supply and transportation organized by the Port of New York, announced 98 per cent of its members are ready to set the machinery going.

Railroad executives, however, continued to deny that the strike was seriously affecting passenger or freight service. Their claims that mail trains were operating unhampered were corroborated by officials of the Postoffice Department.

SEVERAL WALK OUT

A few more stationary engineers, firemen and oilers, who had not walked out during the last two weeks in anticipation of Dr. Healy's permission to strike, today failed to appear in power houses and shops, it was reported.

The sympathy strikes of maintenance-of-way men, which have been in progress on a minor scale for several days, today gained momentum. It was estimated a total of 2000 men had joined the movement in this district. Three hundred union workers in the shops of the Lackawanna at Hoboken took a strike vote and announced they were ready to walk out without the sanction of their officers at Chicago.

Conditions on the Erie, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Jersey Central and Lehigh Valley were declared by executives to be unchanged. At strike headquarters, however, it was asserted the Erie has already been so badly crippled by lack of men to repair and clean locomotives and rolling stock that a complete breakdown was imminent.

Ump Succumbs to Attack by Youthful Fan

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ST. LOUIS, July 17.—Putting into action the thought which is often recklessly expressed at baseball games, a spectator at a game in Fenton, St. Louis county, yesterday afternoon killed the umpire.

The umpire, Charles Bousek, 33 years old, a deputy sheriff of Jefferson county, having a wife and four children, was struck on the head with a bat wielded by the dissatisfied spectator and fell unconscious. He was taken to Lutheran Hospital, St. Louis, and died there this morning.

Charles Woolsey, 18, of Valley Park, is held in the Clayton jail, charged with the fatal assault. The Prosecuting Attorney's office said he would be formally charged with first-degree murder.

The game was between the Fenton and Valley Park teams, and in the fifth inning, the score was 8 to 0 in Fenton's favor. Valley Park was at bat and Bousek, who was umpiring the bases, was standing near first.

A Valley Park base runner took a long lead off first base and when the ball was thrown to first and the Valley Park man tried to regain the base, Bousek declared him out.

The Valley Park players and some spectators who favored the visiting team raised an uproar.

As the noise was subsiding a youth said by spectators to have been Woolsey, arose from the place where he had been sitting, beyond centerfield, and walked toward the umpire at first base. A bat thrown by one of the players lay in his path and the youth picked it up and held it behind him as he walked toward Bousek.

Some one in the crowd called to him, "Go to it." An instant later the youth struck Bousek over the right ear with the bat. Bousek fell and his assailant dropped the bat and ran. Spectators and players of both teams started a pursuit.

SHIPPING and Los Angeles Harbor NEWS

PLAN SERVICE TO HONOLULU

Great Liners Will Play Out of Local Port

Finest Passenger Vessels on Coast Promised

First Sailing Scheduled for September 9

Los Angeles' Admission Day celebration, September 9, will be centered around the giant 12,000 ton passenger liner City of Los Angeles. On that deate, the vessel is scheduled to establish the first direct passenger and freight service out of Los Angeles to Honolulu.

With her sister ship, the City of Honolulu, the liner will be the finest steamer ever plying in passenger trade out of the local port. Arriving Sunday night from New York in command of Capt. W. A. Carleton, the City of Los Angeles is today undergoing a complete interior and machinery renovation at the plant of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Corporation preparatory to entering her new run. Double shifts of workmen are employed on the vessel night and day in an attempt to rush the $100,000 reconditioning job through in six weeks, while when the City of Honolulu arrives on the 29th inst., a similar force will be employed on her.

On her first trip the City of Los Angeles will take a large party made up by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and will make stops at Hilo and Maui, arriving at Honolulu September 13. She will remain at Honolulu five days and sail for Los Angeles again Saturday, September 23, being due to arrive here the following Friday, September 29.

The City of Honolulu, which is now en route from the east coast to undergo similar renovation of passengers' quarters at the same local yard, will make her first trip in the new service opposite the City of Los Angeles at noon Saturday, September 23, arriving at Honolulu Friday, September 29, remaining there until Saturday, October 27, when she will sail for this port, to arrive Friday, October 13. From Saturday, September 9, therefore, there will be a direct de luxe passenger and fast freight service from this port to Honolulu every second Saturday. From Honolulu the sailings to Los Angeles will commence Saturday, September 23, and every second Saturday thereafter until further notice.

NO TROUBLE IN HARBOR

Although forty-six feet longer than any merchant vessel ever before entering Los Angeles Harbor, the 581-foot craft had absolutely no trouble in navigating the main channel and passing through the drawbridge into the local shipyards.

The decorative scheme of the two liners will be identical to that carried out on the crack coast flyers. Yale and Harvard, their hulls being dressed in white, black funnels and interiors of the ventilators red.

Discomforts of ocean travel are being absolutely nullified on both craft, company officials announce. There will not be a single berth on either vessel, every stateroom being equipped with full sized beds instead. The floors will be covered with carpets while the tapestries in all staterooms will be reproductions of those decorating the President's suite on the liner George Washington. The linens to be used on the vessels were imported from Scotland for the express use of the City of Los Angeles and City of Honolulu, while the silver and glassware of their table service were also specially designed.

AMUSEMENTS PROVIDED

Spacious libraries, rest rooms and salons will characterize the appointments of both craft and the provisions for the amusement of passengers of all ages also have been carefully worked out.

Although built at Danzig, Germany, twenty-two years ago as the Grosser Kurfurst, the City of Los Angeles is still one of the finest liners on the Pacific. She has accommodations for 474 passengers and her normal crew complement is ten officers and 234 men. She is of 12,462 tons gross and maintains a loaded speed of 15½ knots.

Her twin screws are propelled by two quadruple expansion engines of 9000 horsepower, steam being furnished by seven Scotch boilers. She also has 191,041 feet of cargo space and 55,344 cubic feet of refrigerator space.

The City of Los Angeles brought only two bona fide passengers to Los Angeles on her coast-to-coast trip: R. L. Criswell, president of the City Council, and W. J. Nicholls, Cuban agent for Hind-Rolph & Co., San Francisco shipping brokers. But two 17-year-old youths, Ben Kaplin, of Brooklyn, and Theodore Keenan, of McKeesport, Pa., also made the trip despite the fact that their names were on neither the passenger list no rithe ships articles. The two stowaways were put ashore here yesterday after having completed the 5000 miles without expense.

LOWELL OPERATIVES JOIN TEXTILE STRIKE

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

BOSTON, July 17.—The New England textile strike, which is now in its seventh month, with 50,000 operatives idle, and more than forty plants affected, spread today in force to Lowell, Mass.

Strikes have been called against three plants in Lowell, which reduced wages 20 per cent. These plants employ more than 10,000 hands.

TRAINMEN ASK TO QUIT

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SHREVEPORT (La.) July 17.—The local chapter of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen has wired President Lee asking permission to go out on strike.

OFFICE OF SHIP BOARD TO EXPAND

Operating Agency Will be Established to Care for Business Growth

Establishment of an operating agency of the United States Shipping Board at Los Angeles Harbor was announced yesterday by E. E. Remsberg, agent for the board at the local port. The Shipping Board's action in expanding its local offices is prompted by the establishment of the Los Angeles Steamship Company's new Honolulu-Los Angeles service with the liners City of Los Angeles and city of Honolulu, Mr. Remsberg announced.

In charge of the accounting and claims division of the board's newest branch on this Coast will be J. A. Boyer, who until a month ago was special representative on the Pacific Coast for E. A. Sheperd, general comptroller of the Shipping Board. Mr. Boyer is one of the most widely experienced accountants in the West, having been for the seven years prior to 1917 examining accountant for the J. D. Spreckels Company and the San Diego and Arizona Railroad.

During the war he toured thirty-nine States as supervising auditor of the claims division of the War Department, and before accepting his post with the Shipping Board was conferee in the returns bureau of the Internal Revenue Service. Mr. Boyer announced yesterday that several additions to the personnel of the local Shipping Board offices will be made within the next two months.

All business incident to the operation of the giant passenger liners City of Los Angeles and City of Honolulu will be handled through the local offices, Mr. Remsberg said, in addition to that of a number of freight steamers now chartered to private concerns by the Shipping Board on this Coast.

PORT NOTES

Forest fires throughout the Northwest are greatly reducing lumber production as well as destroying millions of dollars' worth of valuable timber, according to word received in port yesterday by steamers arriving from the north. Practically all logging camps in the Columbia River and Puget Sound districts are being forced to operate with only a part force in order to hold their crews in case a large band of crews are being kept constantly on guard to protect standing timber and camps against the menace.

The fires, more severe than for years, have increased demands for lumber throughout the United States. Lumbermen at Los Angeles Harbor declare they have weeks behind with standing orders while those now in from all domestic sources except the Middle West agricultural districts.

The last of the German ships bought from the United States Government by Capt. Robert Dollar will arrive here tomorrow from Charleston. She is the Narbeshindo and is being towed north by the steamer Sonoma. The Narbeshindo is the first of the big windjammers to be brought North via this port since the ship Dimba Maru was towed to Seattle by the Dollar steamer Admiral Goodrich.

Word was received at the port last night from Newcastle, Australia, that the railway there has practically all of the coal it requires for the present, the strike situation having been suggested. The strike of miners started on the 3rd inst. A Hind, Rolph & Co. agency, which received word to that effect yesterday, declared that the strike would result in the tieup of a number of American vessels now controlled in the Australian-Pacific coal trade.

A quarter million barrels of fuel oil left Los Angeles Harbor in the twenty hours up to daylight this morning on four tankers, the Union Oil steamers Lyman Stewart and Brea, and the Capt. A. F. Lucas and Barge 58, operated by the Standard Oil Company. Nearly two million barrels of fuel oil are scheduled to leave the local port during the week.

Six thousand tons of Southern California products are being loaded on three intercoastal liners for the east coast at the harbor today. They are the United American Line steamer Pennsylvania, the Export Steamship Corporation steamer Cheltenham and the Luckenbach line steamer Santa Barbara.

The new motorship Minnerian, sister ship of the American-Hawaiian Republic Californian, was delivered on the 10th inst. by her builders, the Merchant & Corporation, Chester Pa. She is now loading at New York for Los Angeles Harbor and other Pacific ports and is scheduled to sail this morning on her maiden voyage.

She will, upon completion of her intercoastal trip, join the Californian in the company's triangular service from the coast to Europe, across the Atlantic to New York and thence again to the Pacific.

The Von Steuben, Barbarossa and about nine other interned German and Austrian ships that formerly belonged to Germany will be scrapped, it was announced yesterday by E. E. Remsberg, agent for Los Angeles Harbor for the Shipping Board. He said that the steel in the vessels was corroding faster than the steel market was improving. The Agamemnon and Mt. Vernon, famous as troop transports during the war, were among the others to be scrapped.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN DIEGO, July 17.—Announcement that the Canadian government merchant marine is to establish a monthly service between San Diego and Canadian ports, including Vancouver, Victoria and Ocean Falls, starting July 25, with the arrival here of the freighter Canadian Observer, was made here today.

A fishing schooner, owner unidentified, had been located today was destroyed by fire off Westgate near the San Prudent Company's plant at Point Loma early today. The craft, 65 feet in length (twenty feet of water). Police reports are that the craft had been located by two parties, and that before the destruction was accidentally set afire by one of the thieves.

The San Diego fishing schooner George L., which was damaged in a collision with the steamer Lompoc here on the night of July 4, when the two vessels became entangled in a mass of kelp, and late Friday night was towed here today by the fishing vessel Portland. Damage to the George L. is estimated at $1000.

VANCOUVER, July 17.—The Osaka Shosen Kaisha freighter Hawaii Maru, Capt. Burgge, will sail tomorrow for Hongkong and Manila via Victoria and Honolulu and other Hawaiian Island ports. The Kaisha will also loaded Tuesday morning.

The six-masted schooner Fort Laramie is in the stream with 2,000,000 feet of lumber for Oakland, and the schooner Minnie A. Caine is in the stream with 1000 feet for Callao, Peru. Both are awaiting the arrival of the steam schooner Port Angeles from Middleton's Point day night and will put to sea in tow of the Port Angeles.

The barkentine Mary Winkleman is taking 550,000 feet of lumber from the Puget Sound Mills and Timber Company for Oakland, and will be towed by Saturday night.

The four-masted schooner James Johnston is taking an inland cargo of nearly 1,000,000 feet from the Puget Sound Mills and Timber Company.

COOS BAY, July 17.—The port of Coos Bay contemplates the extension of the port dock which has been found inadequate to handle the business that is offering. The Chamber of Commerce is now engaged in a campaign to raise $20,000 for the purpose of making the improvement, and the Marshfield Chamber of Commerce is also interested in the matter. Plans for the extension have been submitted to the War Department at Washington, D. C., and it is expected that the project will be approved in the near future.

ASTORIA, July 17.—The steam schooner Trinidad is due from Los Angeles and will load 1,100,000 feet of lumber at the Hammond mill.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—Federal Judge Maurice T. Dooling today awarded Dan J. Mannion a judgment for $25,578.56 for services rendered by the wrecking steamer Salvor, when the steamer Arakan went ashore in a fog off Point Reyes last September. The suit has been pending since last November.

Hanlon filed a libel for $250,000 against the Arakan. He claimed the cost of going to aid the vessel was $8,578.56. The defense pleaded that the crew of the Homer were not entitled to any extra pay in addition to their regular wages.

The schooner William H. Smith, which left Oakland for Puget Sound July 12 in tow of the steamer Saginaw has returned to port. The hawser parted last Friday and the Saginaw did not return for its tow. Capt. Axel Olsen decided it would be useless to return to this port than to attempt the trip alone. The William H. Smith was chartered to bring a load of lumber from the Columbia River to Oakland.

The lake-type steamer Comox, one of three vessels recently purchased from the United States Shipping Board by the Matson Navigation Company, sailed from Baltimore for San Francisco July 13, and is due to arrive here August 10.

The Cove Bars sailed from Baltimore June 30 and is due in a few days.

The Cuba, the third vessel, is still at Baltimore. The three ships will be used in the freight trade between San Francisco and the Hawaiian Islands.

The Admiral Line steamer Admiral Schley and Admiral Dewey, formerly operating between Portland and Wilmington, Cal., will in future eliminate the southern ports and run between Portland and San Francisco. The change in schedule will go in effect July 22.

FRESNO, July 17.—Federal narcotic agents from San Francisco raided a local opium den late last night, chopped their way through walls and floors and captured six Chinamen and large amounts of opium, yen shee and complete smoking outfits. According to the raiding officer in charge this was the biggest and most elaborate yet raided in California.

Louie Fong, 65; Chin Goon Bow, 30; Laurence Kniffy, 25; Eddie Clark, 24, Wong Ju, and Louie Fong, 25, were those caught by the Federal officers. Many escaped, however, by underground passage ways and over roofs. The only explanation for trapping so many orientals was due to the fact that there were

TIME-WORN QUESTION SPLITS CONVENTION

WALTHER LEAGUE THREATENED BY DISPUTE OVER NEGRO DELEGATES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OMAHA, July 17.—Disruption of the thirtieth annual international Walther League convention was threatened for a time this afternoon over the question of whether negroes should be allowed on the international convention floor on an equal footing with white delegates.

Dispute arose on the subject between Northern and Southern delegations when the application of several negro Lutheran churches for membership in the league was presented.

The outcome of the dispute was a resolution providing that a separate Walther League for negroes be formed and maintained under the supervision of the international executive board. The resolution, after considerable argument between Northern and Southern delegations, was adopted unanimously.

The modern film, modern dancing, and certain prevailing forms of modern drama were denounced as "the vices of Sodom and the lusts of Gomorrah," by Prof. J. T. Mueller of St. Louis this afternoon. Four new societies at Cheyenne, Wyo., Royal, Ia., Los Angeles and Lincoln, Neb., were accepted into the league today.

FARM POPULATION OF UNITED STATES TOLD

LAST CENSUS GIVES 29.9 PER CENT AS TILLERS OF SOIL

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 17. — The farm population of the United States on Jan. 1, 1920 was 31,614,269, or 29.9 per cent of the total population of the country, according to returns of the last census, announced today by the Census Bureau. Of this number 31,350,640 were enumerated in rural territory and 265,629 on farms located within the limits of cities and other incorporated communities having 2500 inhabitants or more.

The total farm population, which for the first time was enumerated separately from the rural population as a whole and therefore has no comparative figure in the preceding census, amounted to 61 per cent of the rural population, which includes residents of incorporated cities and villages having fewer than 2500 inhabitants, unincorporated hamlets, mining regions, and other areas not devoted to agriculture. Thus, while the rural population constituted, it was said, nearly one half of the country's total, only about three-tenths of its inhabitants were living on farms.

The proportion of the farm population to the total in the various States ranged from 71 per cent in Mississippi to 2.5 in Rhode Island.

MOTORCYCLE RIDER KILLED IN CRASH

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, July 17.—Rudolf Pustka, 40 years of age, fruit rancher, living near Lincoln, died here late today from injuries received when a motorcycle upon which he was riding collided with the Roseville stage. Dominic Doquet, another rancher, riding with him, was painfully injured. None of the passengers was hurt. Pustka has a brother, Frank Pustka, living at 1621 Haight street, San Francisco.

PROPOSED SHIP RATE OPPOSED

Board Told Merchant Marine Measure Detrimental

Would Cause Unsought War, Say Opponents

Americans Would Not Use Nation's Vessels

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—The imposition of certain features of the Merchant Marine Act of 1920, which provides rate differentials for American vessels, could result in restricting the cargoes for such vessels and could cause unsought raté wars between American and Canadian railways, it was asserted today in a Shipping Board hearing on the situation here. The particular objection is against section 28 of the law, which would establish differentials and limit the rights of foreign vessels in American ports at the discretion of the board. The hearing adjourned today to meet in Los Angeles the 20th inst.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

W. T. Bosseman, rate expert of the Foreign Commerce Association of San Francisco, argued that if the law went into affect, American vessels would obtain export cargoes but would be denied import cargoes.

"The foreign shippers would send goods here in their own vessels, because of our discrimination against them," he said.

Nathaniel A. Davis, managing director of the Foreign Trade Club of San Francisco, presented a supporting argument.

The alleged handicaps to American shipping might lead to shippers in the United States utilizing Canadian railroads and Canadian bottoms for the transportation of their goods, with resultant danger to existing traffic agreements between the rail and water carriers of both countries, it was said by Seth Mann, traffic expert of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. J. H. McCallum, president of the State Board of Harbor Commissioners, and Dwight K. Grady, director of the foreign and domestic transportation of the Chamber of Commerce, also opposed the section.

NEW SEA LANES

Paul Hastings, general freight agent; Capt. C. W. Saunders, chairman of the maritime committee, and W. S. Ingram, chairman of the research department of the Chamber of Commerce, argued that imposition of the section would create new sea lanes between the Atlantic Coast and the Far East to the detriment of the Pacific Coast ports. Shipping out of this port was 103,000 deadweight, American, as against 241,000 deadweight foreign, and the loss of the foreign charters would be a heavy blow, according to figures presented by Ingram.

The cargo capacity is 2 1-4 times the deadweight tonnage, Ingram said. This fact, coupled with that of strong eastern competition, made it necessary that no differential be imposed, discretionary or otherwise, as between American and foreign bottoms, it was argued.

The operation of the section is in the hands of the Shipping Board.

Church Wages Fight Against Flapper Dress

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ROME, July 17.—The Roman Catholic Church authorities have made another move in their fight against modern fashions. Outside the entrance to the Holy Staircase, which is daily ascended on their knees by many or both sexes, has been posted this sign:

"By order of the superior ecclesiastical authorities, women, young girls and children who intend to ascend the Holy Staircase on their knees or walk up the stairway at the side, must absolutely wear modest dresses and of decent length. Otherwise they will be forbidden to perform this pious exercise."

The staircase was brought from Jerusalem during the crusades and is supposed to be the one which Christ ascended in Pilate's palace. It may be ascended only on the knees and consists of twenty-eight marble steps.

OFFICER REVIEWS HAWAIIAN TROOPS

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HONOLULU, July 17.—More than 8000 men, representing every branch of the United States Army except cavalry, passed in review at Schofield Barracks today before Maj.-Gen. C. S. Farnsworth, chief of infantry, who is here inspecting the Hawaiian Department of the Army.

GEORGE PAUL HARRISON

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OEPLIKA (Ala.) July 17.—Gen. George Paul Harrison, former commander-in-chief of the Confederate veterans and at 22 years of age the youngest brigadier-general ever commissioned by the Confederate States of America, died at his home here today. He was 81 years old.

VOLCANO AGAIN SPOUTING LAVA

Brilliant Molten Fountain Sprayed High Into Air by Kilauea

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HONOLULU, July 17.—Kilauea volcano, whose lake of molten lava some weeks ago dropped hundreds of feet and led to speculation as to whether the crater ever again would be active, broke forth again today with its old time vigor. Lava spurted 100 feet from the bottom, making a livid pool 300 feet in diameter, with brilliant molten fountains spraying forty feet into the air.

POSTAL DEPOTS TO BE BOUGHT

Uncle Sam to Quit Paying High Rents

Service to be Put Under Government Roofs

Work to Execute Harding's Budget Scheme

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Uncle Sam is tired of paying rent for countless postoffice locations and proposes to stop it in every city, town and hamlet. The government is now paying in rent for this purpose alone the equivalent of interest at five per cent on $200,000,000 every year and when it is finished has nothing to show for it. Ten million dollars a year in rent is an enormous drain on the postal service and with the extension of the parcels post system and the need for more room the officials of the Federal government are determined to change the entire postal policy and place all postal service under government-owned roofs, including all th evast motor equipment now owned by the government and operated for the delivery of mails and parcels post.

Legislation to accomplish this result may be necessary but ever since the budget system has been established this leak has been criticised severely and suggestions have been made to cure it.

SURVEY ORDERED

The first step was taken today when a flying squadron of fifteen postal inspectors were brought to Washington to be converted into real estate experts to make a survey of the country and secure options on adequate quarters and all postal centers not now owned by the government. This work will require some time and in every case the government will attempt to secure two or more alternate proposals from which to select satisfactory postal headquarters.

This activity of Postmaster-General Work is in line with the suggestion of President Harding for getting the whole government operation on a more business-like basis, and is forced on the officials by the constantly increasing rentals required by property owners who desire to lease to the government.

CHEAPER SITES SOUGHT

The government in this operation must meet the industrial and commercial competition of private firms and individuals, and in many cases local influence has compelled the selection of postoffices in the most expensive sections of crowded cities, thus increasing the toll the government has had to pay. It is proposed to decentralize as much as possible these quarters and get practical sites which can be purchased on a basis much less than the annual rent now paid for quarters in the congested portions of cities and towns. With the spread of city delivery and the almost complete extension of rural free delivery the necessities for central locations is not what they once were and the administration believes that a great saving and increased efficiency can be evolved.

COMPANY DECLINES TO GIVE UP PATENTS

GERMAN AGENTS WORKING ON CASE, OFFICIAL DECLARES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 17. — The Chemical Foundation, Inc., has declined to comply with the request of Alien Property Custodian Thomas W. Miller that it return to the government the patents, trademarks and copyrights assigned to the company, a letter written by Francis P. Garvan, president of the foundation, made public today, discloses.

Another letter, from Mr. Garvan to President Harding, avers that the information given the President about the case "has been furnished by German agents, to an ex-German spy and interpreted by lawyers whose sole knowledge of the war and its lessons is derived from association with German clients."

The President is urged by Mr. Garvan to seek "other counsel," the letter declaring that he has been "grossly misled by the Attorney-General both as to the law and the facts of the case."

In his letter to Alien Property Custodian Miller, Mr. Garvan states:

"You are advised that this company is owner in its own right, of all the aforesaid patents, trademarks and copyrights and of the income derived therefrom. The company denies that the United States government, or you as Alien Property Custodian, or anyone other than this company, has any right, title or interest in said patents."

SAN FRANCISCO PLANS REVIVAL OF FESTIVAL

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—This city's Portola festival will be revived and made an annual affair, it was announced today, following the meeting of the committee named to make plans for the celebration. The next festival will be held in October, 1923, it was announced, making the third of the city's Portola fetes. The Portola festival is to be similar to the Mardi Gras of New Orleans, it was said.

Stabbed by Neuritis!

Many people suffer attacks by this arch-fiend, commonly called "nerve inflammation." The first warning is usually a sharp, stabbing pain, which may "come and go" or hurt constantly. You may feel it in the shoulder, neck, forearm, small of the back, down the thigh and leg to the heel. It is sometimes mistaken for sciatica, rheumatism or neuralgia, which often end in neuritis.

No matter where you have nerve pains or what caused them, you can get quick relief without using narcotics or poison. Just apply Tramol over the part that hurts, and in a few minutes the pain will be gone.

Tramol is absorbed through the pores of the skin. It has a soothing, healing effect upon the diseased nerves, gradually helping to restore them to healthy condition.

Don't suffer any longer. Price $1 at any reliable druggist.

LIQUOR EVAPORATES AT POLICE STATION

WHISKY SEIZED IN RAID BY NEW YORK POLICE DISAPPEARS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 17. — Rapid evaporation of bottled liquor while in custody of the police was reported today by M. H. Elvidge, wealthy president of the Asphalt Roof Company.

Attaches of Police Inspector Boland's department raided Elvidge's West End-avenue home on June 29 last, and took away all of his private stock, consisting of 464 quarts of fine liquors.

They also arrested Mrs. Elvidge, who resisted the raiders, but released her immediately on order of Magistrate Renaud, who ruled that the liquors belonged to the Elvidges and should be returned to them. The magistrate censured the police for making the raid without a warrant.

Complying with the magistrate's order, the police took back to the Elvidge home 190 bottles of the seized stuff. Elvidge refused to accept it. He wants it all—to the very last drop—or none, he says. Evaporation at the rate of 274 quarts in less than three weeks is not normal, he contends.

Dist.-Atty. Banton promised today that if the missing eleven cases and more are not returned shortly, he will permit Elvidge to put the matter up to the grand jury.

There is consternation tonight at the inspector's headquarters.

GIRL'S SMILE STOPS TRAFFIC

Miss Hyacinth Brown

A PRETTY GIRL smiled in the yards of the Union Pacific System yesterday.

Switching crews paused, freight trains halted and a big locomotive was especially "spotted" alongside the smile. Then hundreds of employees and officials came scurrying out to greet the winsome miss and be photographed with her.

The event was the climax to a drive made upon employees and officials of the road by Miss Hyacinth Brown, the Union Pacific's candidate for queen of the Spanish War Veteran's convention to be held here in August. Miss Brown sold thousands of votes and placed herself in a good way to win the honor, according to H. E. Atwater, her zealous campaign manager.

A ball and reception in her honor have been planned by officials and employees for the evening of the 21st inst. in the Goldberg-Bosley auditorium.

All the money obtained from the sale of popularity votes will be used to defray expenses of the visiting Spanish-American War veterans at their convention here in August.

JUDGE APPROVES DIVORCE ACTION

Mrs. Florence Krebs Wins Fight for Decree

Charges Husband Gave Other Woman Attention

Wins Custody of Couple's Minor Child

A report of Referee E. P. Werner, granting Mrs. Florence Krebs, prominent in Pasadena society, a divorce from Dr. L. L. Krebs, was approved by Presiding Judge Willis last Tuesday, it became known yesterday. The suit, in which Mrs. Krebs charges mental cruelty, was filed on the 1st inst., and was heard by Referee Werner ten days later.

Mrs. Krebs, who married Dr. Krebs in Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 17, 1898, recited a long list of purported acts of cruelty on the part of her wealthy husband. In his answer he denied all her charges.

She declared that during the last five years, her husband, without reason, was utterly indifferent to her and the children. He refused to speak to her and the children, she asserted, frequently refused to appear or accompany her to social gatherings; repeatedly ignored remarks and questions addressed to him by her; persisted in remaining from home at all hours of the night and refused to explain his absences; swore at her when angry, and stated he hates the sight of her.

During the latter part of 1917, Mrs. Krebs stated her husband formed an intimate friendship with another woman, passing his leisure in her company. When in May, 1918, Mrs. Krebs remonstrated with him about his conduct, Dr. Krebs stated he would give up his wife and family before he would the friendship with the other woman, she asserts. He told his wife, she testified, that he did not care for her and that he loved another woman, whose name he did not divulge. As a result of this purported conduct, Mrs. Krebs said, she suffered a nervous breakdown.

Mrs. Krebs was represented before the referee by Attorneys Janeway Beach and Pratt. W. I. Gilbert appeared for Dr. Krebs. Mrs. Krebs was awarded the custody of the minor child.

Ship Brings in Turtles Caught at Tehuantepec

Capt. C. H. Breericks, skipper of the freighter Cape Romain, offers Tehuantepec turtles as a solution of the high cost of living problem.

Two of the equatorial reptiles were brought into Los Angeles Harbor alive yesterday on the Cape Romain, when she arrived from Baltimore. Fishermen declare that the monster turtles, kept in a canvas tank, are the first of their species ever kept alive in California's comparatively frigid atmosphere.

Nine turtles, each larger than an ordinary dining table top, were caught in forty-five minutes by the crew of the Cape Romain while passing through the Gulf of Tehuantepec, off the Central American coast. Until the steamer reached port yesterday, turtle was featured on the Cape Romain menus.

WITNESS HORSEWHIPPED

Mrs. Minnie Neighbors Victim of Attack by Daughter of Mrs. Minnie Unger, Litigant in Will Case

Failing to obtain information she asked of Mrs. Minnie Neighbors of 501 South Boyle avenue concerning the contested will case of Mrs. Minnie Unger last year, Mrs. Emily Croll, daughter of Mrs Unger, late yesterday afternoon enforced her demands with a horse whip, according to her own admissions to the police.

Mrs. Neighbors, the police stated, was severely beaten by Mrs. Croll before neighbors interfered. Mrs. Croll admitted to Officers Western and Baker at the Receiving Hospital, where she was taken in a hysterical condition, that she had struck Mrs. Neighbors with the whip.

WOMAN IS EXCITED

"She would not tell me the truth," Mrs. Croll excitedly told the officers. "She told on the witness stand that my mother had given me money when I had not received a cent, so that my brother and sister would receive the bulk of my mother's estate. For a year, ever since the trial, I have been looking for Mrs. Neighbors. Yesterday I found her and asked her to tell me the truth, but she refused. She deserved what I gave her."

Mrs. Neighbors, who was a witness in the Fatty Arbuckle trials in San Francisco, was advised by the police that she could swear to a complaint against Mrs. Croll today if she wished.

MRS. CROLL NOT HELD

Mrs. Croll was taken by the police to the Receiving Hospital for treatment, but she was not officially held by them.

The trouble between the two women is said to have risen from the will case in March of last year. Mrs. Croll contested her mother's will, charging that Charles W. Unger, her brother, and Frances Moorman Unger, her sister, had used undue influence upon her mother. The property was said to have had a valuation of $6700.

Mrs. Croll was bequeathed $500 and the residue was given to her brother and sister. Mrs. Croll asserted that her mother was not competent to make a will and that the document was illegally signed

FIGHT FOR LEGACY TO END TODAY

Contest for Shoe Man's Estate Will Go to Jury for Settlement

The trial of the Burns will contest before a jury of ten women and two men in Jude Rives's court since the 10th inst., which resolved itself into the question of the sanity of the late M. P. Burns, wealthy shot merchant, will close today. The attorneys in the case began their arguments yesterday afternoon.

The sensational features of the contest were ruled out by the court. The contestants, the brothers, sister and nephew of Matthew P. Burns, contended that Ma Burns was of unsound mind when he executed his will, leaving the bulk of his $100,000 estate to his second wife, Adeline Law Burns, mother of Gloria Swanson, cinema star. Mrs. Burns declared to the contrary. Gloria Swanson attended the trial, but did not go on the stand.

She was brought into the case when the contestants set up that she and her mother entered into a conspiracy and that Gloria showed great affection for Mr. Burns.

Under the will, the contestants, Margaret Graham, a sister; J. Burns Graham, a nephew; T. A. and John A. Burns, brothers of the decedent, were bequeathed small legacies.

George Beebe and Marion Wright represent the contestants; Joseph Scott, A. L. Ritter and James Pope are counsel for Mrs. Burns, who is seeking to probate the will.

JONES CASE DROPPED BY GRAND JURY

Not Sufficient Evidence to Justify Further Action in Woolwine Investigation

The charge of Ida Wright Jones, formerly an investigator in the District Attorney's office concerning her asserted relations with Dist.-Atty. Woolwine, will not be given any further attention by the grand jury.

This was decided upon late yesterday afternoon after Miss Jones had gained her testimony and after two physicians, whose names were not revealed, had been heard. No formal report was prepared, but the grand jury made a statement for the public and the press which said:

"Our investigation of the Jones-Woolwine charges did not disclose sufficient evidence to justify further action."

R. W. George of Whittier, foreman of the grand jury, refused to comment upon this statement other than to say he "understood it worked both ways." This is believed to mean the dismissal not only of Miss Jones's charges against Mr. Woolwine, but also of Mr. Woolwine's charge that the former employee of his office had offered to sell information against him to his political enemies.

MUST .. FACE .. GRAVE .. CHARGES

Former Naval Officer Arrested in Chicago

Accused as "World's Meanest Thief"

William A. Day, formerly in charge of mess fund of U.S.S. Mississippi at Los Angeles Harbor.

WILLIAM A. DAY, who is asserted to have deserted from the U.S.S. Mississippi as she lay at anchor in Los Angeles Harbor last December, has finally been seized in Chicago. With Day at the time of his disappearance went $1200 belonging to the chief petty officers' mess fund, according to official complaints. He had also cashed numerous forged checks in Los Angeles Harbor, it is charged.

The trail led to Honolulu, where radio messages were sent to intercept him, and then to Portland, Or., where the police believed they had caught the former gun turret captain.

Since leaving his ship Day is reported to have spent the greater part of his time in sending messages to parents, stating their son was dead and asking for money.

He is said to have obtained $10,000 in this way, among his victims being his own mother, from whom he got $700.

POLICEMAN IS WOUNDED BY AUTOIST

Speeder Ordered to Stop Fires and Flees; Machine Abandoned by Assailant

Motorcycle Policeman Chester R. Bandle was shot in the right shoulder late last night by a speeding motorist, whom he had chased for seven blocks through downtown streets. A minute after the officer fell from his motorcycle the motorist abandoned his machine at Eighth and Hill streets and fled on foot.

Bandle first observed the speeding car at Thirteenth and Main streets, traveling along at the rate of forty miles per hour. He gave chase.

"Draw up to the curb," commanded Bandle when he caught up with the flying auto. The driver stepped on the accelerator and careened into Ninth street.

At Hill street, the officer once more overtook him. This time the man stopped. A gun flashed into view and the next instant Bandle toppled from his motorcycle. As the car speeded away he fired one shot, but it failed to take effect.

Bandle was rushed to the Receiving Hospital, where his wound was found to be not serious. A flying squadron of policemen started out immediately in quest of the unknown motorist, but only his machine could be found.

In charging the jury, Judge Houser instructed the body to acquit M. C. Barnard and W. M. Currie. The other defendants in the case are W. L. Barnard, B. A. Dennison, D. H. Dunn and Robert Tune.

CITY TO VOTE ON TAX BOOST

Mayor, Efficiency Expert and Council Agree New Rate Necessary to Operate Municipality

To provide sufficient income to conduct the city government of Los Angeles, it was agreed at a conference held yesterday afternoon, attended by Mayor Cryer, members of the City Council and Efficiency Director Eldridge, that the Council will place on the ballot at the State-county primaries to be held on August 29 a charter amendment to increase the tax limit on each $100 of property valuation in the city from $1 to $1.25.

This increase, Efficiency Director Eldridge stated, would on the present property valuation, increase the annual city revenues $1,875,000, and this increase, the Mayor and Councilmen agreed, will enable the city to repeal its admittedly unjust occupational or business tax.

The city's revenues from taxation under the $1 limit will this year be about $7,000,000. With a budget of necessary expenses of $11,500,000 it will be necessary to continue the occupational tax this year and to deplete the city's reserve fund to the extent of $1,500,000 to meet the deficit.

The Mayor and the Councilmen, with the approval of a number of civic organizations, have agreed that an educational campaign must be conducted to put through an increase of the $1 tax limit, and this campaign will be conducted in order to secure support for the increase proposition, which will appear on the ballot on August 29.

TILT MARKS MADALYNNE CASE TRIAL

Witness Convicted of Felony Says He Never "Framed on Woman"

Declaring that although he had been convicted of a felony, he has never been guilty of "framing on a woman," Lloyd W. Smith, who recently confessed to taking $20,000 from the mails, yesterday caused considerable commotion in Judge Shenk's court, when he testified in behalf of Mrs. Madalynne C. Obenchain, charged with the murder of J. Belton Kennedy. The answer, with those that followed, precipitated a violent tilt between the witness and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Keyes.

Smith had been called to refute certain statements made by Paul P. Roman, reputed convict lover of Madalynne. He declared that Roman once told him that if Mrs. Obenchain did not "come through with some cash he would sure get her."

Later Mr. Keyes asked him why the prisoners felt so bitter toward Roman for testifying. Smith replied that the inmates of the jail felt that Roman was gaining his freedom by lying about a woman.

A number of Madalynne's friends took the stand during the day, among them Mrs. Bessie Wiedoeft and Mrs. M. C. Demond. Linton Wells, a local newspaper man, testified that J. D. Kennedy, father of the slain man, approached Mrs. Obenchain in Beverly Glen the morning following the murder and with an oath declared that he would "fix" her. The testimony was substantiated by P. F. Cook, another newspaper man.

Many others were called, the majority of them for the purpose of impeaching the State's witnesses.

Home for Duck with Four Legs Sought on Pike

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONG BEACH, July 17.—Embryonic Barnums take notice. Pointing the way to fame and fortune, maybe, Mrs. Margaret Calhoun, wife of Commander William Calhoun, U.S.N., has written the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce from her home in San Francisco, offering for sale a four-legged duck with the suggestion that it be exhibited on the Pike as a freak in a sideshow.

"Will you please advise me if you know anyone who would be interested in buying a four-legged duck?" the letter reads. "My husband, Commander William Calhoun, has raised one which is nearly 3 months old. I know they have freaks on the Pike which they exhibit," Mrs. Calhoun's letter concluded.

KEEN CONTEST TO WIN HOMES

Candidates Working Hard for "Times" Prizes

Extra Vote Offer Spur to Active Effort

No Limit is Placed on the Number of Clubs

Candidates in The Times great $70,000 prize campaign are beginning to count the days that are left before the close of the 75,000 extra vote offer. They are working with renewed enthusiasm in building as many $30 clubs as possible before July 26. It's a big bonus to add to their vote totals, and they are speeding up as the days slip by.

Many who have delayed active effort since entering the campaign, are waking up. This is their big chance. They are out to win now, and know this is the best time to make a showing.

New nominations are coming in from all directions, as many realize that The Times prize campaign is just getting under way. Suddenly they have determined to enter and get their share of the wonderful prizes offered. They want to take advantage of the 75,000 extra vote offer before it is too late. A little extra effort now will build up a number of $30 clubs of new subscriptions, and they will jump into leading positions.

NO LIMIT TO CLUBS

There is no limit to the number of clubs a candidate may turn in. Each club gets an extra 75,000 votes.

The feature which, more than all others, is standing out in The Times campaign, is that candidates are enlisted in the laudable arbition of acquiring something which will be to their material advantage.

They have the good wholesome American idea that when the best is offered, no matter what the price mark, it might as well be accepted.

If these persons, who are of the every day human level of financial condition, are trying by their efforts alone to win the best prizes, it follows that any person with a willingness and an average amount of hustle in the make-up has a good right to expect to win any of the worthwhile prizes as much as those who entered.

SEEK BEAUTIFUL HOMES

Knowledge of this fact is bringing many of the new candidates into the campaign. They are entering the race for one of the two beautiful homes—though they are all setting their mark for the $16,500 Wilshire Crest home.

The building of these homes is going forward speedily. Large forces of workmen are hustling on the job of getting these houses ready for their new owners.

In the city division voting is fast becoming spirited, and the outside divisions show a keener competition from day to day. It is the 75,000 vote offer that has caused al this fervor and enthusiasm—and it is a spirit that sweeps men and women on to victory.

CALLS TACTICS SACRILEGE

Wallace Blood, Director of America's First Radio Tour, Criticises Broadcast Practices

"Having listened in on practically every broadcasting station in the country and in that listening having heard practically every conceivable type of radio program, I come to Los Angeles to hear sacrilege," was the comment of Wallace Blood, conductor of America's first radio tour from Detroit to Los Angeles, when interviewed yesterday.

"I have been in Los Angeles three days," he continued. "In that time I have listened in to all of your stations from my radio-equipped car. My comment on the situation here is 'radio in Los Angeles is dead! Long live radio!' The climax of the effrontery, the intolerance and the acme of 'public-be-damned' attitude of several of the Los Angeles radio stations came to my ears Sunday morning. In the middle of a prayer—a prayer, mind you, offered by a minister of the gospel—the air exploded with a raucous voice from another station crying for recognition.

What Federal law allows any

radio station to blat through into the mouth of a sermon from the gospel? What would happen to a man who would rush wildly down a church aisle shouting madly at the preacher to stop speaking of God?

"I am a radio listener, one of the well-known general public trying to get some pleasure out of the radiations in the air. For three days I have tuned, and tuned and tuned. Nine-tenths of the offerings which have come to my ears are phonograph records, terribly modulated, mostly jazz. I have a phonograph, thank you. I believe the great majority of my radio-listening brothers have a phonograph. The music which comes out of our phonographs is excellently modulated by a carefully constructed horn. It is of our own selection, and we enjoy these instruments. But I'm hanged if I get any thrill out of tuning the air most any time from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m., and hearing a noise like a boiler factory, which in its last analysis presumes to be Carolina, or Michigan or Hill Street or Somethingorother Blues. That mess of pottage has been given to us for three days now on a so-called test. Why all this testing? Where does the public come in? After the last tooth is picked there is nothing left but the general public to appeal to. You are giving your concerts to them. Do they care whether you radiate three amps. or 100 watts? An ohm to them is something measured out the size of an egg. Why not test off the regular programs? Any committee should be perfectly capable of judging from a regular program. Then the innocent public is given a fair lease on radio pleasure."

Mr. Blood was informed that these tests were conducted for the purpose of classifying the stations in Southern California and that the quality of the stations was determined on the following percentages: 50 per cent for distance audibility, 30 per cent for quality of program and 20 per cent for quality of modulation. His comment was, "By such a basis the listening public, which is your only radio salvation, received 20 per cent consideration. Fifty per cent is allowed for distance audibility. Consequently the station which can poke out a din which will go the farthest and then can gather in another few points for quality of program by putting on the president of some railroad as a speaker will win. But the station which gives the people a faithful reproduction of music or voice, harmonious, clear and beautiful—the kind of an entertainment the public wants—falls in the bottom of the column.

"Fifty per cent for modulation and the other 50 for program would, in my opinion, fit the listening public better. I do not believe that the committee which established these percentages took into consideration the fact that a station having a distance audibility of 1000 miles from Los Angeles will reach over 50 per cent of the population in that area in a narrow strip of land from the Mexican border to a few miles north of San Francisco."

When questioned concerning the quality of the programs in the Los Angeles district, Mr. Blood said, "That is difficult to answer because there are so few stations sending out programs. You can go into any phonograph shop and hear many records free. These phonograph shops do not call these performances programs. The Los Angeles stations which are sending out singing, instrumental music and talks by local talent are taking the direction which has made the eastern broadcast stations so successful. They are helping to build Los Angeles, increase recognition of its local talent and they are giving the public something worth listening to. If many of the stations in this city do not soon come to realize that they must rebuild themselves, the public here will stop listening, will stop buying radio products, and the game will die. Broadcast stations created to instigate the purchase of radio instruments; stations catering to a street-corner, jazzing, phonograph public; stations with unscientific modulation, and cold-blooded insolence of one radio station to another will be out of this town before fall, or the public itself will defeat the game. I believe a landslide majority of the listening public will agree with me."

AFTERNOON PROGRAM IS CANCELED

Soprano and Pianist Score in Evening Bill and Win Many Converts

The Times—KHJ—on the air today from 7:15 to 8 p.m. Flora Myers Engle, soprano, accompanied by Maestro William Tyroler, will sing, "Suicidio," from "La Gioconda," by Ponchielli, "The Lamp of Love," by Salter, and "Until," by Sanderson. Alice Beck, banjo soloist, will play "Old Black Joe," by Foster; "Dixie Medley," arranged by Emerson, and "Silver Threads Among the Gold," by Denks. F. E. Geiger, basso, accompanied by Mrs. Charles F. Reiche, will sing "Hear Me, Ye Winds and Waves," by Handel, from "Julius Caesar," "Noon and Night," by Hawley, and "Exhortation," a dialect negro song. News items and the bedtime story.

Because of tests being made, KHJ did not put on its usual 1 o'clock program yesterday, nor will it do so today, but the evening program last night was of rich merit and made up in a measure for the lack of an afternoon bill. Mrs. Robert Richards, soprano, accompanied by Mrs. I. C. Kelly, sang three excellent solos—"Like a Rosebud," by Frank LaForge, "Open Thy Blue Eyes," by Massenet, and "Do You Know My Sweet," from "Madam Butterfly," by Puccini. Her voice has a rich clarity that won her a host of admirers among listeners-in last night.

Two especially well rendered piano solos were broadcast last night by Eunice Abernathy-Downey—"Hungarian," by MacDowell, and "Valse in G. Flat," by Chopin. Her playing shows fine technique, and she has rare ability to color her selections to make them all the more appealing.

MAN FOUND DEAD DRUNK IN MACHINE

Police Locate Trusty Deep in Alcoholic Slumber After Brief Vacation

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, July 17.—"There's a dead man in an automobile out here," the police were informed over the telephone at an early hour this morning.

Hurrying to Ocean and Atlantic avenues, Officers Bailey, Fridley and Munson were shown the automobile in question and throwing their flashlights in the tonneau found Harry P. Smith, an escaped trusty from the city lock-up.

Smith was far from dead but the fumes from bootleg whisky permeated the atmosphere in his immediate vicinity and they took him to the police station and locked him in the tank from which he deserted last Tuesday. When Smith awoke to the familiar scenes of days gone by, he sighed with relief, rolled over and smiling contentedly, went back to sleep.

After he serves out the unexpired portion of a sentence for intoxication a charge of escaping jail will be placed against him, the police said this morning.

C. N. Fisher at Covina reports hearing the ticking of Dean Farran's watch July 14 while the latter was testing at KHJ.

Prof. Elihu Thompson produced and operated the first radio set in history, according to Prof. Knoll, head of the physics department, Central High School, Philadelphia. Experiments were made about the latter part of 1875, says Prof. Knoll, who together with Prof. Thompson, was then teaching at the same institution. An induction coil with a two-inch spark gap was used for a transmitter. For the receiver a box open on one side, with two graphite pencil points adjusted to a fraction of an inch apart, connected with a large brass ball outside, was employed. A tiny spark was observed between the pencil points, even while the "receiving instruments" were as far as ninety feet from the spark coil. This was twelve years before the German scientist, Heinrich Hertz, informed the scientific world that electro-magnetic waves could be sent out by an induction coil.

The wave length of 600 meters is used for radiogoniometric work exclusively. (Radio compass.)

Oceanic Steamship Co. steamers Ventura and Sonoma, plying between San Francisco and Sydney, Australia, often maintain communication with their home port for a distance of over 5000 miles. These two passenger steamers are equipped with 2 K. W. Federal arc transmitters.

Co-operation of merchant vessels at sea in furnishing detailed reports of local weather conditions, consisting of barometric pressure, wind velocity and direction, state of sea, and kind of quality of clouds, greatly aid the government meteorological bureaus in providing accurate weather forecasts.

Thrice Married, Couple Seeking Freedom Again

Because Mrs. Elizabeth James is seriously ill and may have to undergo an operation, Judge McLucas yesterday decided to wait before deciding whether she or her husband, Harvey James, is entitled to a divorce. Her daughter testified that her mother came to her house and declared that Mr. James was too quarrelsome and she could not do anything to satisfy him. She also stated she did not want to live with him any more.

Mr. and Mrs. James have been married many years. At various times each obtained a divorce, but remarried. The third marriage was Sept. 27, 1919, and the final separation Dec. 7, 1919. Mr. James asks a divorce on the ground of desertion.

BUYER SEES CHANGES IN STYLES FOR MEN

Homer A. Gould, buyer of boy's clothing for Bullock's, has just returned from an extended business tour of all of the big eastern cities. According to Mr. Gould the styles for fall clothing in boy's and young men's suits will be very different from that of the last few years, the extreme lines and tight fitting styles giving way to more roomy and comfortable models.

OFFICIALS TALK OVER RIVER PLAN

Owens River Gorge Power Project is Laid Before Federal Authorities

With a view of establishing provisions for the enlargement of the city's hydroelectric power development program in the Owens River gorge, officials of the Bureau of Power and Light yesterday appeared before Federal and State officials at a public hearing in Bishop.

Representing the Los Angeles power bureau, Chief Electrical Engineer Scattergood, Construction Engineer Gardett and Deputy City Attorney Anderson presented the city's plans for the development of hydroelectric power along Pine Creek, Rock Creek Lake and other tributary streams of Owens River. The hearing on the power bureau's filings was held jointly by the State division of water rights and the Federal Power Commission.

It has been pointed out by Mr. Scattergood that the establishment of dams and reservoirs along the streams tributary to Owens River, as well as on Owens River itself, will greatly benefit the irrigators throughout Owens River Valley.

At the present time, it was explained, the farmers in Owens River Valley depend almost entirely upon the natural flow of the river in securing water for irrigation. This situation almost annually results in a shortage of water at times, when it is most urgently needed by the ranchers. The establishment of storage reservoirs along the mountain streams near Bishop, it was pointed out, will not only make possible the development of hydroelectric power by the city, but will also bring about such a regulation of the water supply as will insure a dependable and sufficient amount of water—at all times—for irrigation purposes in Owens River Valley.

Drunk, Speeding, is Given Ninety Days Sentence

A ninety-day jail sentence was imposed upon F. Montoya yesterday by Police Judge Richardson, after Montoya was found guilty by the court of having, while he was intoxicated, driven his car into a machine driven by L. Asher of 917 South Hill street yesterday, on North Broadway near Mission Road.

Soon after Montoya was given his sentence, Edgar Cady, no address given, aged about 60 years, was taken to the Receiving Hospital in the police ambulance suffering from concussion of the brain, two fractured ribs and shock, as the result of being knocked down by a Los Angeles street car on the company's right of way. Motorman W. S. Kennedy and Conductor E. J. Stolen were in charge of the street car. Cady, according to Police Surgeon Saverlen, is in a critical condition.

BODY IDENTIFIED

Man Killed by Train Found To Be War Veteran

The body of the young man killed late Sunday night by a Southern Pacific passenger train at Naud Junction was identified yesterday as that of Charles L. Easley, a World War veteran. Two witnesses told the Coroner's office that they saw him crawl onto the tracks as the train was passing. The body is at the Button undertaking establishment.

TELEPHONE BUILDING IS INSPECTED

New Structure Officially Opened by Corporation; Other Additions Planned

Mayor Cryer, the City Council and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association and the Board of Public Utilities, besides thousands of other citizens, inspected the new ten-story building of the Southern California Telephone Company at 740 South Olive street, yesterday. It was the official opening day of the corporation's new business quarters, which were moved in even before the building was completed.

This premature haste was necessary, according to telephone officials, because the space in the old building at 716 South Olive street is immediately needed for additional operating equipment. In May a 10,000-station automatic unit was installed there, and now the largest single unit of switchboard ever manufactured—with a capacity of more than 40,000 stations—is to be put in place in the old building.

The telephone company is also making extensive additions to its other plants. Four stories are to be built upon the present six-story structure in Hill street, and excavation work is going on in Hollywood for the first of three units, which will accommodate equipment to serve 75,000 telephones. Additions to the company's Wilshire and Vermont offices are now being completed.

JAUNTING DELEGATES ARE HOME

Local Greeters Visited Pittsburg and All Other Wayside Points

Three travel-weary delegates wandered into Los Angeles last night. They were T. M. Towne, J. Y. Bedell and J. L. Edwards, returning from the National Convention of the Greeters of America, held in Pittsburg June 12 to 16, inclusive. Mr. Towne is secretary of the local Chapter No. 19, Greeters of America. Mr. Bedell is manager of the Hayward—and incidentally Mayor of Hermosa Beach. Mr. Edwards is manager of the Hollenbeck. They were Los Angeles' delegates to the national affair.

All three of the gentlemen were appreciative of the entertainment offered them en route to and from the convention. On their way East they stopped off at St. Louis, Denver and Chicago. They arrived at Denver in time to participate in the dedication ceremonies of the new Greeters' Home there. In the intervening days since the close of the convention and the return home, the three delegates have been touring the country, visiting all the large cities.

Former Land Registrar and Wife Reunited

Starting married life anew for Benjamin F. Groves, Registrar of the United States Land Office, did not become a reality until late last Friday evening, when he was reunited in marriage to Florence E. Groves, by Justice Cox, in Santa Ana, it became known yesterday.

Last October Mr. Groves stated that he and his wife had made up and would move to his ranch near Fresno. With this announcement it was also said that Mrs. Groves would never request her final decree of divorce, the interlocutory decree having been granted Oct. 19, 1920.

But somehow the proverbial slip occurred. Mr. Groves went to live on his ranch alone, and Mrs. Groves remained in Los Angeles.

Last Friday a marriage license was issued to the two. Later in the evening they called at the home of Justice Cox at Santa Ana, and were married.

"They seemed mighty happy, too," the justice said. "And now they are going to live on the ranch."

CAPTURED AUTOS SOLD

Cars Taken from Bootleggers Go Under Hammer

U. S. Marshal Sittel yesterday disposed at public auction of eleven automobiles captured in raids of bootleggers for a total of $4300. The highest figure was received for a Chandler of late make, which brought $585. There were twelve machines to be offered at public vendue, but one of them was turned over to H. H. Dolley, prohibition agent-in-charge, to be used in chasing violators of the prohibition amendment. U. S. District Judge Bledsoe issued the order turning the machine over to Agent Dolley.

HUSBAND SAID HER RELIGION TOMMYROT

Matrimony and religion did not mix in the home of Mrs. May Hamilton Day, pastor of the Universal Church of the Master of Long Beach, according to a complaint for divorce filed yesterday by her against Thomas M. Day. Mrs. Day charges cruelty.

According to the papers in her suit, her husband told her that her religion was "tommyrot" and that she could "go to h—— with it."

DRUG ADDICT GETS HEAVY PRISON TERM

Fred Cannon, who was found guilty of a violation of the Harrison Narcotic Law, was given two years and a half in the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., yesterday by U. S. Dist. Judge Trippet. Cannon is an addict, and strong pressure was brought to bear for the exercise of leniency, but to no effect.

Men Wanted

For service as Railroad Machinists, Blacksmiths, Sheet Metal Workers, Coppersmiths, Car Inspectors, Boilermakers, Electricians, Pipefitters, Rinners, Car Repairers, Helpers, All Classes.

UNDER STRIKE CONDITIONS

Best explained by Chairman Ben W. Hooper of the United States Railroad Board in his statement of July 1, reading as follows:

"In this case, the conflict is not between the employer and the oppressed employees. The people of the country, through an act of Congress, signed by President Wilson, established a tribunal to decide such disputes over wages and working conditions, which are submitted to it in a proper manner. It is the decision by this tribunal against which the shopcrafts are striking.

"Regardless of any question of the right of the men to strike, the men who take the strikers' places are merely accepting the wages and working conditions prescribed by a government tribunal and are performing a public service. They are not accepting the wages and working conditions which the employer is trying to impose. For this reason, public sentiment and full governmental power will protect the men who remain in their positions and any new men who may come in."

Adequate provisions have been made for the full protection of all our employees, the same as old employees who have remained loyally at work. Applicants should apply at Southern Pacific Employment Bureaus, 65 Market St., San Francisco, or any of the following officers: Superintendent (2nd & C Station,) San Francisco, Oakland Pier, Sacramento, Stockton, Dunsmuir, Bakersfield, Los Angeles. Assistant Superintendents, Sparks, Nevada, and Roseburg, Oregon. Superintendent Motive Power, Sacramento and Los Angeles.

Stops Pain Instantly

The simplest way to end a corn is this way. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in two forms—a soft, clear liquid (one drop does it) and in extra thin plasters. Use whichever form you prefer, plasters or liquid—the action is the same. Both gentle. Made in a world-famed laboratory. Sold by all druggists.

LEGION TO AID CRIPPLED TOTS

"We're going to make Los Angeles primitive for ten days. We're going to make it wild and woolly.

"When the plan was first presented," he added, "members of Victory Post were doubtful of its feasibility. Then we took it to a man who has conducted the biggest drives for funds ever held. We took it to three showmen who know what will draw crowds. We took it to a banker who is connected with nearly every civic project of any size. They all approved it and promised to help put it over. So we have started."

A board of governors has been formed, comprising some of the best known men and women in Los Angeles.

Approval of the project was given by the Orthopaedic Foundation and the Crippled Children's Guild, which governs the hospital-school, at a special meeting last night. The two boards welcomed the offer of the Legion boys with enthusiasm.

WELCOME INTEREST

"We welcome the interest of young men, which this offer insures, even more than the magnanimous gift which it brings," George W. Dryer, president of the foundation, told Capt. Harry E. Insley, chairman of the post's executive committee. "It means that as we of this generation leave the work we have begun there will be others to carry it on. It means an aroused interest of the public in the problem of the handicapped."

The Orthopaedic Hospital-School is the only institution in Los Angeles given over to the one work of redeeming the deformed child for a life of usefulness. Little dumb children are there taught, through patient and sympathetic training, how to speak. Crippled youngsters undergo corrective treatment until their muscles function like other children's and they can walk and run and throw and jump. Meanwhile a teacher supplied by the Board of Education sees to their education. And the medical staff of the hospital-school serves without pay.

The institution is eleven years old. Although its first adequate building was dedicated only last April, it is already full. A new building is needed, for one of the clinics is housed in what once was a stable on the three-acre park donated by John Brockman.

Wife Ignored "Vollstead Act," Spouse Charges

In their home they had their own little "Vollstead act," but it didn't work. The act referred to contained the orders of Otto Vollstead to his wife, Mrs. Elfie Vollstead. He told her not to do certain things, it seems. She did them. Yesterday he sued for divorce.

According to Mr. Vollstead's complaint, his wife was too fond of a man whom she termed "her hero," having, she declared, once saved her life. She also frequented dance halls and skating rinks, the husband asserts.

CHRIST PLAY DRAWS

Whittier Residents and Dental Body Reserve Seats

Tuesday and Thursday nights at the Pilgrimage Play will be marked by two large delegations for reservation of a special section of seats has been made.

Whittier residents will make a special excursion in to see the play tonight under the auspices of the Whittier Chamber of Commerce, of which Myron Half is secretary.

Hamburger employees will attend the production the same evening, having arranged for a large group of seats for the occasion.

Thursday night the National Dental Association will attend the Pilgrimage Play, while Robinson's employees will occupy a section of seats especially reserved for them upon the same evening.

OPENS CAMPAIGN HEADQUARTERS

Richardson Here After Tour of Forty-five Counties

Southern California Editors Volunteer as Aids

Candidate Says State is Most Extravagant

With "economy" as a slogan in his race for the governor's chair, Friend W. Richardson has opened up his campaign headquarters in the Hayward after "stumping" forty-five counties of the State in his travel-worn automobile. He arrived in Los Angeles Saturday, following a speaking tour of 10,243 miles—a tour in which he paid all his expenses himself.

To a committee of newspapermen Mr. Richardson declared California's government the most extravagant in the Union. He is relying upon the press, rather than a political machine, to gain a victory at the polls, and 196 newspapers already are actively supporting his campaign.

EDITORS IN CHARGE

A number of Southern California editors have volunteered their assistance in taking charge of the Richardson headquarters. The following men were named for this work yesterday: Mondays, J. F. Cramer, Orange News; Tuesdays, F. H. Johnston, Hermosa Review; Wednesdays, E. O. Wicklser, South Pasadena Record; Thursdays, Harlan G. Palmer, Hollywood Citizen; Fridays, J. J. Conrad, Huntington Beach News, and Saturdays, J. R. Gabbert, Riverside Enterprise.

"California has the most expensive State government in the Union," Mr. Richardson told his editorial aides. "It is run by a political machine which exceeds in avarice, power and reckless extravagance any machine in the country. The people's money has been used by the millions of dollars in paying unnecessary salaries to political henchmen and in special appropriations to build up political power.

"I could have been re-elected Treasurer with little trouble, but I feel it my duty to make an effort to do something to help my State. If elected, I promise to kick out of power the present State political machine. I propose to cut down the number of officeholders, help to abolish all unnecessary political sinecures and put the State on an economical and business basis. The machine henchmen know I mean business, hence their frantic effort to perpetuate a dynasty which is noted only for extravagance.

BREAKS ECONOMY PLEDGE

"Political machines all over the country are tottering. Within the past few weeks the great machines in Indiana and Pennsylvania have gone down to inglorious defeat. The people of California realize that they have a political machine so firmly entrenched that many high State officials are but clay in the hands of the bosses. The time has come to do a job of political housecleaning in California.

"Something must be done to relieve the people of the great tax burden yearly growing greater. The biennial budget will convince anyone of the reckless extravagance of the present administration and the need for the practice of economy.

"In six years Gov. Stephens has increased the State expenses nearly threefold without adding any new functions of government or making any improvement in efficiency. Expenses have increased six times as fast as population. In the last campaign he pledged himself to economy, but after election he permitted the machine to go recklessly on piling up State expenses. When the great budget was driven through the last Legislature, the Governor lulled the people with the sophistry that the corporations would pay the tax. The result has shown that the people pay all the taxes, as the load has been put on the people by increases in utility rates permitted by the railroad commission.

FUNDS SQUANDERED

"As a sample of lack of business, look at the highway department which has squandered millions in building roads that break down and is giving out promises to the people that are never kept. Although its roads have proved a signal failure, as shown by the roads themselves, and the Pittsburg test, the Highway Department clings to the false methods and continues throwing money away. Members of the department are actively doing politics for the Governor instead of building roads. The payroll brigade has been increased from 4000 to 11,000 and the number of State-owned pleasure automobiles has increased from about a dozen to 701. Many of these automobiles are being used in political purposes.

"I have campaigned forty-five counties and find the people everywhere aroused at growing State expenses, demanding retrenchment and opposing a third term. There is need for more business and less politics in State government. The time has come to throw out the present political wrecking gang and put a construction crew on the job."

ASKS DAMAGES

Man Seeks Fortune for Asserted False Charges

Joseph Medwin, who declares he was arrested while in San Diego on a purported false charge and deprived of his liberty for ninety days and thereby prevented from attending to business, filed suit yesterday against Earnest Zukin demanding $50,000 for malicious prosecution. He says that after his arrest he was brought to Los Angeles, held to answer on the charge and committed to jail in default of bail. Subsequently he was tried and acquitted.

ASSERTS FIRE DAMAGE

Beulah I. Whitney, who declares that a fire was negligently started by employees of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation on a lot adjoining her property at 2047 East Thirty-seventh street, spreading to her property, demands $17,205.31 damages in a suit filed against the corporation yesterday in the Superior Court. Among other losses she enumerates twenty-eight chickens, fourteen rabbits, twenty-five pigeons and household furniture.

MEET HERE TO DISCUSS JONES BILL

Shipping Board Commission to Arrive Tomorrow from San Francisco

The Shipping Board Commission comprising Admiral William S. Benson, Meyer Lissner and Senator George Chamberlain, accompanied by Clifford Smith, secretary of the board, and G. G. Gerry, examiner-attorney for the Interstate Commerce Commission, Mrs. Benson, Mrs. Lissner and Louis Lissner, is due to arrive at the local port tomorrow morning on the Harvard.

Fred L. Baker and Erle M. Leaf, who are returning to Los Angeles, following an inspection of the British Columbia timber interests, which they recently consolidated with the interests of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry-dock Corporation, will travel with the party from San Francisco.

The visit of the Shipping Board commission is for the purpose of investigation and inspection of local shipping conditions and to gauge the sentiments of shipping men concerning Section 28 of the Jones bill, providing that cargo from inland points for foreign export on American ships shall be given lower rail rates than that destined for exports on vessels of foreign registry. Shipping men generally urge the enforcement of this section, against which, however, the railroad interests are protesting.

Automobiles will meet the party at the Wilmington dock of the Los Angeles Steamship Company, and convey its members to the Alexandria, where a luncheon has been arranged by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, to which all interested in both sides of the question have been invited that they may enjoy an open discussion of this important question before and with the Shipping Board authorities.

TERMINAL TO SPEED UP MAILS

Ground is Broken for New Million - Dollar Railway Postoffice Building

Ground was broken yesterday for the $1,250,000 railway terminal postoffice at the southeast corner of East Third street and Central avenue. The new postoffice is being constructed by the Terminal Development Company of Los Angeles, and will be leased to the Postoffice Department.

The building will contain 150,000 square feet of floor space with adjoining spur tracks and private paved driveways. The Central-avenue frontage will be occupied by the Arcade postoffice substation and will be handsomely furnished and equipped. The remainder of the plant will be used for the receiving, distributing and dispatching of railway mail and will be especially equipped with labor-saving and handling devices for distribution of mail.

It is estimated by the department that twelve hours will be saved in the handling of mail matter in and out of Los Angeles. The business of the Postoffice Department, on account of the rapid increase in population in Los Angeles, has doubled in the last five years, making the present facilities inadequate to handle the business of the department.

The new buildings have been designed so that additional stories can be added thereto to take care of the expanding postal business as required.

The United States Electrical Manufacturing Company, now occupying the building at the corner of Third street and Central avenue, has canceled its lease on this building and is constructing a new plant at Slauson avenue and South Los Angeles street, to which it will remove within the next sixty days.

GUN STOPS GAY PARTY SAYS HOST

Details of Robbers' Visit to Long Beach Home Are Related in Court

Details of a hold-up party some time ago in Long Beach were related for the first time yesterday by John P. Mills, the unwilling host. In Justice of the Peace Hinshaw's court, he identified Harold Brownlee as one of the four men that called at his home, Lincoln and Elm streets, Los Cerritos, while he was entertaining a number of his friends, and left with $4000 worth of jewelry and wearing apparel.

Mr. Mills said he had answered the door bell and one of the quartet thrust a pistol before his nose, while the rest entered and started to hold up the guests. They thought it a practical joke on the part of their host, until Mr. Mills assured them it wasn't.

"This is the man that took up the collection," Mr. Mills said.

"Oh, was it a religious meeting?" inquired the justice.

"No," said Mr. Mills, "but it was a collection." He explained that the men took rings from the women's fingers, money from the men and two women's costly sable coats.

Brownlee was held in $10,000 bond to the Superior Court. He was the only one arrested.

TO REDUCE FARES VIA BAY CITIES

In order that travelers between Los Angeles and Portland may visit San Francisco or Oakland en route without extra charge, reductions in one way fares via the bay cities are to be placed in effect within a short time, according to an announcement made yesterday by General Passenger Agent F. S. McGinnis of the Southern Pacific. Corresponding reductions via San Francisco between points east of Los Angeles and points north of Portland also are to be made.

DEPUTIES ARE NAMED TO PRESERVE PEACE

U. S. MARSHAL SELECTS GUARDS TO INSURE MOVEMENT OF ALL TRAINS

The only local development yesterday of the railway strike situation, so far as the Federal government was concerned, was the announcement by U. S. Marshal Sittel, of the following list of deputy marshals, to assist in preserving order on moving trains, if the occasion should require:

These men will be distributed at Needles, Barstow, San Bernardino, Yermo, Bakersfield and Fresno, and any other point where their services are needed.

Oliver S. Greenwood, in charge of the deputy marshals at San Bernardino, made a personal report to U. S. Atty. Burke and U. S. Marshal Sittel, in regard to the situation at that point. Greenwood was congraulated on the diplomatic manner in which he was handling the situation there, making friends among the strikers and at the same time enforcing the injunction issued by Judges Trippet and Bledsoe.

The day was largely spent by both Burke and Sittel in conferring on the situation and the greatest satisfaction was expressed in regard to the general situation.

The men whose names are given above have been distributed along the lines of the transcontinental lines and are ready for instant action.

COUNTIES' SCHOLARS INCREASE

Angeleno County Report Shows One-third Growth in Past Two Years

The annual report of County Superintendent of Schools Keppel to State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wood was filed yesterday and revealed that there has been an increase in the county school attendance in the last two years of 33 1-3 per cent. On the basis of the ratio of children to adults the population of the county is estimated at 1,270,970.

According to Mr. Keppel's statement, 31,830 more children attend school now than did in 1920. The report states that the average daily attendace is 127,097 in the elementary schools.

The two districts in the county which showed the greatest gain are Eagle Rock and Compton. The former increased 43 per cent and the latter 67 per cent.

The average daily increase in Los Angeles city in the two years is given by Mr. Keppel as 8492.

Combine to Fix Prices Denied by Creamery Head

George E. Platt, president of the Los Angeles Creamery Company, was placed on the stand yesterday by LeCompte Davis, attorney for the defense in the milk case, and testified at length to disprove the contention of the prosecution, headed by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Powell, that a number of milk distributing companies combined to fix prices in restraint of trade.

Mr. Platt stated that on Dec. 30, 1920, the board of directors of his company had decided to reduce the price of milk to the consumer from 18 to 16 cents a quart and the price to producing companies from $1.30 to $1 a pound, butter fat, and that the new prices went into effect on the first of the following February. He declared this was done without any agreement with any other company.

NO PIKER

The director of markets in New York is accused of collecting some $500,000 a year on his own account from peddlers and vegetable vendors. There's a guy that goes marketing to some purpose. He may yet turn up in the Tammany hall of fame.

THE PATHS OF GLORY

The Pabsts have gone into the dairy business on a massive scale and there is much activity in all departments. Who knows but what Milwaukee will be more famous for its cottage cheese and malted milk than it ever was for anything else?

FILLING A CAVITY

While the dentists are here they may be able to fill a long-felt want. They are the men with a pull and can help us with our wisdom teeth. They feel at home in the City of the Angels, for they are accustomed to association with golden crowns. Though sometimes down in the mouth, they are nevertheless apostles of the uplift. The dentist has a tooth for his job.

THE LESSENED RENT

Through one of the big life insurance companies four square blocks of new flats are being built in a substantial and respectable section of New York and will be rented to tenants at the rate of $8 a month for each room. Similar apartments are now renting for from $12 to $20 a month, so that the reduction made is a substantial one. Pulling rents back to normalcy is a slow process, but when there are more houses than families there is something to work on.

MAKING IT UNANIMOUS

Congressman Clyde Kelly of Braddock, Pa., is a Republican, but has also been nominated by the Democrats of his district. It was thought that these things could only happen under the operations of the freak primary law of California, but in this case the district is strongly Republican and Congressman Kelly stands for the interests of the Pennsylvania Democrats as safely as for his own party. The Democrats have no eagerness to present a candidate of their own under the circumstances.

MEASURE FOR MEASURE

The American Designers' Association, an organization of the creators of fashions in men's clothes, is contrite. The members openly acknowledge the error of their way, ask forgiveness and promise never to do it again. Their secretary, Louis Rubin, declares that they now realize that the jazz they put in men's clothing at their last session has been responsible for crime, and to correct their mistake they will see to it that all men get into somber apparel this fall. Louis should really be grateful to the tolerance of the American public that there has been no more crime. How even our best and most peaceable citizens, on seeing a young man in a jazz coat, split up the back to the collar button and fastened in front by a cute little row of buttons close together and with pouch pockets and bulging skirts, have restrained their natural inclination to shoot on sight and put the poor thing out of its misery is one of those things that no man can ever find out.

A WOMAN AUDITS

The city of Long Beach, Walter Barber, Assistant City Manager, skips three days from his office in the merry month of June. Comes the thirtieth of the month and he presents himself for the little old pay envelope. Myrtle L. Gunsul, City Auditor, looks up with a surprised and pained expression. Asks if Mr. Barber was not absent from his office three days in June. Mr. Barber allows that he sure was. Then, says the fair auditor, Mr. Barber is entitled to no pay for the month of June. And to the present writing all officialdom of Long Beach has been unable to make her change her mind, and the City Attorney says she is responsible only to the people. Clearly the lady is misplaced. President Harding could do no greater service to his country than to call her to Washington to take charge of the national budget as a successor to Gen. Charles G. Dawes, who never in his cuestest moments shaved efficiency so well beneath the tender skin of those on the government pay roll.

THE OUTSIDER

The Interstate Counsil for Immigrant Education objects to the proposed House bill which would place a tax of $5 a year on each adult alien and $2 on each child, while requiring a certain standard of education. The objection is said to be on the ground that it takes away a part of the duties of boards of education and local authorities and places the education of our noncitizenship in the hands of the Secretary of Labor. This is said to be not in accord with the best policy. There is also an interference with the rights of States. Here is a chance for an argument at least. While the State may claim the right to educate its citizens, here comes somebody from Albania who is not a citizen. If the government wants to touch him for five bucks and ask him to pass an examination on the primer of citizenship it would seem that no State was being wronged. The States should be ready to pass up their aliens to the general government.

MURDERER McNAMARA—"BUSINESS AGENT"

If the business of the structural iron workers' union is dynamiting, destruction of life and property and the defiance of law, then it has served itself well in the selection of J. J. McNamara as its "business agent."

If, on the other hand, it has any pretensions of decency, good citizenship and the first primitive instincts of common morality, it has done something that must forever place it beyond the pale.

J. J. McNamara is one of the most abandoned criminals and murderers known in modern history.

It was he who plotted the dynamiting of The Times Building and the murder of The Times workmen, more than twenty of whom went to their death in that horrible criminal conspiracy.

McNamara is not only a murderer, but a confessed murderer. By the queer quirks of modern jurisprudence his life was spared. With the murder of more than twenty men upon his soul he was turned out of prison one day not long ago. After a period in which, with insolent, brazen effrontery, he hired himself in New York to sit in a prison cell and let the public peek through the bars at so much per peek, McNamara was received back into the embraces of the structural iron workers' union for which organization he has been made "business agent."

By this venomous and outrageous act of defiance of all the forces of decency that particular union has hoisted the black flag.

McNamara's appointment came at just a time when the world was looking to the unions to see what would be their action in regard to the massacre at Herrin, Ill., where women with babies in their arms jeered at men dying in agony, after being stabbed and beaten.

Although the union leaders evaded the issue, dodged and coughed and had little to say, it was thought that the main body of the unions themselves must have decency enough in their souls to feel the horror of this and other assaults upon the foundations of the American government and upon all that the instincts of decent men hold dear.

After a period of waiting this particular union gave its answer.

It appointed a confessed murderer and dynamiter as its business agent—its ambassador to the public.

SOAKING THE RAILROADS

The blame for high railroad rates naturally falls upon the railroad companies. We are told that the rates are kept high in order to pay fixed dividends upon watered stock. The Interstate Commerce Commission, looking after the interests of the people, is held both blameless and helpless, and to be doing the best it can as a ham-strung David at eternal war upon a Goliath of vested interests, protected by the armor of governmental regulations.

It is true that the Interstate Commerce Commission is helpless in the matter of lowering railroad rates under present conditions. It is the people, largely, who are making the high rates, and it is certainly the people who will have to pay. Taxes tell the tale.

Judge Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the board of directors of the Union Pacific system, gives some enlightening facts concerning railroad rates and taxes in the current issue of the Union Pacific Magazine. He tells of the alarming increase in State and municipal taxation in what appears to be a race to supply tax-exempt securities for tax-exempt investment of capital—capital that should be at work in private industry—and says:

> Railroads are feeling it even more heavily; and, of course, this means that it must ultimately be borne by the country's business.
> The total taxes paid by the Union Pacific system ten years ago—that is, for the year 1911—amounted to $4,180,693, while the taxes paid for 1921 were $12,536,073. Of this latter amount $3,830,576 was paid to the Federal government, whereas only $274,158 Federal taxes were paid ten years ago. . . . But, excluding this Federal taxation, the State and municipal taxes alone, in no wise chargeable to the war, increased in ten years from $3,905,939 in 1911 to $8,705,497 in 1921, or 123 per cent.

Judge Lovett goes on to say that expectation of net earnings of $2000 per mile, equal to 5 per cent on a cost or fixed charge per mile, is probably more than was counted on in the original plans for most of the railroad mileage built in this country, and yet there are States where the State and municipal taxation average more than $2000 per mile for single-track railroads.

The people all over the country are demanding a reduction of Federal taxation. The administration at Washington is granting relief in the greatest possible measure. But at the same time the rates of State and municipal taxes are going up with the ready market for tax-exempt bonds, which give hoarded wealth an opportunity to cheat industry and shirk its share of government support.

The next step is to soak the railroads for all the traffic will bear in the matter of taxation. The railroads pass it on in passenger and freight rates. And the country's business pays.

LABOR PARTY DOOMED

The Labor party of Australia, outgrowth of the political greed of the labor-union leaders who had their first taste of power in the dominance permitted to the misdirected force of organization, has had its rise and is now blundering on to its early fall.

Politically, at present, Australia represents a huge black and white checkerboard. The black squares of debt and depression are the provinces where the Labor party is still dominant. The white squares of progress and prosperity are the provinces which have been reclaimed from the blighting grip of the Laborites, largely through an overturn of the independent labor vote or which never yielded their independence to the attack of the laborite politicians.

Mayor W. H. Osgood of Marrickville, New South Wales, a visitor to Los Angeles, brings word of the impending collapse of the Labor party in Australia. In reviewing the situation he said:

> The socialistic principles of the Labor party are its downfall. It is too class conscious to govern, and its administration means higher taxes and virtual confiscation of property.
>
> The laboring men who own their own homes and have savings accounts—that is to say, the industrious and thrifty, who form the majority among us—now realize this and are voting for the Liberal candidates. Only the lazy and shiftless, who want to gain through the efforts of others, are now supporters of the Labor party's doctrines.
>
> The Australian provinces where the Labor party is still dominant find it impossible to obtain loans, while the Liberal provinces have no difficulty. This is adding to the Labor party's troubles and I believe its end is in sight.

There is still another side to the disastrous situation brought about by organized labor in politics in Australia not touched upon by Mr. Osgood and one which carries its unchallenged lesson to the world. Australia, like the United States, while great commercially and industrially, is fundamentally an agricultural country, with its wealth in the land and its prosperity dependent upon the tillers of the soil.

It is but natural that a Labor party, in Australia or elsewhere, would have no interest in the farmer, independent wealth producer, except to exploit him, and that has been the course followed by the Laborites of Australia wherever they have come into political control. Excessive taxes have been directed against the farm population, with the result that the "rates" have become so high that the farmer finds it almost impossible to meet them, and wealth from the farms has ceased to replenish the coffers of the government and to enable the Laborites, through scheming class disbursements, to retain their grip on government.

In America, as in Australia, the laboring men who are industrious and thrifty are in the vast majority and, under the American plan of conditions of employment, are happy and industrious citizens, independent, loyal to the government and all its people and will make sure that there is no room in this country for an organized labor party in politics to repeat the deplorable mistake of the labor government in Australia during the brief period it was in the saddle.

KEEPER OF THE FAITH

There is one candidate for the Senate who pledges himself not to vote with the La Follettes and Reeds and who declines to respond to the whims of the Hearsts. On the other hand, he promises to lend his warm support to the President and the constructive leaders of the Republican party. That may be said to represent the attitude of an overwhelming majority of the citizens of California. It is the position of Charles C. Moore. Unless Hiram Johnson can make a like promise he cannot justly be said to represent his party or his people. It is up to Hiram to decide. Unless he can get into the administration wave length he is out of touch with the pulse of the people. As a Senator the new candidate promises his unfaltering support to the measures and ideas which have developed under progressive and humanitarian thought. He is as strongly against the exploitation of child labor as Johnson could ever be and he is even more determined that California shall be for Americans. The point is that he is sincere about it and he is not fostering measures for political prestige or private advantage. Charles C. Moore's initial declaration of the principle upon which his candidacy is based is calculated to inspire confidence. He comes not as a grasping, self-centered politician, but as an ambitious public servant, keenly alive to all the interests and industries of his State and determined to participate in their upbuilding. He doesn't say this of himself—for he is modest and unobtrusive so far as Charles C. Moore is concerned. But those who know him say it for him and they agree that he will keep his promises and make some that are not in accord with honor, justice and the interests of the State he loves so well and which he has already signally honored.

THE PARING PROCESS

The Democratic candidate for Governor says that the time has come to have a State administration that will reduce the number of commissions to a minimum schedule and compel those that remain to be responsive to the welfare of the people. This is splendid reasoning, but it can be accomplished under Republican auspices as readily as Democratic authority. The point is to pick the right Republican.

Opened With Prayer

TWO MINUTES OF OPTIMISM

BY HERMAN J. STICH

Emma-Lindsay Squier's Powerful Trinity

Peculiar things happen in this world.

Emma-Lindsay Squier, for instance, a Los Angeles newspaper woman, was assigned some time ago to interview Basil King.

Instead of questioning the great novelist, however, the young newspaper woman found herself being drawn out, telling stories, stories of her childhood, recounting the myriad experiences of a little boy and girl who lived a few years ago on the shores of Puget Sound, stories that were intriguing, absorbing, irresistible and that withal exemplified the potency of the axiom that truth is frequently stranger than fiction.

The upshot was that Basil King urged her to write out these stories she had told him and "The Wild Heart" is the result—a book fairly brimming over with love, courage and the precious intangible thing we call heart.

On cursory reading, "The Wild Heart" seems to be a collection of corking animal stories—as good as ever turned out by Jack London and Oliver Curwood.

But it is more.

The world, for all its protests to the contrary, likes sermons—when they are well done and not too long.

And underneath every incident recounted in "The Wild Heart," through every boyish and girlish adventure recalled, runs the thread of an unsurpassable sermon on the folly of fear and hate, the power of confidence and faith, the all-conquering strength of sympathy and love.

Gene Stratton Porter in a few introductory words tells us that, fearless, she has held her face within two feet of a coiled rattlesnake ready to strike, but it did not strike, while two minutes later a man afraid came along and immediately the snake showed fight; she reminds us of Enos Mills and Arthur Heming, both passionate lovers of the wilds and the creatures that home there, that the one tramps the Rocky Mountains for weeks at a time absolutely without a weapon, and the other travels Canada from side to side, north and south, passing all kinds of wild creatures at all seasons and under all conditions and nothing touches him.

The author of "The Wild Heart" has held converse on the trail with a wildcat that just before was panting with the desire to spring to kill; she has stroked the nose of a tigress whose nostrils a few moments previous were dilated with the hated human scent; she has walked into the cage of a crouching lioness and said to her the things she would have said had she met the lioness in the woods, and watched the snarling lips relax, the glint of green go out of the slanting eyes, the crouch disappear.

The triumph of deep sympathy, great love and fearless confidence—these are the keynotes of Emma-Lindsay Squier's gripping "The Wild Heart"—and they make up an all-powerful trinity that, if we will, can help every single one of us almightily to win over and to make friends of the lions that confront us in our own various paths.

RIPPLING RHYMES

HURRYING ON

Time is skipping, time is hopping with a haste I can't explain; soon we'll do our Christmas shopping in the winter sleet and rain. Precious months are slipping by us and they never will come back, and we use some language pious when we view the almanac. Half the year is now departed, half the year is spent and run, and I'm feeling broken-hearted when I view the work undone. Vain and useless was my planning and I now take in my sign; Father Time is always canning noble hopes and dreams of mine. I have scarcely done a quarter of the things I planned, I see; for the days and weeks are shorter than the blamed things ought to be. All the months are bob-tailed speeders, each the worst you ever saw; and I feel, oh, gentle readers, that there ought to be a law. For we can get nothing finished, we can wind up nothing here, and our store of life's diminished every time we flap an ear; and the moments, never stopping, whisper that we're nearly through, and the time for Christmas shopping will be with us P.D.Q.

WALT MASON.

YOUR HIDDEN POWERS

BY JAMES OPPENHEIM

Faust, you remember, signed up with the devil. Was this amazing? Faust was the best of men. He was a scholar, a learned man, a doctor, a magician. And yet the time came when his knowledge seemed as nothing, his learning turned to ashes, and he wanted to kill himself. He was very old. He thought: "Actually, I have never lived."

It was then that he called to the devil, who showed him the vision of "wine, women and song." The devil would turn him into a handsome young man. He would have money and power. He would see the world. He would live the life of the senses.

Well, for a consideration. Faust had only to sign over the immortal soul, which would burn in hell forever.

The Easter church bells ring, the resurrection of the Christ. How can the good Dr. Faust do such a thing? Nevertheless, he does it. And there follows the time of witches and wine, and the story of Gretchen. Faust ruins this girl, kills her brother, drives her insane so that she slays her own child; she is condemned to death and dies raving in the prison in Faust's arms. And the devil hurries him away.

So ends the first part of Goethe's "Faust." And the play seems to say, "Thus is it with men who follow their devil."

But is it so? Part second opens on a hillside. Faust awakens from a deep, long sleep. He is healed. And though for all the rest of his life he follows the devil, and comes to great power, in the end, when he dies, the angels snatch the soul of Faust away from the devil and bear it upward to God.

How can we explain such a story? How is it that a man who follows evil comes to his own highest good?

The key of the matter is in the prologue in heaven, which precedes the play. The devil appears before the Lord God and asks permission to ensnare Faust. The Lord is willing, for He says of the devil that he is "The power that always wills the bad, but somehow works the good."

Let us look at the play psychoanalytically. We shall then see that it is the story of development; it is the story of how a human being develops every side of his nature until he becomes complete and wins a soul.

Faust is an intuitive. He is a born idealist, a natural "child of God," a person made for the things of the spirit. He develops along the lines of intuition and intellect. Intuition means the magician, the spiritual side; intellect the scholar, the doctor, the man of science.

But what does this mean? It means that he develops only one half of his nature; for there is another side, the side of sensation and feeling, the side that belongs to the life of the senses, to sexuality and to being a man of action.

This, then, is the law of development: When you have developed one side of your nature you must turn over and develop the other side. But this, to a man like Faust, is a terrible thing.

What is human development? It means taking something in yourself which is raw and crude and putting it through a refining process. It is like smelting ore. We are born with a nature of the savage and the beast and our whole life is an attempt to humanize and civilize ourselves. So, if a man has developed intuition and intellect and turns about now to the undeveloped side, to sensation and feeling, he is really letting the beast out of its cave, the demon, the thing that is still unhuman and uncivilized.

So with Faust. He goes the way of lust and horror. He seduces, murders. But because he holds on through the darkness a miracle takes place. He comes out of it healed. He becomes a powerful man of the world. Finally he lives to serve humanity. And in the end, when he dies, the meaning of what he did is made clear. Following his devil really meant developing the dark side of himself; and so the darkness, too, turned into light; and at the end the human being was complete. That is to say, all four functions were developed—he was as powerful and great on the side of sensation and feeling as he was on the side of intuition and intellect.

That is the meaning of the phrase, that the devil is the power that always wills the bad, but somehow works the good.

And that is why Faust is what is called a "hero." The hero is the man who has the courage and strength to embrace evil as well as good in order to become an all-round human being, or what we think of as a great man. Only a powerful nature can endure this "Faustian conflict," this ceaseless battle between darkness and light, between evil and good. For not all such men develop as Faust did, for years along one path, for years along the other. Rather for them the seesaw or zigzag is of every-day. Their natures are constantly swinging one way, then the other.

If we look at the roll of the great, the men who led, taught and advanced humanity, the "mighty men," is it not of deep meaning that so few of them are "saints"? And the saints as a rule die young. They die before the time when life demands that they follow their devil. The others are, most of them, impossible to catalogue. Were they good, were they evil? Even a Napoleon escapes classification. He is denounced as a devil, he is worshiped as a god. One man points to his cruelty and the shambles he made of Europe. Another shows him as the bringer of a new code, a new outlook, a greater civilization. Perhaps all is true. One of the great appeared, just as the sun rises in the morning. And the sun withers those at the equator and brings life to those in the north. Is it good or evil? It is the same sun that shines on the Sahara Desert and the hills of Alaska.

JUST ONE MOORE

BY EUGENE BROWN

Dear Charlie: Excuse the familiarity, but it seems perfectly natural to me. Do you know, I like that name? I once had a horse called Charlie—not a charley-horse, but a real thoroughbred, and, say! that animal was a wonder. He could move anything smaller than a cathedral; he could cover a mile in three minutes and he would stand without hitching!

It hurts no man to be likened to a horse like that. If our statesmen had a strain of Morgan or Hambletonian in their veins it would do them good. A horse has a strong pull and when he is in his breast collar it is exercised as a mighty push. He will have a pull and a push at the same time and both are utilized for the comfort or advantage of others. There is unselfishness for you! Would to God our statesmen had like capacities and were equally obliging. Being a wheelhorse was an honor and dignity that seemed to belong to some of our old-school patriots. It meant hard work and responsibility, but these are matters that have never been shirked by good men or good horses.

So you see it takes a mighty fine man to remind me of Charlie. As I told you, he was a thoroughbred—fine-spirited, yet gentle and kindly. He had a passion for work. He never balked or sulked; neither would he take the bit between his teeth and run away. He was country-bred, but city broke. He was afraid of nothing except cyclones and dynamite. He had horse sense. He realized what was expected of him and responded cheerfully—and he never bit the hand that fed him!

If I could have as much as this truthfully engraved upon my tombstone I think I could make a hit by passing on tonight, before the record is spoiled.

I hope that you will measure up with my Charlie and I believe you will. You have always been loyal to your country, your cause and your immediate obligations. You have a record of unselfish achievement—of things accomplished. You have worked faithfully and heartily in the harness wherever assigned. You have responded to every call for action and energy. These are the traits of the thoroughbred.

Nobody would ever think of calling Hiram a horse.

Did you ever hear of a horse named Hiram?

It sounds more like a goat—or at least one of these high-rammers who butts his head against everything that comes along and counts each fresh obstacle as something against which to dash his brains. He isn't afraid of anything and he doesn't run away, but what Jim is there in charging on the pyramids and busting one's forehead wide open? No horse would do that.

But, come to think of it, our Hiram would never be a goat. He doesn't look the part. There is a stirring resemblance to the behemoth of Holy Writ. Just now he is strikingly reminiscent of a grizzly whose pelt has been singed in a forest fire. It leaves him peevish and petulant. He is even querulous with his own kind. If he cannot have the sweets he craves he will take his big paw and swipe it all over the place. When the bees prod him he becomes unreasoning and destructive. He would wreck his own brush pile for the mere zest of demolishment. He will not be good-natured himself, neither will he permit others to enjoy themselves.

I think I like my horse best.

I do not see how Hiram can feel that those who prefer another to himself at this time are indicating ingratitude or unappreciation. He has been permitted to have his own way for ten years and his own way has been shown as being neither promising nor advantageous to others. Why should his sway continue? He has been honored above his dues and rewarded beyond his merits. The people have paid a fancy price to watch him boost himself. Hiram can't be hitched up to pull with anybody. How can there be a matched team pulling unitedly in one direction and for the general good when Hiram is one-half of the sketch. Might as well try to harness a steam roller with the west wind.

The more we see of you the Moore we want.

MONTEREY

I am old and solitary,
And I sat and dreamed today
Of my boyhood's happy homestead
On the Bay of Monterey.

I closed my eye and I could see
The graceful pepper sway
In the gentle, soothing breezes
On the hills at Monterey,

I closed my ear and I could hear
The laughter, clear and gay,
Of my memory's cherished sweetheart
As we frolicked in the spray.

Though her form is worn and weary
And her golden curls are gray,
(Since we gathered abalones
On the rocks along the bay)
She's as dear as when I kissed her
'Neath the stars at Monterey.

I have wondered as I've wandered
How my heart finds peace away
From the fragrant eucalyptus
Where they grow at Monterey.

An unsuccessful attempt was made in 1864 to arrive at a settlement of the differences between the North and the South by a compromise that would end the Civil War.

Horace Greeley, a leader of the antislavery party in the North, received a letter from George N. Sanders of Kentucky, written in Canada, suggesting a conference between himself, Clement C. Clay of Alabama and James P. Holcombe of Virginia and representatives of the northern cause to devise some method for ending the bloodshed on American soil. Greeley at once consulted President Lincoln, who requested him to go to Niagara Falls and personally meet the Confederate mediators.

The conference came to nothing. It soon became evident to Greeley that Sanders and his associates did not have proper credentials to represent the Confederate government. The chief proposition for settling the slavery question was the payment of $400,000,000 to the slave owners of the South for the liberation of the negroes.

During this conference Greeley wrote to President Lincoln: "I know that nine-tenths of the American people, North and South, are anxious for peace—peace on any terms—and are sick of human slaughter and devastation." The war, however, continued for nine months longer, to the final surrender of Lee to Grant.

Franchise for Tunnel Route up to Council

The necessary franchise to permit the Pacific Electric Railway Company to build its $2,800,000 tunnel under Bunker Hill to provide rapid transit for Hollywood, Glendale and other northwestern sections of the Greater Los Angeles district was presented yesterday to the City Council by City Attorney Stephens by which it had been prepared under instructions from the Council. The franchise was referred to the Public Utilities Committee of the Council for a report.

It is expected the franchise will be immediately approved by the committee and Council. After the formality of selling the franchise to the Pacific Railway Company has been complied with, the company will begin construction work on the tunnel.

HELD AS RADICAL

Lawrence Gross, charged with criminal syndicalism, was arrested yesterday by L. M. Lane, special investigator of the District Attorney's office, and is held at the County Jail. He is accused of being an officer in the Industrial Workers of the World and of distributing I.W.W. revolutionary propaganda.

PREDICTS "JAZZ" DECLINE

Hindu Says Moral Regeneration is Coming Soon and That Year Will See Change

"These murders and tragedies of which we read are but signs that the world is rushing back to its primordial instincts; the cause being what you call 'jazz life,' and its accompanying lack of moral restraint," said Sirdar Rama Setti, East Indian psychologist who arrived at the Ambassador yesterday from Santa Barbara, where he spoke before the Rotary Club and other civic bodies. Rama Setti recently arrived in America from Paris, where his predictions caused a sensation among the upper classes.

"America is rapidly coming to a period of great regeneration brought about by the public's surfeit of the artificiality of modern life as it is led today," continued the famous Hindoo.

"Short skirts, paint and powder and too much jazz music are going to give place to the study of moral laws, art and betterment.

TELLS WORLD CHANGES

"Germany will be declared bankrupt in less than six months and will then be controlled by an Allied Commission which will rapidly bring her back to her position as a great power.

"Russia, too will appeal to the great powers for government aid.

"Prohibition will end in 1924 giving place to a local option as far as wines and beers are concerned."

"President Harding will not see the White House again after the conclusion of this term. In fact you will again see the Democratic party in power.

"Jazz is a mad satisfaction of desires not held in check by moral law or instruction; nor by the example of associates or any other restraining force," said the visitor turning to another subject, that of the Meadows murder.

"Lately," continued the Hindoo, "in traveling here and there I have observed the same tragedies occurring. In Paris, Landru; in London, Miss Carleton; in Montreal, Father Delorme.

POINTS TO PENDULUM

"These are all the swing of the pendulum backward; the swing resulting from the mad existence which the majority is leading today."

"What was to prevent this tragedy? The victim's assailant, maddened by the desire for vengeance felt no restraining hand of any moral force to stay her. In her mind was a desire to slay; to mar the beauty of another; to crush it utterly and this she did.

"You say that the wife is more beautiful than the victim and ask why in all probability the husband turned to the latter. Of all things beauty unaided by thought is that of which there is the quickest surfeit. Beauty is not—never can be all. No happy alliance was ever made with nothing but beauty on the one side."

"Was Georges Sand beautiful? or Cleopatra or Mme. de Pompadour?"

WARNS OF MORE CRIME

"Let me tell you something. The end of these things is not yet. You will have crime and more crime—this is how it is written. Then in a few months—not more than a year—the regeneration will come, to be brought about by these same women who now madden the hearts of men and their own hearts."

"You will see not only in America, but universally the return to better things. Women will cloth themselves modestly again; paint and powder will vanish with short skirts and what you call the 'flapper.'

"Motherhood will return to its proper pinnacle and the world will judge the woman by the manner in which she brings up her family."

Rama Setti was born in the Punjaub and was educated at Naini Tal College before receiving his European education. He was married at the age of 8 to Budni Lal according to the Indian custom, but lost his wife in an attack of the Hill Tribes.

Mexican Chief of Agriculture Due This Week

Ramon de Negri, Secretary of Agriculture of Mexico, will arrive in Los Angeles the latter part of this week for a visit with his mother and other relatives who reside here, it was stated yesterday.

Plans are being made for a reception for the distinguished Mexican to take place shortly after he reaches the city, but because of the uncertainty regarding the date of his arrival complete plans have not been perfected. It is thought Senor de Negri will remain in Los Angeles for at least a week. During that time he will be at the home of his mother, Mrs. Casamiere de Negri, 2152 Leeward avenue.

Senor de Negri for the past few weeks has been in Washington, D. C., on a mission for his country. The Mexican Secretary is well-known in Los Angeles as he has visited here on numerous occasions. In Mexico he is considered one of the country's progressive leaders. As a result of his labor many modern agricultural methods have been adopted in Mexico, and it is said that his visit to Washington was for the purpose of making a comprehensive study of American agricultural methods.

Girl Sent Him Love Note, Wife Obtains Decree

Mrs. Mabel S. Moss came into possession of a letter written by a French girl to her husband, Thomas W. Moss, and the love note assisted her to win a divorce in Judge Summerfield's court yesterday. The writer asks "My Dear Tom" to come as soon as he can. She says she wants him more "than I have wanted anything in the whole world."

"Life isn't worth living without you. This letter, I know, is terrible. Please excuse it and accept my love."

Mrs. Moss told the court that her husband went to Portland when she discovered the purported French love affair.

OPERA STAR SAYS .HE MAY LIVE HERE

SINGER AND INSTRUCTOR IN BREATHING IS VISITING AT HOLLYWOOD

Edward Lankow, hygienic instructor and former member of the Chicago and Metropolitan Grand Opera companies, now visiting in Hollywood, may locate in Southern California, he announced.

Mr. Lankow worked out a breathing system and during the World War he was a special instructor for officers at Camp Gordon. Since that time he has been associated with a number of eminent physicians in the East in their work, as well as remaining active in musical circles.

Among his pupils Mr. Lankow has had William Jennings Bryan and Mary Garden. He will appear as one of the concert artists at the Hollywood Bowl.

Wife Must not Pester Spouse, Judge Demands

"You are an insolent, contumacious person. I advise you to keep away from your husband or I will send you to jail," Judge Summerfield said to Eva Hechtman yesterday. Her husband, Nathan Hechtman, a millinery merchant, did not deny that he was afraid of his wife, owing to her attacks upon him.

"Do you want to live with your wife?" the court asked Mr. Hechtman.

"I should say not," was the reply.

Mrs. Hechtman said she was willing to have her husband go back to her. She was charged with going to her husband's store, striking and annoying him.

SAN DIEGO RESORTS TO BE ADVERTISED

So that the public may receive accurate information regarding the mountain resorts in the northern portion of San Diego county, the secretary of the San Diego Mountain Resorts Association, yesterday sent its secretary to this city to organize a party of newspaper and information bureau men to take a three-day trip of the resorts in the San Diego Mountains. J. H. Heath, a former newspaper man of Southern California, is organizing the party, and expects to have about twenty-five members take the trip.

The trip was planned after it was learned that a large number of the Los Angeles people connected with information bureaus had never been to the San Diego resorts and could give little or no accurate information regarding them.

People and Their Troubles

Elizabeth Jordan's Column.

WOMEN AND BANKING

The other day Laurette Taylor made an amusing confession.

"I'm not a very good business woman," she said. "I discovered that last week, when I tried to make my bank-book agree with the bank's balance. My balance, as I figured it, showed almost two thousand dollars more than the balance the bank gave me. I had to work over it a long time before I found that I had added in the year!"

I repeated this to a girl employed by an uptown bank and she uttered a hollow groan.

NO HUMOR IN HER LIFE

"I suppose anyone else in the world would think that was funny," she said. "It doesn't sound funny to me. It's too much like my daily experience with women in the bank. I suppose you know that I had an attack of nervous exhaustion after the income tax returns went in," she added, expansively. "I had to go away for a month. It's a wonder I was ever able to come back. I had helped eighty-seven women with their income taxes!"

"Oh, well," I said, amused, "I—know lots of men who went half crazy over their income tax reports. But tell me why you find women so hard to help in their banking operations."

She sighed.

"Well, for one thing," she said, "a lot of them don't fill out the stubs in their check books. They try to carry balances in their minds, and they usually credit themselves with two or three hundred dollars more balance than they've got. Then, when they get our balances they come in very much excited, and I have to add up all their canceled checks and deposits, to show them where they stand. Of course, no woman should ever be trusted with a check book unless she fills out every stub as fast as she draws a check. Then she ought to deduct the amount of that check from her balance after the last check is drawn, and thus keep her account up to the minute.

"Also she ought to regard that check as money spent from the moment she draws it. A lot of women juggle with their accounts. They will draw a check today, practically wiping out their account, and figure that it won't be cashed till day after tomorrow. Then they will draw another check against their imaginary balance the next day. If the checks happen to be called tomorrow instead of the day after, or if the recipients bring them directly to the bank instead of depositing them to their own accounts in other banks, the lady financiers are in trouble."

"But how about the men?" I asked. "It seems to me I'm always hearing from them about mistakes and overdrawn accounts."

She laughed.

Men Not Infallible

"Well," she admitted, "the men have their troubles, too. There's this difference, though. The average man really tries to keep his money affairs straight. He is ashamed if he can't do it. Lots of women take it for granted that they can't keep them straight, and they're not at all ashamed of getting balled up. See?"

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Pleas for Prisoners

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In 1916, as chairman of a jail committee of a club, I made many recommendations which report was also signed by many judges of superior and appellate courts. Nothing came of it. Since, I have interested prominent club men and women, including the president of Ebell, Mrs. E. K. Foster, and others, to join me in urging certain changes in the City Jails. Nothing has come of this either.

Earnest lectures by experts like Warden Johnston, Sheriff Traeger, Thomas Mott Osborne and others, have been wonderfully applauded, but they did not bring forth any result. Aroused emotions that do not fruitage in action, produce fatal moral paralysis both upon the individual and society.

Mr. Osborne told me he would put them all in jail because the whole system was so stupid and demoralizing.

The State, county and city health laws are openly violated in the housing of our offenders against the law. No one with a speck of moral responsibility or a spark of human sympathy could endure to see the way our jail inmates are housed, or would rest until decent civilized conditions prevailed.

Some weeks ago, during a moving-picture performance, given under the supervision of the Board of Education, a number of boys escaped. It was supreme folly for the police management not to provide extra guards. One extra guard stationed outside the windows, would have averted escape which any red-blooded man would attempt if he did not stop to realize its futility and hopelessness. To appeal to his honor or conscience is hypocritical beyond words, because the honor and conscience of the public who confines these young men in such appalling quarters, are far more depraved than any inmate of the jail.

Instead of providing extra guards for the weekly entertainments, the inmates are utterly deprived of them by order of the captain. And yet a score of policemen and firemen are always furnished for every club fete of the rich and prosperous. No complaint is made for this provision, but the need is infinitely greater for guard protection to prevent escapes until a humane system obtains, when honor can be successfully appealed to.

FAITH CHEVAILLIER.

His Call to Arms

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The get-together suggestion, for all animal lovers, is a slendid idea! It need not, however be only the animal lovers. The call to arms to all lovers of justice and mercy, might be just as pertinent and as much to the point.

Cruel injustice to the helpless and to the poor, and those unaware as to the law, should be looked into. The high-handed outrage of seizing and carting off pets from their own dooryards, should not be tolerated. There is great need of all true humanitarians getting together on this question.

No others than those who are kind and just and merciful should be selected as either officers, or helpers of any humane society. Then humanitarians would be spared the unspeakable sight of a humane society, teaching cruelty—and to boys!

Protect the Books

LOS ANGELES, July 9.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Yesterday morning in Judge Chambers's court, Harold McKee was fined $40 for attempted larceny of books from the Public Library. "Attempted larceny," while the proper technical term from the standpoint of the law, does not tell the whole story. McKee was taken in the act of trying to get out of the library with the goods on him and much credit is due the police for promptly making the arrest and unearthing the additional facts. On a search of his lodging and club rooms, several books were found and recovered, revealing that he had been systematically taking books from the Library. While some pity might naturally be raised on behalf of a young man only 20 years old who was thus given a sentence of some severity for what many might think a comparatively light offense, this is a case for more than usual attention.

The library is one of our choice public possessions, a help to thousands of serious citizens who could not otherwise educate themselves. The books belong to the taxpayers. Their money makes the library possible. Of late a tremendous amount of mutilation has been going on. The library staff is powerless to prevent this unaided. watchful though it is. Both mutilation and stealing must be stopped and it is gratifying to have the support of the Police Department in stamping out these evils. An aroused public opinion will gladly support their efforts and give backing to this work. When we go to the library, as we all do at times, we do not want to find the book we seek torn, clipped and mutilated so as to be useless to us, nor do we expect to find it missing through malicious thieving. McKee and his accomplices should all be apprehended and this practice stamped out while in the bud.

Objects to Gym

SAN FERNANDO, July 9. — [To the Editor of The Times:] I notice in a recent issue of The Times that the Los Angeles city school board has let a contract for a gymnasium for the Los Angeles High School, to cost $90,000. I have not investigated this item of news, but seeing it in The Times leads me to believe it to be true.

Recently your editorial staff urged the citizens of Los Angeles to vote for a $17,500,000 school bond issue, urging that the money from the bonds was necessary to house our school children. The whole campaign for the voting of the bonds was on the plea of "remedy the existing condition of only two school desks for three school children." It was with considerable surprise that I noticed that the first contract let since the passage of the bonds was for a gymnasium and I am wondering whether your editorial staff examined into the need for this money; the second largest school bond issue ever voted, I am told. Is it the purpose of the school board to build a gymnasium for every school in the city? If it is necessary for the Los Angeles High School, it is necessary for the San Fernando High School and all the other schools, including primary schools.

The American Legion also indorsed these school bonds, and I am wondering whether it favors the building of gymnasiums. The American Legion knows, if your editorial staff does not, that a gymnasium connected with a school is a mere luxury and of no real importance from an educational standpoint, or that of physical development. The American Legion knows that in building up the bodies of our young people what is really necessary is the setting-up exercises, which in California can be conducted in any school yard. Many people believe that the paraphernalia used in a gymnasium is apt to be harmful to growing children. I believe that the building of this gymnasium is a criminal waste of the people's money; the property holder pays for it in the first instance, but she shifts part of his burden to the whole people in increased rents and higher living costs. I believe that the school board did not play fair with the taxpayers, to appeal for money for one purpose and spend it for another.

How are we ordinary voters to vote intelligently if we cannot have confidence in the appeals of such a responsible paper as the Los Angeles Times, or in the indorsement of such an organization as the American Legion? Did the school board deceive The Times and the American Legion?

SULPHUROUS

Suphur is one of the most peculiar substances known. It can exist in different forms and still be one and the same substance. It is the Jekyll and Hyde of the elements. In outward appearance each one of the several varieties of sulphur is different from the other, but in essential properties it is still sulphur. In one form it is yellow, hard and brittle. This is the most common form of sulphur. Molten sulphur, poured into cold water, solidifies into a stringy, plastic mass, amber in color and capable of being molded between the fingers. Its original brittleness is lost and it resembles a string of rubber. Flowers of sulphur, another variety, are almost white in color. Yellow sulphur melts on heating, but if the heating is continued and the temperature increased the molten mass hardens and becomes solid, melts again and is finally converted into a gas. This peculiar behavior of sulphur is of the greatest significance from an industrial and technical standpoint. It has made it possible to mine it under the most unusual circumstances, a feat which would, under other conditions, have been impossible.—[Indianapolis News.

Question: Who wrote "Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep"? H. J. H.

Answer: Bartlett does not ascribe this prayer to any author, merely saying that a version of it was included in the New England primer. A reprint of the primer made in 1784 contained the words as we know them today. The prayer-hymn, however, of which the prayer is the first stanza, was published by the Rev. M. W. Stryker in 1884.

Q.: Is a dolphin an animal or a fish? R. A. G.

A.: In ancient times the dolphin was considered a fish. It is in reality an animal and does not have scales. The skin is tanned and used as a leather.

Q.: Was "Rasputin" the real name of the Russian monk who attracted so much attention a few years ago? L. E. B.

A.: Rasputin is from the Russian word rasputay, meaning dissolute, profligate, libertine, licentious and was an opprobrious nickname conferred upon the notorious Russian monk whose real name was Gregor Novikh.

Q.: How much money did Andrew Carnegie devote to library endowment? J. C. W.

A.: Andrew Carnegie endowed 2811 libraries with a total of $60,364,805.

Q.: What is meant by a "saving wage"? S. K. P.

A.: Secretary of Labor Davis in recent wage discussion, has distinguished a saving wage from a living wage which assures the worker a margin over and above the amount required for his and his family's subsistence in health and reasonable comfort.

Q.: Does the superintendent of a poor farm have the right to open the mail of inmates? D. A.

A.: The Postoffice Department says that the sealed mail of persons living in a county home is as fully protected from unlawful opening as the mail of any other citizens. The mere fact that the inmates are so unfortunate as to have been compelled to seek shelter in an institution maintained for the indigent, gives the superintendent no license to interfere with their letters.

Q.: Do all governors have the power of vetoing acts of State legislatures? K. R. T.

A.: The Governor of North Carolina is the only State executive who has not the power of veto.

COLGATE'S
Cleans Teeth the Right Way
"Washes" and Polishes—
Doesn't Scratch or Scour

YOUR hands are soiled—do you clean them by scraping them with sand alone? Savages used to. But civilization substituted soap. Then cleansing came more quickly, more thoroughly without hurt. As the early savage cleaned his hands, you today can take a gritty, soapless dentifrice and scrape clean the delicate enamel of your teeth. How much simpler—and safer—is the civilized method.

COLGATE'S—The Double Action Dentifrice
(1) Loosens Clinging Particles; (2) Washes Them Away

Sensible in Theory. You can't beat common sense when backed by modern science. Healthy saliva is practically neutral, sometimes slightly alkaline. Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream is mildly alkaline, practically neutral, and cleanses without disturbing nature's balance. Avoid dentifrices that are strongly alkaline or appreciably acid. Colgate's helps to maintain the right mouth conditions.

Correct in Practice. Today scientific dentists know that harsh drugs and chemicals harm mouth tissues. Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream does not contain them. Authorities agree that a dentifrice should do only one thing—clean teeth thoroughly. Colgate's does this. No false claims are made that Colgate's possesses any other virtue, but it does possess this one in the highest degree, and in a higher degree than any other kind of dentifrice.

Colgate's cleans teeth thoroughly—no safe dentifrice does more. A LARGE tube costs 25 cents—why pay more?

BABE AND BOB CAUSE A RIOT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 17.—Several men were trampled on, one was thrown down by a mounted policeman's horse, and thousands were forcibly shoved at noon today when "Babe" Ruth and "Bob" Meusel performed a ball-catching stunt in Times Square.

Beside the violence accompanying the demonstration, automobile traffic was held up on Broadway between Forty-third and Forty-second streets for three-quarters of an hour, and street cars moved with difficulty because of the dense crowds, estimated at between 15,000 and 25,000.

Standing in the mud-gutter in his shirt sleeves, the "sultan of swat" motioned to Meusel to throw the ball. He did, but misjudged the angle, and the ball almost hit some one on the west side walk. "Bob" dropped another ball and this Ruth missed. He caught the third one, however.

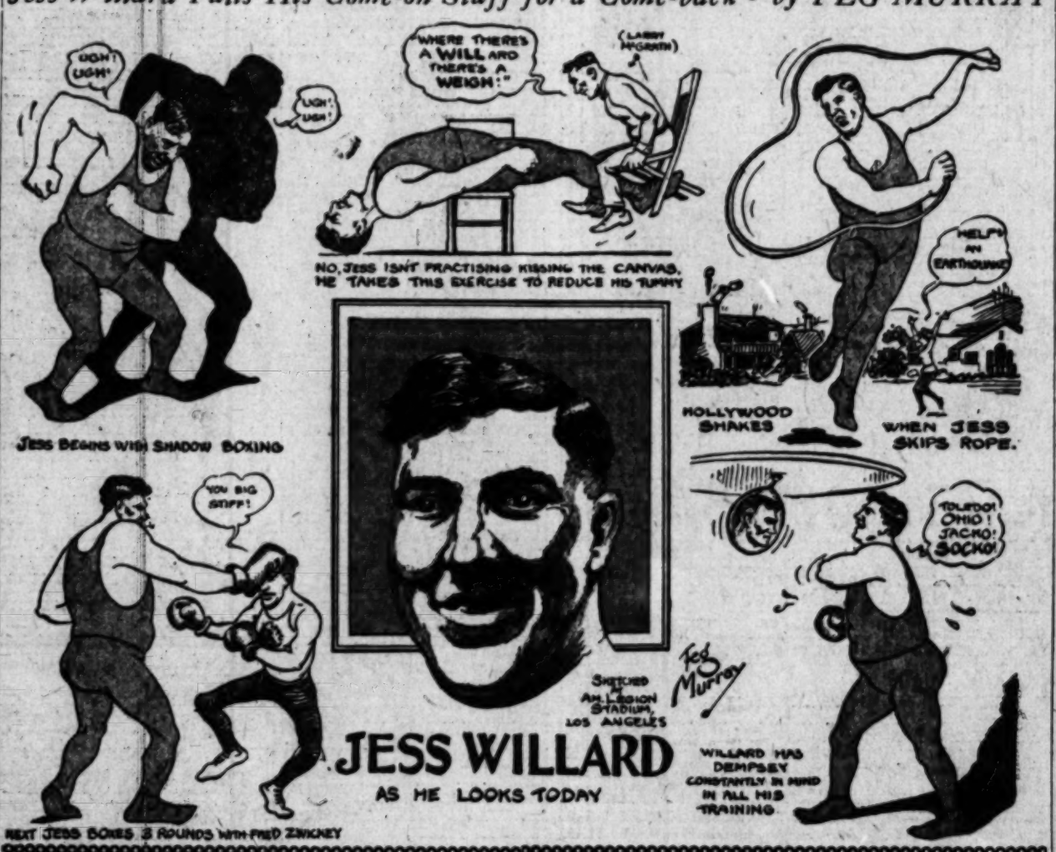
Leader to be Head Coach of Yale Oarsmen

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, July 17.—Ed Leader, coach of the University of Washington boat crew, will become head coach of the Yale crews at a salary approximately double that which he is receiving at Washington, according to an announcement today by Darwin Meisnest of the Associated Students of the University of Washington.

Leader's ability as a coach was recently emphasized by the showing of his 1922 crew at Poughkeepsie, where Washington forced the Navy to a world's record to win. Leader will take up his new duties in the fall.

Jess Willard Pulls His Come-on Stuff for a Come-back - by FEG MURRAY



WILLARD BETTER FITTED THAN JEFFRIES FOR COMEBACK ROLE

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS

Jim Jeffries was 35 when he attempted his "comeback" against Jack Johnson, after an absence of approximately seven years from the ring.

Jess Willard confesses to 39 years. Some place his actual age at nearer 45. I am inclined to doubt the latter figure.

Accepting the age of 39 on the theory that Jess himself should know, I found him, four years the senior of Jeffries when Jeff assayed the same thing, embarking on an earnest effort to regain the heavyweight title of the world.

BETTER PRESERVED

And somewhat to my surprise when the boss bounced me out to the American Legion Stadium in Hollywood the other day, I found a man better preserved physically than was Jeffries when he handed the key of his Spring-street saloon over to his partner and started training for his memorable battle with the, black contender. Willard, four years older, is more supple and carries less dross. And he looks younger, despite a fringe of white around his thatch and the iron-gray mat on his chest.

This contrast, almost startling at first sight, is less surprising when the facts are considered. Age up to a certain point is to a very considerable extent not so much a question of years, as prior mode of life.

EQUALLY ENDOWED

In matter of constitution, Jeffries and Willard were about equally endowed. But Jeffries, while a farmer at heart, went into the saloon business. He wasn't dissipated in the usual acceptance of that term. However, this business exacts a certain amount of conviviality. The life was distasteful to Jeff, a man of wholesome tendencies, and yet he lived it. He drank some and smoked more. These things told. He tried to come back after seven years of this. Jeffries attained fair condition, although only a shell of his former self. There was a vast difference. I noticed it particularly in his legs. One day I was studying a photograph. This taken in his prime, embellished the wall of his bar room along with the photos of other sporting celebrities. It hung just over the free lunch. His colossal legs were straight and sturdy as the pillars of a Grecian temple. Then, the following day, viewing Jeff in the flesh, I observed that these legs seemed to have bent under his weight. They turned in at the knees, and this meant that a kind of shuffle has taken the place of his once catlike spring.

Jeffries ultimately attained amazing form. He has never been given full credit for standing before the sledge-hammer blows of Johnson for fourteen rounds. This stamped him as one of the physical marvels of all time.

EASY TO EXPLAIN

Willard is in better shape than Jeffries was when he emerged from his retirement. Not difficult to explain. His has been almost an exclusively outdoor life. He entered the ring rather late in life, and he has been out of it only three years as against seven for Jeff. Except for the ...raying mentioned, I see little difference between him and the Willard of three years ago. In fact, he looks hardly as heavy as he did six months before the Dempsey match, and his color is certainly better.

But I found a very different Willard mentally than the Willard I had formerly known. It was my good fortune to land in New York from Europe the day before Willard and Dempsey signed articles. Jess took the matter no more seriously than had he been signing a receipt for 10 cents' worth of rolled oats.

Then a few days later, in Kansas City, Willard and Tex Rickard boarded the train on which I was traveling to Los Angeles. They also were on their way to this town, I talked with both of them at some length. Rickard, in the position of promoter, spoke of subjects other than the match, mainly. Willard, to my surprise, was almost as uncommunicative on the same subject. He seemed to consider it of no consequence. That was one thing which beat him; not taking his opponent seriously.

NOT INTERESTED

Earlier in his career I had talked with Willard. Smart and mentally alert on other subjects, when discussing the ring he was almost dull and bovine, at least uninteresting. He was not interested in the subject, and for that reason could not interest others. I attributed this partly to that misfortune early in his career which resulted in the death of Bull Young. That probably prevented Willard from being the fighter that he might have been. I have no doubt that it handicaps him whenever he enters the ring. It is significant that Jess in his entire career since that time has knocked down sparring partners but twice. Still, one would think that the Young incident also might have an adverse effect on Willard's opponents. Since that tragic night at Vernon, I doubt whether Willard has ever hit an opponent with his full power.

But he will the next time. For the first time in his career, the mammoth Kansan is showing fire and a real desire to fight. And it is the first time in his career that Mrs. Willard has asked him to fight. More than that, she has urged him to fight.

SHADOW BOXING

Willard was shadow boxing, with Gene Doyle holding the watch. An imaginary opponent had been forced into a corner of the ring, and Jess was uppercutting him with that famous right—blows which would have felled a bullock. Doyle chirped, "Time." Willard continued his attack on a mythical opponent five minutes longer. That is the way he is training. Personally, I never have thought much of shadow boxing, the tendency, I believe being to make a man "pull" his blows. But I have never seen a boxer who didn't use it, and it is good for the foot action.

For the first time I found a talkative Willard, one at least willing to talk. Jess almost bubbled.

"Do you really think you can beat this bird?" I asked.

"I'll whip him as sure as we get in the same ring," declared Willard.

"Do you feel that it was lack of condition which beat you at Toledo?" I asked.

VICTIM OF UNFAIR STYLE

"I wasn't in as good shape as I should have been, but I was good enough to win on clean fighting," replied the former champion. "I was the victim of unfair fighting. We were to break clean. Coming out of the first or second clinch, I let loose of Dempsey and held both hands out wide so as to make the break entirely clean. As I did this, Dempsey, instead of breaking clean, clipped me on the chin. This was the blow that really beat me. The next time I will protect myself and it will be up to Dempsey to do the same thing."

Willard's legs have kept their shape, and his shoulders and chest have not sagged, at least not appreciably. Regarding the inner reservoir of energy only the actual test can answer.

SEEKS GIBBONS BOYS

He is disinclined to engage in any fights prior to the one for the title. Says that it simply would tend to break up his training. He intends to take it out on his sparring partners. Some of these will be selected chiefly for their speed and cleverness. He is endeavoring to engage Tom and Mike Gibbons. Willard probably feels that this is more important than roughing it with bulky sparring partners as he is so strong that he doesn't know his own strength.

"I fooled around in the pictures and one thing and another the last time I was training," declared the giant. "Now I will stick to business. Nothing interests me except beating Dempsey. I feel that minor matches would only interrupt my training."

He is like the Harvard football team, which regards only one game on the schedule as really important, and conditions itself accordingly.

Willard is nearer mad than I have ever seen him. He says he has wanted this match for two years, but didn't press the point, for fear that Dempsey would dodge him.

READY FOR ROAD WORK

When I saw him he had been working only half an hour a day for ten days. Said he would start road work soon, and increase his indoor routine, now that some progress appears to have been made in arranging the match.

From the foregoing it should not be inferred that the writer believes Willard can whip Dempsey, or that he even can stage a respectable comeback. I am merely telling about the Willard I saw at Hollywood with a gallery of ex-service men watching him work.

His wind was bad. Inside of three minutes he was puffing, partly due, I believe, to the fact that like a majority of pugilists he has a broken or misplaced cartilage in his nose which interfer with breathing. Amazingly fast for a man of his weight, he was still very slow for a boxer. His shifts were good, but his general footwork rather heavy.

MUST GET SPEED

Willard will whip any man he hits, and hits right. But he will have to be faster than the day I saw him to corner Dempsey and beat down his guard. It is very doubtful whether he can beat the champion at long range.

Willard has some surplus stomach, but it is not as pronounced as I had expected. He told me that he weighs 265 pounds. This means that he must take off twenty-five pounds to be at his most effective weight. He has good hands, his arms and legs are good in appearance at least.

Many believed the long grind of training would prove so onerous that Willard after a few days would throw up the idea of a comeback.

"I don't mind the training, and am going through with it," he said, laughing, as he spun back into his shadow boxing.

"Seven months is a long grind," I suggested.

"Three or four is all I want," and whang, went a right upper-cut.

FACES LONG TRAIL

Willard is facing a long hard trail. He deserves all the credit in the world, and will not want for support.

A month from now it will be possible to ascertain something of the form which he eventually will approximate.

COAST GAMES WON AND LOST

The following is a diagram showing how clubs in the Pacific Coast League won and lost against each other up to and including last Sunday's games, July 16:

Hinckley and Davies Win at Chestnut Hill

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, July 17.—Longwood's thirtieth annual bowl singles tournament was launched at the Chestnut Hill courts this afternoon. "Seeded" players moved ahead when they swung into action, although none of them showed overpowering shots. Philip Neer from Portland, Or., the Stanford University captain, defaulted because of a knee injury, taking some of the interest out of the section dominated by R. Norris Williams, II, three times challenger for the bowl.

Williams defeated Josian Wheelwright, 6-2, 6-2.

Other first round scores were:

Phillip Bettens, San Francisco, defeated W. H. Abbott, Boston, 6-3, 8-6; Richard Hinckley, Los Angeles, defeated A. C. Butler, Boston, 8-6, 7-5; James Davies, Los Angeles, defeated C. G. Plimpton, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1.

PEYTON AND HIGIMA TO CLASH JULY 26

Some battle of arms and legs should take place on Wednesday July 26 at the Union League Club. George Peyton well known English grappler of London, Eng., is to meet T. Tigima of Kyoto, Japan. Higima is a bear at the ju jitsu game and is a big favorite among the local Japanese. The men are to grapple ju jitsu style to a finish. The main event will be preceded by two preliminaries. The entertainment will be open to the public and ladies will be admitted.

CAPONI AND GRIFFIN SIGNED UP IN NORTH

Toni Caponi and Dick Griffin have been signed up for bouts to be staged at Simpson's Oakland arena on July 26, according to word received last night from Billy Doc Morris, who is now in San Francisco. Opponents for the pair have yet to be selected.

DANNY KRAMER MEETS BROWN

Sluggers in Main Event at Vernon Arena

Lavin to Make Debut Tonight Against Sailor

Ketchell Will Hook Up With Monk Fowler

Young Brown, one of the only two Pacific Coast boxers who can claim the distinction of having floored Danny Kramer, will be given an opportunity to repeat the feat in the main event at Jack Doyle's Vernon arena this evening. The Mexican whirlwind is billed to meet the southpaw slugger in the feature bout of the weekly boxing card.

In their last meeting, Brown had taken a steady pasting up to the fourth round. He had played steadily to Kramer's body but had taken a severe beating about the head in exchange. In the final round, Brown's strategy told its tale and Kramer weakened. Brown brought him down with a clout to the chin and the southpaw took the count of nine. The knockdown evened the going and the contest was called a draw.

DANNY IS POPULAR

As Kramer is unquestionably the most popular mitt slinger that has been brought out here this year, the prospect of watching him against a heavier opponent who may bring him down is expected to draw a capacity house. Reservations have been heavier than for any scrap in weeks.

A new middleweight from San Francisco named "Goat" Lavin will make his local debut in the semi-wind-up. He is matched with Sailor Larry, a local colored scrapper.

Young Ketchell, who made a heady, plucky fight against a heavier opponent last week, is matched with Monk Fowler for the feature preliminary. They are lightweights.

The remainder of the card follows:

Pete Herman vs. Teddy Baldy, 118 pounds.
Earl Owens vs. Mart Ryan, 118 pounds.
Kid Mack vs. Pete McCarthy, 118 pounds.
Frankie Jerome vs. Eddie Dugan, 122 pounds.

The first setup is scheduled to start at 8:30 o'clock, with George Blake acting as referee.

MASON AND LOUIE IN COVINA FEATURE GO

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

COVINA, June 17.—Lee Mason and Kid Louie box at 118 pounds in the main event of the regular American Legion program to be held in the Covina arena Friday night. The card follows:

Lee Mason vs. Kid Louie, 118 pounds.
Frankie Conley vs. Al Herrera, 122 pounds.
Tommie Hogan vs. Kid Lerman, 122 pounds.
Mike Dewey vs. Kid Corbett, 118 pounds.
Eddie Brown vs. Alf Roland, 118 pounds.

AMATEURS TO HOLD SWAY

Fifty Ringsters Entered for Tourney Which Opens At L. A. A. C., Tomorrow Night

There will be a veritable conglomeration of boxing-glove wielders on tap tomorrow night when the Southern California amateur boxing tournament opens in the gymnasium of the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Approximately fifty energetic exponents of the ring sport have registered for what is predicted to be one of the classiest and largest fistic tourneys ever staged in this part of the State.

George Blake, the L.A.A.C. boxing mentor, who is in charge of the tournament, announced that the drawings will not be held until just before the program opens. However, entrants will be on hand to weigh in at five o'clock in the L.A.A.C. gymnasium.

It is the intention of Blake to advance the tournament to the semifinal round in most of the classes, the first evening. Thus the finals and a few semifinals will be held on Thursday night.

Some snappy matches are looked for in the lightweight and the 118-pound classes. In the latter division August Gotto, present possessor of the Southern California title, will have to step a merry pace to emerge victorious. In the lightweight division which has the largest number of entrants, a couple of champs and a number of typical maulers will clash.

SEALS AGAIN MAUL SINKING SIWASHES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—San Francisco made it six out of seven games from Seattle today by winning last Tuesday's postponed contest, 5 to 1. The Indians outhit the Seals, gathering nine bingles off the delivery of Capt. Jim Scott, but the local aggregation made their seven hits count in the run column and had an easy victory. It was the second game Scott has won in the series. San Francisco cinched the contest in the first inning when four hits and an error by Custo netted three runs. Seattle did not put over their lone tally until the eighth, when three hits were bunched. They had previously gone scoreless for 34 innings. Willie Kamm was back at third base. He had been out of the game with an injury. The score:

OAKLAND'S MUNICIPAL LINKS OPEN IN 1923

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OAKLAND, July 18.—Oakland's new municipal golf course will be opened Jan. 1, 1923, it has been announced. The course could be opened sooner but it is desired to give the grass time to take root. The greens and fairways are progressing nicely.

SARAZEN STILL EXCITED

New Open Golf Champ of America Plans to Make Two Trips Abroad

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 17.—So excited that he can't sleep and so bewildered that he can't collect his thoughts, Gene Sarazen, arriving here today, began to realize what it means to be the open golf champion of America.

Out of the perplexity of the forty-eight sleepless hours he has spent since winning the title at the Skokie links in Chicago, the 21-year-old champion has resolved to make two trips to Europe, the first probably this fall to learn the courses, and the second next summer to compete in the British open championship. In the meantime he'll be on exhibition in the United States.

CARRIES IN CUP

He walked into his hotel carrying the large silver cup, emblematic of his honors and in a moment his hands were being wrung off. He struggled up to his room, unpacked his golf bag, opened a traveling case and watched a pack of letters flood the floor.

"I'm getting letters from everyone—I didn't realize that it means this"—he pointed to the floor—"to be the champion. There are checks in some of them. You know John Black should have won anyway. (Black, the 44-year-old grandfather, finished second.) Well, this is too much for me."

"I wasn't excited all during the tournament while I played, but the worst hour of my life was after I had finished and waited for the others to finish. That was torture. Then when I won, the crowd excited me and I've been in a daze since. I prayed before making my last shot and it went true to the pin. I was scared!"

RECEPTION PLANNED

Gene will be in New York about a week—probably will give an exhibition match and then hike back to Pittsburg, where he is the professional of the Highland Country Club. A reception is planned there for his return.

LOCAL STARS TRIUMPH

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DENVER, July 17.—Miss Grace Mungen and Miss Jessie Grieve, tennis stars of Los Angeles, Cal., today participated in three matches of the Denver city tennis tournament at City Park, winning each set handily.

The most exciting battle on the Denver courts during the day was that between Miss Mungen and Carol Collins of Denver, in the women's singles. Miss Mungen took the match, 9-7 and 8-6. Miss Collins is counted one of the fastest women players in Denver, and was counted upon to stand high in the tournament.

The game between her and Miss Mungen drew a large gallery. Both contestants were roundly applauded at the close for their brilliant play.

Miss Grieve defeated Miss Gurley of Denver in the women's singles, 6-0 and 6-2. This match, while not so hotly contested as the one between Miss Mungen and Miss Collins, also developed moments of thrilling encounters.

In the women's doubles, Miss Mungen and Miss Grieve were matched against Mrs. Daly and Mrs. Mohr. The California Girls came out victorious, 3-6, 6-2 and 8-6.

Miss Mungen is matched to play Miss Small of Denver in the women's singles tomorrow.

Tennis—Then and Now

The Old World Has Jazzed Up a Bit Since 1860

Here you see Lady Diana Cooper in the demure costume of a sweet girl tennis player of mid-Victorian days posing with her partner, who also is garbed in a quaint outfit. The sweet maid of yore would surely have swooned had she beheld the modern girl in fighting trim all set for action, as shown below. Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, international tennis champion, is shown playing a mixed doubles in one of the recent tournaments abroad. [Central News photo.]

MERMEN READY FOR BIG SWIM

Sixth Annual Venice Race Set for Sunday

Aquatic Event Will Start at 2 o'Clock P.M.

Spin Strictly for Amateurs; Entry List Large

The sixth annual around the breakwater swim, which has been sanctioned by the A.A.U., will be held at Venice next Sunday afternoon under the auspices of the Venice Swimming Association, according to an announcement made yesterday by Frank F. Rivas, coach of the Venice organization. The aquatic event is slated to start at 2 o'clock. A.A.U. officials will be in charge of the affair.

From the vast number of entries pouring in from every section of Southern California this year, the race should be the largest so far as entries are concerned, ever held. The race will be strictly for amateurs and in looking over the entry list, the best swimmers that ever entered an ocean race in these parts will be on hand.

DUKE TO ENTER

Kuke Kahanamoku, the world's famous swimming star, is a probable entrant, although when talking to Rivas yesterday, nothing was certain as to whether the "Bronzed God" from Honolulu will swim or not.

The race this year will be on a different course than that in previous seasons. The start will be on the beach at the foot of Bryoska avenue, about the halfway mark between Venice and Ocean Park. The swimmers will plunge in the surf at the firing of a gun and swim straight out to and around a buoy; then along the shore toward the Venice breakwater. At a point near the breakwater, the course will go into the finish to a place in the rear of the Venice plunge.

Jack Robertson of the Olympic Club of San Francisco and the Pacific Coast 100-yard champion has turned his entry blank in. A whole fist full of shining stars from the San Diego Rowing Club will be entered. This will include Hersog, Murphy, Shields and Dula.

Eddie Friel, who for the last two years has won the Venice swimming race, will again enter under the L.A.A.C. colors. Many others will come from the Los Angeles club including Colin Smith, Eddie Rawlings and Kahallana.

BEACHES THERE

Redondo and Long Beach will have their swimming stars entered in the event, and the water dogs from those two municipalities always are swimmers to be seriously reckoned with. Coach Rivas has had the members that are ocean swimmers of the Venice association training faithfully for several weeks.

Wally O'Connor, the holder of the national interscholastic record for a 440-yard swim, is one Venice entrant. O'Connor probably is one of the greatest swimmers ever turned out by Rivas. He holds many State records in addition to his national mark for 440 yards of 5m. 36s.

Other Venice swimmers training for the event are Percy De Cremer, Fenton Hamilton, Lincoln Hall and Charles Jazzo Finn. The latter is a veteran swimmer of Venice. Finn, for the last two years, has finished second in the Venice race and is out this year to make it a first. He doesn't even bar the intrepid Duke.

DOUBLE MAIN EVENT AT LEGION FRIDAY

Teddy O'Hara and Benny Vierra, two high-class 136-pound boxers of Oakland, will meet in the windup of a double main event to be staged at the American Legion Hollywood arena next Friday night. Dick Griffin and Teddy Silva, 118 pounders, have been selected by Matchmaker Frank Crowley for the semi-wind-up.

Jimmy Butler will make his reappearance in the Hollywood ring after a long absence against Jimmy Hackley, the 136-pound slugger.

The balance of the card follows: Johnny Webber vs. Charlie Sullivan, 122 lbs. Johnny Conde vs. George Sherman, 133 lbs. Joe Thomas vs. Willie Hunt, 140 lbs., and Frankie Tierney vs. Johnny Lee, 138 lbs.

FRED FULTON WINS BOUT WITH ROPER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEWARK (N. J.) July 17.—Fred Fulton, Rochester (Minn.) heavyweight, scored a decisive victory tonight over Bob Roper of Chicago, in a twelve-round contest, according to the verdict of a majority of newspaper men at the ringside.

JOHNSON GOING IN FINE SHAPE

According to eastern baseball experts, Walter Johnson is at present heaving the best ball of his career. The old-timer, who has been twirling for years with the Washington team, has sprung a new tantalizing curve, which is proving a puzzle to batsmen. With this delivery he mixes up his smoke ball and the result has been wonderful. There are those who think Johnson is the most wonderful projector the game has ever known.

Demaree last Sunday as significant pitcher, and is known to entertain managerial ambitions. In 1920 he was regarded as the greatest harmonizing factor on the Seattle club. John McGraw, firm friend of Demaree, tried hard to land him the management of the Seattle club last spring. He is said to have sent President Boldt two long telegrams, and in one of these to have declared, "Make Demaree your manager and I will make your club a winner." But Boldt apparently preferred McCredie.

Demaree joins Portland in Salt Lake. His coming will be regarded as significant, and particularly if he is made manager. The latter would please McGraw mightily, and probably would mean the cementing of close relations between Portland and the New York Giants.

AMERICAN NET MEN TRIM BRITISH TEAM

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HANDOWN (Eng.) July 17. — The Harvard-Yale tennis team defeated J. C. Drabble's team here today five matches to four. The Americans conceded two matches through the scratching of L. E. Williams of Yale, who retired owing to illness.

ENGLISH FORFEIT TO SPANISH NET SQUAD

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, July 17.—It was officially announced this evening that Great Britain had conceded Spain a walkover in the Davis cup tennis competition.

Great Britain's withdrawal was decided upon because it was thought fair that the Spanish team should have an opportunity to go to America, whereas, had Great Britain beaten Spain, the British would have been unable to raise a representative team to play in the United States.

TORRID SERIES STARTS TODAY

Dethroned Tigers Return to Battle Angels

Both Teams Ready to Mangle Each Other

Crandall and May to Pitch in Opening Game

War in its most terrible form is on tap at Washington Park starting today and continuing till Sunday!

You guessed it. The Vernon Tigers and Mr. Wrigley's Angels are to hook up in a seven-game series. This is the third time of the season that the two squads have engaged in mortal combat. The Essickmen emerged victorious in the first series, taking four out of seven, while the Cherubs won the decision in the second battle, taking five victories out of the eight games played.

WOULD REDUCE LEAD

The Angels, flushed with the wine of victory, 3 per cent, after nabbing eight straight games from the delapidated Beavers, start in today ten full games behind the Bangals, but determined to reduce this lead down to a respectable figure.

The Tigers make a none too triumphant return from Salt Lake where they were stung five times by the busy Bees in the ten games played. While at Mormonville the Tiger troupe was relieved of the league leadership by the ambitious Seals, consequently they, the Tigers, are considerably peeved and intend to stick, snap and chew the Doublemint hord of Red Killefer.

With the return of the Maiermen, comes J. Hamilton Hyatt, the Coast League's behemoth of swat, who added seven home runs to his total during his brief stay at Salt Lake. To Ham is given the credit for winning the five Vernon games. This slugging Tiger first baseman lifted the ball over the fence at the crucial times during the past week and caused the Bee twirling staff to become prematurely gray.

TWO STARS ON MOUND

Jakie May, the real leader of the Coast League pitchers, and Doc Crandall, the veteran of many hot campaigns, are due to take up the twirling honors in the initial fracas.

In the north, the Seals and Oaks, who are as friendly as the local squads, open a torrid series today on the Oakland lot, the Seattle Indians tangle with the cellar champs at Sacramento and Portland, the fatted calf, will be led to slaughter before the Salt Lake Bees in Mormonville.

KAMM NOT BARRED FROM GETTING BONUS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17. — Claims that a ruling by baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis prevented Willie Kamm, San Francisco infielder, from getting a part of the $100,000 the Chicago White Sox recently paid for him, were denied by the commissioner in a telegram received from him today by the owners of the local Pacific Coast baseball league club.

The rule, which says players cannot be given any part of their purchase price, originated with the Association of Minor League baseball clubs, Commissioner Landis said.

FAVORITE PACER IS DEFEATED

John Henry Wins Over Grace Direct in Feature Race at Kalamazoo

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

KALAMAZOO (Mich.) July 17. The defeat of Grace Direct, the favorite, by John Henry, in the 2:05 pace was the feature of the opening day's program at Kalamazoo's Grand Circuit meet this afternoon. The Earing entry took the first heat in 2:02¼, but Cox put over the next two in easy fashion. Grace Direct fought it out with John Henry in the second heat, but finished fourth in the finals. Wanda May paced consistently, but could not make up distance.

"Pop" Geers put over a long shot when he sent Jack Houtahead in the second and third heats of the 2:16 trot after finishing behind Peter Alation and Gen. Bing in the opener. Bobbin, an added starter, drew fourth money.

Lee Worthy, favorite, had no trouble in disposing of the field in the Rickman Hotel purse for 2-year-old trotters in the 2:12 class. The Lee Axworthy colt was never in danger and the finish looked like a procession with Alma May Worth, second, and Baron Etawah trailing down the stretch.

The Celery City purse in the 2:16 trots, of $2000 was put over until tomorrow.

Roque Artist of Long Beach Stars in East

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, July 17.—Barnett of Long Beach, Cal., proved the sensation of the day in the tourney of the American Roque League today, winning three of his four matches and losing only to Wells of Chicago.

Harry Hayden, 14-year-old Cleveland boy, startled the old-timers by winning three matches in a row in the first day's play of the second division. Hayden defeated W. O. Smith, B. S. Temple of Eaton, O., and A. W. Swisher, Campbellstown, O.

Values Made Possible by 16 Years of Leadership

Where Kissel Has Been First

Here are listed some of the points of design and construction that Kissel has introduced into the automobile industry. Many of these features are still exclusive in Kissel Custom-Built Sixes. Others have been generally adopted by motor car manufacturers. But in every case Kissel was first.

First to introduce a special frame design that places the center of gravity very low, creating exceptional roadability without sacrificing road clearance.

First to balance separately all reciprocating parts—crankshaft, clutch parts and connecting rods—in the same motor.

First to perfect automatic oil control to a motor—to supply the correct amount of oil at every motor speed.

First to perfect a series of chassis construction that goes far towards eliminating squeaking and rattling of moving parts.

First to use double universal brakes, thus doing away with the danger, noise and wear of internal braking mechanisms.

First to merge all electric wires on one control panel board, making possible the easy location of wire trouble.

First to place a full-width enclosed body on an automobile chassis.

First to bring out two and three door touring bodies.

First to introduce concealed lights to illuminate the instrument board at night.

First to place on the market an all-year car—Kissel's idea that changed the habits of a nation by making winter driving popular.

First to use the possibilities of the now universally-used vacuum gasoline feed, for it was at the Kissel factory that this system was worked out by its inventor, Webb Jay.

First to substitute oil lubrication for grease cups in a medium-priced car.

First to build his own rear axles, and first to offer a full-floating rear axle in a popular priced car.

And now—first to place on the market a real Custom-Built Six selling at a popular price.

Again and again during the past 16 years has Kissel introduced into the automobile industry principles of design and manufacture that were regarded as revolutionary.

And again and again have other manufacturers followed Kissel in adopting these principles as essential in really fine automobiles.

Now comes further proof of Kissel leadership—the leadership of price. Never before have truly custom-built automobiles been obtainable at prices so moderate as those now in effect on the various models of the Kissel Custom-Built Six.

The fineness made possible only by skilled hand craftmanship asserts itself everywhere in the performance of these cars. It is evident in the silent, powerful motor that runs without noticeable vibration at any speed; in the low-slung body that clings to the road without side-sway; in the freedom from petty annoyances; in the dignity and grace of line contributed by advanced body design.

If you are interested in discovering a car that will fully meet your conception of a truly fine automobile in everything but price, we suggest that you investigate the Kissel Custom-Built Six. Now on display.

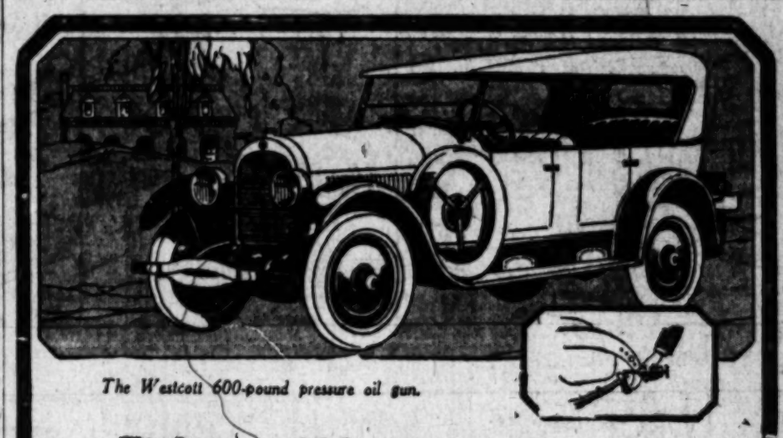
The Custom Built Car



The Westcott 600-pound pressure oil gun.

Fighting Old Age with a Gun

A unique oiling system is one of the protections which the Westcott has against old age. Oil is forced into the Westcott bearings under 600-pound pressure by means of a unique oil gun. Pressure is built up in the gun by a turn or two of the handle.

Place the nozzle on the connection---only one hand is needed---the check valve is released, and the oil is forced in, lubricating the bearings perfectly.

Is it any wonder that Westcott bearings last so long, spring shackles are silent, and chassis rattles unknown?

What is Oildag?

Says

OILDAG is a lubricant for automobile engines and bearings made from a paraffin base oil and pure Acheson molecular graphite.

The combination is a winner because the molecular graphite particles form a graphoid surface on the moving metal parts of your engine. Thus friction is eliminated, power increased, economy advanced and wear forestalled indefinitely.

Yes, you, too, should know the advantages of OILDAG. See your service station man today; have him put OILDAG in your crankcase — then learn of the joys and economies of motoring.

S. S. S. Fills Out Hollow Cheeks, Thin Limbs!

Men and women,—whether you will ever build yourself up to your normal, just-right weight, depends on the number of blood-cells in your blood. That's all there is to it. It's a scientific fact. If your blood-cell factory isn't working right, you will be run-down, thin your blood will be in disorder, and perhaps your face will be broken out with pimples, blackheads and eruptions. S. S. S. keeps your blood-cell factory working full time. It helps build new blood-cells. That's why S. S. S. builds up thin, run-down people. It puts firm flesh on your bones, it rounds out your face, arms, neck, limbs, the whole body. It puts the "pink" in your cheeks. It takes the hollowness from the eyes, and it fools Father Time by smoothing out wrinkles in men and women by "plumping" them up. S. S. S. is a remarkable blood-purifier. While you are getting plump, your skin eruptions, pimples, blackheads, acne, rheumatism, rash, tetter, blotches are being removed. The medicinal ingredients of S. S. S. are guaranteed purely vegetable. Is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical —(Advertisement.

CHANGE NAME OF DENTISTS

History of Organizations is Recounted

North and South Again Are Brought Together

Sports Feature Meeting of National Body

The first official act of delegates to the twenty-sixth annual convention of the National Dental Association, which opened yesterday at the Ambassador, was to change the name of the organization to the American Dental Association.

Stressing the importance of the change, Dr. Otto U. King, secretary of the National Dental Association, said this year's convention would be epochal because of this action, and told of the history of the two organizations.

"An organization known as the American Dental Association was formed sixty-four years ago, at a time when the profession was in its infancy," said Dr. King. "Then the Civil War came on and the southern dentists broke away from the northern members, taking with them the name of the organization. The northerners adopted the title National Dental Association, which has existed until today."

MAKES PATRIOTIC TALK

Dr. S. W. Foster of Atlanta, Ga., introduced the resolution to rename the national body. In a stirring speech of patriotism he pointed to the World War as the final elimination of all rivalry between the North and South.

Recreation was the outstanding feature of yesterday's program. The third annual dental golf tournament was held with about 500 dentists from all sections of the country participating. At the Vernon Gun Club, a trapshooting tournament to determine the national dental trapshooting championship was held.

An automobile ride to the show places of Los Angeles and points of interest in near-by cities was taken by many of the visitors.

TO WELCOME DELEGATES

The first general session of the convention is scheduled for this morning. It will be opened by an organ recital by Sibley Pease. Dr. Rufus Von KleinSmid, president of the University of Southern California, and Sylvester L. Weaver, ex-president of the Chamber of Commerce, will welcome the visitors. Dr. Charles M. Benbrook, general convention chairman, will extend a welcome on behalf of the dental profession of California. Dr. Thomas P. Hinman of Atlanta, Ga., will respond. The other chief speaker on the program will be Dr. Thomas B. Hatsell, president of the National Dental Association.

The afternoon will be taken up largely with the holding of scientific sessions.

Of much interest to the public is the dental health exhibit, which opened yesterday.

Preparations are being completed for the open session of the convention to be held at Trinity Auditorium Wednesday evening. The public is invited to attend.

Ask Court to Aid Recall of City Trustees

Petitions for writs of mandate compelling the trustees of the city of Venice to call a special election for the recall of Edward A. Gerety and John G. Harrah, members of the Board of Trustees, were filed by George E. Beaman yesterday in the Superior Court. Presiding Judge Willis issued the writs and set the hearing for next Tuesday in Department 16.

It is charged in the petition that the Trustees have neglected and refused to call the election despite the fact that the petitions are sufficient.

Action Against Oil Queen for Plants Settled

The suit of H. F. Bryan to recover $870 from Maud Banks, Wyoming oil queen, for eighty-seven dalia bulbs, was compromised in Judge Hahn's court yesterday just before the case was called for trial. It is said that the amount paid was $650.

The defendant declared that a sack of bulbs was delivered, but not classified according to a purported agreement. She agreed to pay $174, declaring they were worth no more than that sum.

CONVICTED OF FRAUD

Local Man Used Mails in Scheme to Swindle Workers

Henry Peters pleaded guilty to a charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud, in United States District Court yesterday and was fined $250, with three months in the County Jail.

Peters represented himself as manager of a large private estate in Santa Barbara, and advertised in a local newspaper for a watchman, who was to be paid $125 a month for his services. The mails were used to correspond with a number of victims, and a charge of $100 was made. It is asserted that a Charles Clark, who cannot be found, was the principal in the scheme, and that Peters was a victim of a superior operator.

JURIST LIKES CITY

Declaring that Los Angeles resembles New York more than any other city in the world, Judge Isador Wasservogel of the New York Supreme Court visited a number of local judges yesterday. The jurist is here on his second visit and will go to Hawaii later. He is staying at the Ambassador.

MELONS FACE ATTACK,

Teachers and students enrolled in the summer session of the University of Southern California will participate in a "watermelon bust" this evening on the north lawn of the campus. In addition to fifty watermelons there will be a community sing led by Dr. J. H. Lyons and a program of races and games.

LIBERTY LOSES ITS APPEAL

Trusty Flees Chain Gang; But Conscience Forces Him Back to Jail.

Jack Albright, a trusty sentenced for grand larceny, walked away from the chain gang working on the highway in Big Rock Canyon yesterday. He begged a lift in a fast automobile which took him toward Los Angeles. Jack would have enjoyed the ride if his conscience had not annoyed him. So upon arriving here he made straight for the County Jail, where he is now sojourning until he goes out with a pick and shovel again.

DEATH ENDS PLANS FOR MARRIAGE

Victim of Plane Crash Was Preparing to Take Montana Girl as Bride

Pending the arrival of relatives hurrying to Los Angeles from the East, preparations for the funeral services of the three men killed in an airplane accident Sunday afternoon will not be made until later in the week, it was stated yesterday.

The triple tragedy Sunday terminated plans for the marriage of one of the victims, Kenneth C. Dulin, and Miss Marion Piggott, at Helena, Mont., it was learned yesterday.

Mr. Dulin, who was a member of the firm of Hunter, Dulin & Co., bond brokers, was to have left Saturday for Helena accompanied by Hugh Golden, who was to have been his best man. The wedding was to have occurred Wednesday, the 26th inst.

Miss Piggott and her mother had just arrived in Montana from New York, where they had gone in June to select the trousseau. The wedding was to have been a fashionable affair in Helena.

Mr. Dulin's mother, Mrs. Edgar G. Dulin and his sister, Miss Jean Dulin, were hurrying from Europe to be at the wedding and are due home in a few days. They have just arrived in New York.

Miss Piggott and her mother spent last winter here and in Coronado. Her engagement to Mr. Dulin was announced last June.

Gerald H. Schellenbach, secretary of the bond company, and W. H. Robinson, former ace of the Canadian flying forces, the other victims of the accident, both leave widows.

DRAW PLANS FOR COSTLY HIGH SCHOOL

Education Heads Move to Relieve Congestion in the Hollywood District

The contract for building an addition to the mechanical arts building of the Jefferson High School at a cost of $40,000 was awarded by the Board of Education last night to Jay B. Harris, contractor. Plans for the structure were prepared by Elliott Lee Ellingwood, consulting engineer.

Plans for the new Belmont High School, to be built at First street and Loma Drive, are now being prepared by architects, Elliott Craig, chairman of the finance committee of the board, stated last night, and the contract will be let for the building about October 1. This school will cost more than $500,000, according to present plans, Mr. Craig stated. It will be completed some time next spring and is designed to relieve congestion at Hollywood and Los Angeles High Schools.

Specifications for excavating the site of the new Fifteenth-street school building at San Pedro, which was burned to the ground some time ago, were adopted last night. Plans for the building will be ready for adoption at the next meeting of the board, it was stated.

Hand Keys of Sawtelle to Mayor Cryer

The figurative keys of Sawtelle, recently annexed to Los Angeles, were transferred to Mayor Cryer and the City Council last night in the presence of several hundred Sawtellians, who gathered in their park to watch the speeches fly.

Numerous jokes were broached, and the Los Angeles Police Band melodized the occasion by making its maiden appearance of the season. Among the speakers were Walter Armacost, former mayor of our new acquisition; Frank Langdon, Sawtelle's first mayor; William McCoy of the West Los Angeles Improvement Association; City Auditor, John S. Myers; J. Gordon Whitnall of the City Planning Commission, and Councilmen Allen, Sparks, Sanborn and Conaway. R. F. McClelland, chairman of the County Board of Supervisors, was unable to attend and sent a letter in his stead.

Mr. Langdon electrified his audience by urging them to support the bond issue which would bring Owens River water to Sawtelle.

BUYERS GO EAST

Harry S. Goldberg of Swelldom left Los Angeles for New York Thursday morning. Miss McWilliams, buyer, accompanied him. They will buy new fall merchandise. Golberg is of the opinion that this will be one of his most enjoyable trips as his New York office informs him that the markets are full of wonderful values besides the new fall fashions express many original features that entirely deviate from the preceding season's fashions and of quite extreme tendencies.

INDORSE RAIL ROUTE TO PORT

Speakers Ask Council to Grant Application

Harbor's Prosperity Declared at Stake

Opponents of Santa Fe's Plea in Minority

All Los Angeles strongly desires that the City Council speedily permit the Santa Fe Railroad to extend its lines into the Los Angeles Harbor district, was the declaration of many speakers at yesterday afternoon's hearing at the City Hall by the Public Utilities Committee of the Council on the company's application for a franchise.

Representing the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, which is strongly behind the Santa Fe's application, was a committee composed of former Presidents Sylvester L. Weaver and Maynard McFie, Shannon Crandall and F. P. Gregson. The latter also represented the Associated Jobbers, which has heartily approved of the Santa Fe's desire, long ago cherished by the late President Ripley of the railroad, to extend the company's lines to the Pacific Ocean at Los Angeles Harbor.

McFIE SPEAKS

Also indorsing the extension of the railroad is the Torrance Chamber of Commerce, which sent a large delegation of business men to yesterday's hearing, the spokesman of which was City Attorney Briney of Torrance. The San Pedro and Los Angeles Harbor chambers of commerce as well as the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the Fourth Supervisorial District, which includes Long Beach, Hermosa Beach, Manhattan Beach, Huntington Park and other cities in the district, have similarly forwarded resolutions of approval to the Los Angeles City Council.

"The prosperity of Los Angeles is wrapped up in its harbor," declared former President McFie of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. "The people of Los Angeles have voted millions for the development of our harbor as a free port for all railroads, all industries, all steamship companies. The people demand that their harbor shall go ahead. The coming of the Santa Fe, which was postponed by the World War, is a milestone in the city's commercial history. Should we throw obstacles in the way of the Santa Fe? No. The coming of the Santa Fe will aid tremendously in enabling Los Angeles and its harbor to fulfill its destiny."

F. P. Gregson of the Associated Jobbers and the Chamber of Commerce, said: "Everyone attending the hearings given on this company's application says, 'Yes, we want the Santa Fe,' and then many of them go around behind the Santa Fe and attempt to knife the railroad in the back by doing their best to cause the company's application to be denied. The greatest railroad in the United States, one of which has done wonders in making Los Angeles the city that it is today, now asks to help us develop the harbor and there are those who would deny this company the right to extend its lines twelve miles to serve our port. Steamships and docks do not alone made a harbor. There must be railroad lines to bring the cargoes to the steamships and to carry the freight to the great Pacific Southwest of which Los Angeles Harbor is the main open doorway. Shall we turn the Santa Fe away from our harbor? The people of Los Angeles say no."

On behalf of the Santa Fe, Attorney M. W. Reed of the company said:

"The Santa Fe hopes, with your assistance, to extend its lines to your harbor, and we trust you are not going to make it impossible for us to do this by throwing insurmountable obstacles in our way. The harder you make it for us to serve your harbor the more difficult you will make it for us to obtain from the Interstate Commerce Commission the necessary authority to make the extension.

MINIMIZES HAZARDS

"Thus, by this opposition, those who are making it are standing in the way of the progress and development of the city and of the harbor. The increased traffic of harbor-bound freight trains over our right of way along Slauson avenue will not be heavy for many years to come, and the hazard at existing grade crossings will not be materially increased. When the traffic does develop to the point where public safety demands that these grades be separated, you will not find the Santa Fe opposing the separation. In the twelve miles of our proposed extension from El Segundo to Wilmington, our plans call for the separation of grades at twelve places, including Harbor Boulevard, and the cost of this separation of grades will be $600,000."

Other speakers who urged the Council's Public Utilities Committee, consisting of Chairman Sanborn and Councilmen Conaway and Sparks, to make a favorable recommendation on the company's application included Capt. Lous Hansen, F. C. Finkle of the Southwest Chamber of Commerce and City Attorney Briney of Torrance.

SEEK ROUTE CHANGE

Opponents of the application who spoke all said they welcomed the coming of the railroad to Los Angeles Harbor, but that they believed changes in the route of the line should be made so as to avoid grade-crossing hazards along E street at the harbor, and along Slauson avenue, as well as to permit in the future the development of the Bixby Slough portion of the west basin. Officials of the company said that the Board of Public Utilities and the Board of Harbor Commissioners in recommending the approval of the application specified that should this upper west part of the harbor be developed that the company be required to move its tracks and the railroad officials said that they would gladly do this, as more industries at the harbor meant more business for the railroad.

Speakers for the opposition included M. A. Shuster of the South End Business Association, L. F. Caswell, George Dunlop, representing the Municipal League, and former State Senator Henry E. Carter, representing several property owners along E street at the harbor. Maj. Charles P. Leeds, former United States district engineer here, and now representing the Palos Verdes syndicate which has plans for developing 600 acres the syndicate owns on Bixby Slough, as well as George A. Damon, representing the Regional Planning Conference, asked that no action be taken either approving or disapproving the application for a franchise until a more complete detailed investigation could be made by engineers on the effect that proposed railroad extension would have on future harbor development and the creation of new traffic arteries.

The committee will give another hearing on the Santa Fe's application at the City Hall at 1:30 p.m. next Monday.

Do You Get Up in the Morning Feeling Fit as a Fiddle?

Success in Life Often Times Depends Upon Starting the Day Right

TO BOUNCE out of bed feeling fresh as a daisy; to greet the little one prancing before you with a happy laugh, toss him up high with a firm, steady hand, and actually dance with the very joy of living!

Then plunge into your morning tub, if that's your method, dress with a smile on your lips and a song in your heart. Come with firm step to the breakfast table, eager for its wholesome fare—

And you spread joy in your household and go forth into the world "fit to fight," equipped with that most powerful of all weapons, great good health. For health is surely yours, and YOU do not need Tanlac.

But how different if you arise unrefreshed, aching in every fiber, unmoved by the healthy laugster o. the household. The long day ahead will seem to you an eternity, promising nothing but misery, and you just have to summon all your willpower and what little energy remains to you, to drag yourself up, dress and take your place falteringly, discouraged, without appetite, at your breakfast table. Gloom enshrouds you and casts its depressing pall about your whole family circle, and you go out to the battle of life already hopelessly beaten. YOU need Tanlac!

And, oh! how many thousands experience this wretched state! Far and wide the wail is heard from those who crawl out of bed with the greatest effort and wonder if there is nothing that can bring the health that will make them feel "fit as a fiddle" in the morning. They need Tanlac!

What is the matter? Why are they all tired out in the morning? The answer is simply that their systems are clogged and their blood poisoned from the waste substances that have been stored up because the digestive and elliminative organs have not performed their proper functions. And the reason for all this is that too much hastily eaten food has been piled into the stomach.

When you feel yourself getting up in the morning unrefreshed and exhausted, look for the symptoms of stomach trouble, such as dizziness, nervousness, bad taste in the mouth and biliousness. You may be constipated, too, and your liver sluggish or torpid. Unusual skin pallor, loss of weight, loss of appetite and inability to sleep restfully, are Nature's warnings, and you must look to your digestive system or be in danger of drifting into some serious disease.

The natural action of Tanlac on the digestive, secretive, assimilative and elliminative organs is the certain safeguard to your health, and the never failing foe of that awful tired feeling when you get out of bed in the morning. Tanlac has proved to be the best and safest tonic and system purifier, stimulating the digestive system to its proper functioning, so the blood is able to take up fresh building material and is so vitalized as to be able to more thoroughly eliminate the waste products which make you feel all tired out.

The cells of all parts of the body then receive real healthy nourishment, the shrunken tissues are filled out, the skin regains its glowing texture and the bloom of health. The eye clears, and with the strong and normal digestion the whole system is built up to the point where your hours of sleep are truly refreshing, and you get up in the morning feeling "fit as a fiddle."

It seems the sheerest folly for anyone to feel all tired out in the morning when Tanlac affords the best and most natural means of keeping in good trim or bringing the system back to its full and normal powers.

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. —[Advertisement.

What Women's Organizations Are Doing.

WOMEN LISTEN TO CANDIDATES

Five Office Seekers Tell of Their Fitness

Aspirants to Sheriff's Job Are Present

Three Tell Why They Wish to be Police Judges

BY MYRA NYE

Five candidates ran the gauntlet of the Woman's City Club fire of questions yesterday in the Walker Theater Auditorium, which was filled with women who manifested their eagerness to learn for whom they should vote by the number, variety and emphasis of the questions they asked. The candidates were: For Sheriff, the incumbent, and Charles A. Kelly, the latter of Pasadena; for police judge, Fairfax Cosby, E. T. McGann and James Holsick.

This club platform is, in a measure, an opportunity to prove fitness. These candidates without exception went further than to prove their fitness, they admitted it, as Mr. Cosby said.

Sheriff Traeger dwelt upon his accomplishment in establishing the honor camp for criminals which has, according to his estimate, proved an entire success. He said that from the beginning of his term he had at once deposited all funds intrusted to him so that the interest which might accrue became the property of the county. During the last year $11,000 had been saved in food for prisoners who were, however, better fed than ever before. Now the average cost of each prisoner's meal is 3 cents, he said.

YOUTH IS PROBLEM

"Fifteen years ago," said the Sheriff, "the average age of the criminal in this city was 42 years. Today it is less than 25 years. The whole problem is the conservation of the boyhood and girlhood of our city and county. If you women who are mothers will keep them out of jail, I, as Sheriff, will do my part if a few of them are eventually sent there.

Mr. Kelly said that the invitation for him to speak before a Los Angeles audience was an epoch-making event; for it was the first time that any Pasadena "long hair" had been asked to do any campaigning here before an organization. He said he would enforce the law against bootleggers, he himself would obey every law and would treat all prisoners equally, no matter what their station in life.

"This is a nonpartisan fight," he said. "I belong to the Young Men's Republican Club and the members indorsed another candidate. Imagine my embarrassment if a Democratic Club should indorse me."

Mr. Closby laid stress upon the bootlegger and the automobile speeder who might be brought before him as Police Judge. Each would receive from him, he stated, a maximum term of imprisonment or fine.

HAS LONG CAREER

James Holsick appealed particularly to the women with his succinct recapitulation of the offices he has held which might make him eligible for Police Judge. He has lived thirty-one years in the city, during the greater part of which time he has been connected with the Police Department in one capacity or another. He organized the identification bureau, and himself became a finger-print expert, installing the system in Long Beach and Pasadena as well as in Los Angeles.

He spent more than a year trailing the McNamara dynamiters of The Times Building. For fourteen years he was a police officer and his platform as stated briefly was: "Not the severity of punishment, but the certainty will prevent crime."

Mr. McGann, who aspires to be Deputy City Prosecutor, said that his university of law was the fire department. There as a fireman he had studied law at odd moments and was admitted to the bar in 1913, although he had left the public schools before he was through the third grade. He served in the Spanish-American and the World wars and had organized an American Legion post in Imperial. "I'm a man's man. I'm fair," he declared at the end of his seven-minute talk.

Soroptimist Club

Officers for the Soroptimist Club, Florence E. Banks, head captain of first group, will be elected today following the regular weekly luncheon at Paulais,' 739 South Broadway at 12:15 p.m. The list of charter members will be closed at this meeting.

Installation of the officers chosen, a banquet and presentation of the charter will take place tomorrow at the Los Angeles Athletic Club at 7:30 p.m. Speakers and guests of honor include Gov. and Mrs. Stephens, the Mayor and Mrs. Cryer, the president of the Los Angeles Rotary Club and his wife and the presidents of the Soroptimist clubs of Oakland and San Francisco. The banquet is semi-formal with either dinner or sport clothes in order and each member may invite one guest. Miss Oda Faulconer is chairman of the committee of arrangements for the affair.

Florence Crittenton Home

At the Florence Crittenton Home, 234 East Avenue 33, the auxiliary of the home will hold its regular monthly business meeting and luncheon tomorrow. Mrs. S. C. Bierbower will preside. The afternoon will be spent in sewing followed by a program. This meeting marks the occasion of the first fruit, jelly and jam shower for the benefit of the home. Members and all those interested in the work are invited.

Diet and Health

ADENOIDS AND TONSILS PART II.

Because there is nothing which will lower the resistance of children more than the presence of adenoids and tonsils which are chronically diseased or which obstruct the breathing, and because many parents who have children suffering from these conditions are afraid to have their children operated upon, I shall give a resume of a paper by Dr. Albert D. Kaiser which was read at the last American Medical Association meeting at St. Louis, May, 1922.

As I told you yesterday, this is a report of 5000 of the 10,000 children who were operated upon in the clinic at Rochester, N. Y. Only children who had obviously diseased tonsils and obstructed adenoids were recommended for operation. The operations were performed in the morning and twenty-four hours later the children were sent home in automobiles with instructions to remain in bed for five days.

From the parent was obtained a detailed history of the child and special efforts were made to elicit the complaints noted by the parent. These were tabulated carefully.

Obstructed breathing was the most common complaint. Seventy-two per cent were mouth-breathers. Post-operative complications did occur though they were not frequent. There was no immediate operative mortality among the 10,000 children. Post-operative bleeding was not uncommon, but never was there a failure in controlling it. Only one of the children died from pneumonia from the operation. About two per cent of the children lost in weight, but this was regained in a few weeks' time.

The re-examination of these children was undertaken about ten months after the operation. The effect of the operation, on the child's symptoms, was carefully noted.

The most striking relief came to the so-called mouth breathers. Seventy-two per cent of the 5000 children had given symptoms of obstructed adenoids and tonsils. At the time of re-examination only 9 per cent had such a complaint, and of these 9 per cent a few had some tonsil tissue left, or there was still evidence of unrelieved nasal obstruction. It was chiefly in children of 10 years or older that the mouth breathing persisted and in many of these undoubtedly the prolonged obstruction had accustomed the child to mouth-breathing.

	Before.	After.
Mouth breather	72 per cent.	9 per cent.
Frequent sore throat	47 per cent.	5 per cent.
Frequent colds	46 per cent.	8 per cent.
Enlarged cervical glands	43 per cent.	42 per cent.
Ear trouble	22 per cent.	4 per cent.
Frequent attacks of fever	8 per cent.	1 per cent.
Joint pains (or growing pains)	4 per cent.	0.7 per cent.

A factor which cannot be overlooked is the parent's opinion of the child since the operation. An honest statement was sought from each parent. In their estimation only 1 per cent were reported worse since the operation; 15 per cent showed no change, and 84 per cent (4240 children) were definitely better. There was a marked improvement in the nutrition of these children. School records showed a marked mental improvement in many of them. Reports from the dental dispensary showed fewer children with deformed jaws.

You can see from this valuable report that the operative risk on tonsils and adenoids is not great in skillful hands. And that the improvement in the symptoms is very great.

In my estimation a child that has obstructive adenoids and diseased tonsils should be operated upon. When the little boy in my own family whom I love more than anything on the face of the earth was afflicted in this way, I had his tonsils and adenoids removed, and he has been in perfect health since. Go to the best nose and throat specialist that you know, and abide by his decision.

Poor Children's Benefit Party Tuesday Night

A benefit card party and dance is to be staged at the Ebell Club this evening under the auspices of the Ebell Club for the benefit of the patients department of the Orthopedic Children's Hospital, which is struggling to get on its feet.

Two radio sets are to be given as prizes, one of which is being donated by The Times. One of these is to be given as a prize in the card games and the other is to be a dance prize.

The local broadcasting stations have offered to broadcast the news today and it is hoped that a large number of guests will attend the affair as there are more than twenty vacancies at present and there many worthy children who are not able to afford the service which would save them from having to go through life as cripples.

Music will be furnished by th McVea colored orchestra and dancing will start at 8 p.m. General admission will be 50 cents. All of the proceeds are to go to the fund.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Crown Roast

The crown roast of lamb is a dainty and tasty dish if stuffed with peas, carrots and rice.

On With the Dance

Powdered borax can be used in place of wax when a floor is to be used for dancing and wax is not available.

Forks in Lieu of Spoons

Use a fork instead of a spoon when blending cornstarch, flour or cocoa with water. They will mix much more readily.

To Renovate Towels

The torn edges of Turkish towels can be cut off and the fresh edges bound with strips of colored gingham, thus adding to the life of the towel and still keeping it attractive.

Candied Carrots

In this season, when there are no sweet potatoes to candy, carrots can be substituted with great success. Boil them until tender, slice and cover with brown sugar and butter and bake.

Yellowed White Goods

When linens or white goods have turned yellow, put a few drops of turpentine into the rinsing water and lay them on the grass in the strong sunshine.

Fruit Stains

Cover the fruit stains on your table linens with a paste of salt and lemon juice, and place them in the sun to bleach. Wet the paste with more lemon juice from time to time. Wash out in clear water.

Care of Silk Stockings

If silk stockings are washed out after each time they are worn they will last much longer. It is the perspiration that causes the formation of holes, and rinsing them out eliminates that source of trouble before it has a chance to get in its work.

Household Short-Cuts

Salt in whitewash makes it stick.

The best bait for a rat trap is an oyster.

Lamb fat makes excellent shortening for ginger snaps.

Rice and cheese make a delicious filling for stuffed tomatoes.

Put a pinch of salt and a little vanilla in the peanut brittle.

Bake the cinnamon rolls in muffin tins so they will be of uniform size.

Cover the boiled onions with cream sauce and cracker crumbs and bake in the oven.

In Gay Paris

We glean the following from the "Faits et Evenements Mondains" columns of the Paris dailies: "In the Palias du Duc de Lauzun in the Isle de la Cite, Vieux Paris, was presented Friday evening, June 17, one of the most feerique of fetes. Baron de Pichon, the present Seigneur, had the celebrities of the Opera present the musical comedy, 'Les Adventures de Fortuno,' in the costumes of the sixteenth century. This in a palace whose salons are of the epoque.

"Among the honor guests, besides Marechal et Madame Petain and staff officers were the most representative personalities of old aristocratique France, from Faubourg St. Germain, members of the ministry and Parliament. Representatives from America were noted Mr. and Mrs. Lucian N. Brunswig and Miss Marguerite Brunswig of Los Angeles, who had as their special guests, their friends, Commander et Madame Randolph Huntington Miner, who are now residing in Paris.

"Other Angelenos enjoying the sights of the gay capital are Mr. and Mrs. William May Garland, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. O'Melveny, Mrs. James Calhoun Drake, Mrs. Mary Wilcox Longstreet, Mrs. Mary Banning Norris, Mr. and Mrs. James Rathwell Page, Mr. and Mrs. George Fusenot and others.

"The Grand Prix caught them all at the races, welcomed by soaking rains. All the Los Angeles colony were at the Bal de l'Opera the following night."

The Paris season is drawing to an end and all visitors are scattering. Mr. and Mrs. Murphy have gone to Germany, and Mr. and Mrs. O'Melveny have just arrived home after going to Holland. A congenial group of Los Angeles folk, including Commander and Mrs. Miner, Mrs. Drake, Mrs. Longstreet and the Brunswigs, have since gone to Aix-Les-Baine and will spend the hot season in Switzerland, returning to Paris in the early autumn. The Miners will spend the winter in Paris as also Mrs. Norris.

Miss Workman is Guest

Miss Dorothy Henry is hostess today at a pretty luncheon and bridge party arranged in honor of Miss Audry Workman, who is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Boyle Workman.

Among her guests are Miss Harriet Andrews, Miss Katherine Goodsight, Miss Polly Hamilton, Miss Polly Hobart and Miss Peggy Quinlan.

This is the first of a series of bridge luncheons Miss Henry has arranged for the summer months.

Return From Beach

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meyler and small son, Robert Gephard Meyler, have returned to their home on South Figueroa street after spending the past three weeks at Santa Monica, where they were neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Webster Holmes and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Young.

Enjoy Fishing

Dr. and Mrs. James T. Fisher and three children of Virgil avenue are at Big Bear for the summer. The fishing at Big Bear Creek is exceptionally good and five of Dr. Fisher's party got the limit on last Wednesday.

Visits Del Monte

Miss Mary K. Browne, former national women's tennis champion, who is also ranked as one of the leading golf players on the Pacific Coast, is at Del Monte for the summer.

Announced in New York

Fred Crowell of New York City announces the engagement of his daughter, Miss Jane Crowell of New York and Los Angeles, to Webb Beauchamp, oil operator of Brea, Cal. Both Miss Crowell and Mr. Beauchamp are well known here and this announcement will be an agreeable surprise to their hosts of friends. No plans have been made as yet for their wedding, but it will probably take place in the late autumn.

Have Gone East

Mrs. Warington W. Swetland and her daughter, Miss Warrene Swetland, left Saturday for the East, where they will be the guests of relatives and friends. They will return in the early autumn in time for Miss Warrene to enter Marlborough School.

Traveling Abroad

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nelson of Oakland, but formerly of Los Angeles, are touring Europe. They have just gone to Rome after a week spent in Monte Carlo. They have also been to Paris, have visited the Battlefields and Versailles.

Honor Southern Matrons

Mrs. C. A. McCord and Mrs. John Phelps of Louisville, Ky., are to share honors at a luncheon at which Mrs. Horace Wilson of South Manhattan street is to entertain thirty guests tomorrow. Mrs. McCord is visiting Mrs. Raymond Bradford, who gave a smart bridge luncheon for her on Friday at the Los Angeles Country Club. Mrs. Phelps is a guest of Mrs. Frank Alexander.

Announced at Big Bear

At a week-end house party at Big Bear Lake, the engagement of Miss Esther May Betts and Lambert Baker was announced. Miss Betts is the daughter of Dr. Will A. Betts, pastor of the University Methodist Church of this city. Mr. Baker is the son of Jonas P. Baker of Indiana, and a nephew of Lambert M. Baker of Los Angeles. Both Miss Betts and Mr. Baker are members of the alumni of the University of Southern California, where they graduated this summer. The wedding will take place in the late fall.

Children Dance

In honor of the eighth birthday anniversary of her daughter, Helen Harriet Clegg, Mrs. T. A. Clegg of Denker avenue gave a children's dancing party yesterday afternoon. The decorations were in pink and white flowers and the favors were in the same colors. Mrs. Clegg was assisted by her sister, Mrs. J. Lyman Muir, and Miss Dorothy Theall.

The Magic Jar

Be your own good fairy. Give to yourself a pretty complexion. There is magic in a jar of Mrs. McCormick's Beauty Cream. To the woman with an oily, shiny skin and red nose, and to her equally unfortunate sister with a rough, sallow, weather-beaten complexion, Mrs. McCormick's Beauty Cream is a life-saver. For what woman, no matter how beautiful her hair or how perfect her features, can be attractive without a pretty, clear looking complexion.

Mrs McCormick's BEAUTY CREAM

Improves The Complexion

From any toilet goods counter get a jar of Mrs. McCormick's Beauty Cream. You will find that it resembles a vanishing cream somewhat, but in action it is very different, for Mrs. McCormick's Beauty Cream comprises everything any skin might require to make it beautiful. With it no powder is necessary, nor is any other cream needed for a base.

How To Apply

Cleanse the face thoroughly with warm water and Mrs. McCormick's Beauty Soap. Then, with a dampened sponge, apply a thin coating of Mrs. McCormick's Beauty Cream. Work fast, covering every part of the face, neck and hands. Before the skin dries, smooth over with a chamois skin. Now, observe the change. Your complexion is smooth, white and oh, so fresh. Even the most critical eye would be satisfied, for the effects are so natural. For color, use Mrs. McCormick's Beauty Rouge and Lip Stick.

Mrs. McCormick's Beauty Cream, in flesh or white, comes in two convenient sizes 50c and 60c a jar. The Rouge 50c; the Soap, 25c. If unobtainable, send 10c for trial size

BILL IS A WIZ

ORPHEUM STARS SPARKLE IN GREAT SHOW

By Grace Kingsley

Even if you don't think you care for the Orpheum, you're going to like it this week. Or if you don't you had better see a doctor. Because it is the most brilliant bill the Orpheum has presented in many a moon. Every act is a real sparkler.

Leo Carrillo is the headliner. Everybody remembers Leo as the lovable hero of "Lombardi, Ltd." He has a most winning manner and a delightful line of dialect yarns. His appearance yesterday was more than a mere set act; it was a triumphal home coming after a successful career on Broadway, and hosts of friends welcomed him with loving applause.

There's a young Ysaye down there, this week. He answers to the name of Duci De Kerekjarto—that is, if you can pronounce it. His violin makes the silences sing. His music is all classic or semi-classic, yet he held the house spell-bound, even with the musical gymnastics. He has that God-given thrill in his music which I believe they call tone. The audience would hardly let him go.

Bert Williams's legitimate successor, Bill Robinson, stopped the show yesterday for five minutes. I hate never seen such a demonstration at the vaudeville house. He is a wiz at dancing, and he is one of those unctious boys who wins you before he does a thing.

With a bunch of breezy burlesques of melodramatic players and club women, Flo Lewis walks off with several yards of the cerulean ribbon. She is chic, she is easy in her manner, and she reaches out in her clubby way and tags you before you know you are won.

Closing the proceedings are Grant and Wallace, a couple of nifty boys in dances and acrobatic feats. The big kick comes in a casting stunt, when one boy hangs feet downward from a trapeze, and the other does a flip, catching his feet on those of his partner, hanging head downward. The opening spot is delightfully filled by Chong and Rosie Moey, in a charming and original Chinese version of American songs and dances.

That excellent playlet, "The Show-Off" remains as does also Harry Carroll, who deserves credit for changing a good share of his act.

Lincoln Film Under Way

It would seem that the filming of "Abraham Lincoln, His Life," is shortly to get well under way.

David H. Naylor, Jr., president; R. R. Rockett, general manager; Al Rockett, production manager, and E. H. Christensen, treasurer, of Rockett-Naylor Productions, Incorporated, which is to undertake the mission, returned yesterday from the Middle West and East, where they have been arranging for the filming of the historic locations and relics to be used in their picture of the life and times of Abraham Lincoln.

Strong Film, Light Music at Pantages

Subtlety is not likely to popularize a photoplay. Hence "The Bigamist," Pantages' screen feature this week, appeals to those in search of deeper and hardier themes. It states an interesting problem and then attacks it in a natural way. What will the man do who deliberately commits bigamy when chance offers him the alternative of legalizing the second marriage or of committing another bigamous alliance?

This question offers no difficulties to the ordinary mind, but the woman's problem is less simple. "The Bigamist" has no happy ending. The woman follows the path of duty, and retribution overtakes the man. It is so logical that it is unromantic, and while logical conclusions make an Ibsen drama, they don't help out a photoplay. If you like romantic puppy-love you won't care for "The Bigamist." But if your taste runs to psychological drama, you may.

Quite the contrary is "Stop Thief," the Will King Musical comedy, in which the perennial "Ikey" does a Jimmy Valentine without an alias. Here fancy runs riot and if a serious idea were to happen along they would immediately put a ballet skirt and short socks on it and set it a-jazzing. Will King, Lew Dunbar and Reece Gardner are in their accustomed roles of Hebrew comedian, Irish comedian and juvenile. A minister, a detective and an old man, along with the three already named, are suspected of the thefts that are puzzling the guests at Ikey's wedding party. The situations of the original production are retained more or less intact, giving King a framework upon which to hang his comedy and musical numbers.

The chorus is extremely active, Maidiadu Fresna in dance specialties, Bessie Hill and the Knight Sisters in songs are the hits of the show.

There is a vaudeville program with a tramp bicyclist, Will Morris, a blackface team, La France and Byron, a quartet in various shades of tan, the Four Byron Girls, and Johnny Narvin, who fiddles on a handsaw.

"PRETTY MAMMAS" LURE AT BURBANK

Before the curtain rises on this week's Hi Jinks musical production at the Burbank Theater, one of the prettiest of the chorus girls comes to the footlights and explains that for the present Old Man Plot is to be securely fastened within a strong box, and that the stage is to be all reserved for the doings of "pretty mammas." Now what could be more promising?

And the pretty mammas proceed to liven up the boards and who cares what becomes of old man plot? There's something doing every minute, and if it isn't singing it's dancing, and if it isn't dancing its a riot of tomfoolery. And through it all romp the chorus beauties, each one doing her darndest to please, and seemingly having as good a time as the audience.

While "Pretty Mammas" is fundamentally a girl show, there is no lack of that brand of humor dished out by "Bud" Harrison. Billie Moody or Henry Sheer; and there is not wanting the style of Jean Darby, or the voice of Olga Brooks.

REVIEWS

VARIETY BILL

GRAUMAN'S OFFERS ASSORTMENT OF THINGS

By Edwin Schallert

While Pola Negri is always a personality of interest, most of the fun is in the vaudeville section of the program at Grauman's this week. And there seems an abundance and variety that is popularly pleasing.

The most engaging novelty is the "Journey From Jazzland to Opera," in which Henry Murtagh appears as a genial comique, partly through the aid of the organ and the titles on the screen. This act is really a very cleverly worked out revue of songs new and old.

"The Eyes of the Mummy" is one of the modern stories, from across. Like most of these "modern stories" it is decidedly antiquated from the American viewpoint. Still it is an advance over several Pola Negri pictures that have shown lately.

I confess I hardly know whether I witnessed a World's Fair sideshow or a motion picture. So much of the film was concerned with hokus-pokus, squirmy dancing and other such diversions. The main thrill seems to be Pola's impersonation of a streets of Cairo wriggler, but there are several others which are equally shivery in a different way.

There is much black magic about the story, telling of the girl pursued by the oriental religious fanatic. It intrigues your interest. Though the photography is full of flickers and rough lines and conventional patterns, you do follow with considerable attention the tale of the attempted revenge of Radu, and the fears and tribulations of Marah.

The picture looks as if it might originally have had an unhappy ending, because it now finishes abruptly just about the time that you are expecting some new excitement as a climax. The keenest disappointment, I think, is the bedraggled appearance of Pola in her dark make-up.

"The Eyes of the Mummy" has the substance of a good story, and altogether, it is somewhat better than most foreign program pictures.

Emil Jannings gives a vivid impersonation of the fanatic, while Pola herself acts on occasion with her well-known dramatic intensity.

Edna Wallace Hopper is again telling how to keep young, while "Twenty Minutes in Gloria Swanson's Home" is arousing favor as a musical and dancing act in a movie-esque setting.

Midgets Get Kids to the Hillstreet

Kids packed the Hillstreet from cellar to garret yesterday, the occasion being the opening of the two-week engagement there of Singer's Midgets. There were plenty of grown-ups, too, making on the whole about the biggest Monday afternoon audience the Hillstreet has had since its opening day.

This week's bill at the Junior Orpheum is unusually well equipped with laughs; and the Singer aggregation, though the prime attraction is nevertheless hard-pressed for honors by at least one other feature. This is the photoplay, "The Way of a Maid," in which Elaine Hammerstein is the advertised star, and Nilss Welch the actual one.

It's comedy drama ending in matrimony, and mighty clean strain throughout. Few funnier things have been done on the screen in a long time than some of the earlier sequences, particularly those showing Welch's arrival home after having drunk not wisely, but too well. Elaine is charming, but hasn't the pazz that Welch has. George Fawcett and Arthur Housman contribute very amusing portraits.

As far as the Midgets go—and they go quite a distance—one is inclined to think that the success of their act depends almost wholly on the fact that they are midgets. Some of the animal stunts are good, but not startling so; and the thing is carried over many flat spots by its essential novelty. But a novelty it is, nevertheless, and the kids are crazy about it.

Other numbers are Ben Nee One, Chinese singer and humorist; the Cavana Duo, one of whom is a real old-time contortionist; and Mildred and Dorothy Browne, two very attractive girls, who have a wicked way with their accordions.

TSCHAKOWSKY NIGHT AT HOLLYWOOD BOWL

Tonight's concert of the summer orchestra under Alfred Hertz's conductorship, will be devoted to Tschaikowsky. That popular opera among the Russians, "Eugin Onegin," will be represented by the Polonaise from the third act. The Andante from the Fifth Symphony, the "Cappriccio Italien," and the characteristic dances of the "Nutcracker" suite from a varied selection from the Russian composer's works.

The "Marche Slav," which finishes the program, is composed of national airs and military songs, and is one of the most striking numbers written for orchestra.

Tschaikowsky's music is ideal for an entire orchestral program, because of his broad understanding of many peoples outside of his own country, as well as the ability his compositions have to touch the deepest human feelings.

HERBERT NUMBERS AT THE CALIFORNIA

Music awakening sweet memories with its sentiment was selected by Carli Elinor for his program this week at the California Theater. Opening the concert with selections from "The Serenade," of Victor Herbert, he includes such melodious compositions as "I Love Thee, I Adore Thee," "The Angelus," and "Don Jose."

"Pizzicato," from the pen of the great French ballet writer, Delibes, is a piquant interlude for strings and reeds. Mr. Elinor gives it a delightful interpretation.

"A Hunting Scene," by Bucalossi, Mr. Elinor is repeating by request. It depicts the various stages of a stag hunt. The morning breaks calm and peaceful, the huntsmen sound the merry blast, and amid the barking dogs and cracking of whips, the chase is on; to end with the pack in full cry with the exultant hunters singing.

Guy Brinton Barham

In Memoriam

The members of the Los Angeles Publishers' Association inscribe upon their records this testimony of the affection and esteem in which they held their late associate, Guy Brinton Barham, founder and head of the Los Angeles Evening Herald, who died in London on Friday, June 9, 1922. Privileged by the intimacy of their relation to gain full knowledge of the man, they found in his kindness and good will a never parting inspiration to harmonius action. He bore a high conception of his duty to the state as a citizen and brought to the discharge of his varied labors so much of cheery courage and radiant kindness as to brighten life for all with whom he came in contact.

The publishers of Los Angeles have suffered through his death a loss not to be repaired; the state, a good citizen; and his innumerable friends, one who did all that in his power lay to make his friendship serviceable to them.

In memory of one who was a true friend as well as a helpful associate, the members of the Los Angeles Publishers' Association order that this declaration of their sorrow be inscribed on the records of the Association; that a copy be printed in each of the newspapers of Los Angeles and that a copy be forwarded to the members of Mr. Barham's family.

Memorial adopted by Los Angeles publishers to record their esteem for the late Guy Brinton Barham.

CATTLEMEN BUY PACKING PLANT

Pay Quarter Million for Vernon Property

Will be Run on Co-operative Basis, is Report

Growers Plan to Compete With Big Concerns

"The first co-operative packing plant in the history of the United States was started with the purchase yesterday for $250,000 of the H. F. Lewis plant, located in the Vernon packing district, by a group of cattle raisers.

The plant is modern, being rebuilt a few months ago following a fire which destroyed the original buildings. All of the equipment is of the latest and as many head of live stock can be handled there as in any plant in the city.

The cattlemen, headed by Fred H. Bixby, decided that it would be an experiment worth trying to attempt to compete with the big corporations and after a great deal of investigation it was decided that the logical place for a large co-operative packing plant was in Los Angeles. Bixby is president of the American National Live Stock Association and when he considered the organization of a co-operative plant he took into his confidence some of the largest cattle raisers in the country.

Those who are included with Bixby in the enterprise are Babbitt Brothers, Russell Brothers, L. B. Tannyhill and others.

That the new corporation plans to take the live stock of all of the little producers was given out by the officials of the company, and according to this, the record of Los Angeles of having slaughtered more than 800,000 head of stock in the last year will be greatly enlarged as many small producers who could not sell their stock to the large plants will have a chance to get rid of their cattle and other live stock to the co-operative association.

The Chamber of Commerce and local cattle raisers were enthusiastic over the announcement of the new company and expressed the opinion that in the next few years Los Angeles would get into the class of Chicago as far as the packing industry goes.

The step was taken only after an exhaustive research of the industry and after it had been discovered that Los Angeles took 25 per cent of all of the cattle fed in Colorado last winter, and drew heavily on the supply of Montana, Wyoming, Idaho and Texas.

Although no statement was made as to when the plant would start operating on the co-operative basis, it was announced that Ben Campton, formerly of the Cudahy Packing Company, had been secured as general manager and that George E. Sallor would act as office manager. These new officers will take their places immediately, which gives assurance that the new plan will start operations shortly.

EDUCATOR TO DISCUSS THEORIES OF CRIME

FOUR LECTURES ON PHASES OF CRIMINOLOGY SCHEDULED AT UNIVERSITY

Dr. R. B. Von KleinSmid, president of the University of Southern California and one of the psychologists who have taken up the study of criminology in this country, will give a series of four special lectures at the university in connection with the summer session now being held there.

This afternoon at 4 p.m. Dr. Von KleinSmid will speak on "Theories of Criminology" and tomorrow afternoon his theme will be "The Criminal—A Personal Problem." Next Tuesday afternoon he will speak on "Efficient Causes for Crime," and on Wednesday afternoon on "Institutional Organization for Delinquents." These lectures will be given in room 206 of the Bovard administration building and will be open to the public.

In addition to the lecures musical events will be given once each week and on Thursday afternoon at 4 p.m., this week Dean Walter Skeele of the College of Music will give an organ recital in Bovard auditorium. Thursday afternoon of next week a community song program will be given.

IMPORTANT THEATER DEAL JUST CLOSED

What has been generally accepted in the trade as a most important moving-picture deal, was officially consummated during the past week, and came in the form of the purchase of an interest in the Elmo and El Monterey Theaters controlled by Mr. W. H. Martin of San Luis Obispo; the American Theater, owned by Mr. C. B. Corcoran of Ventura, and the Alhambra Theater, operated by Mr. O. W. Lewis of Alhambra, by the West Coast Theaters, Inc., who own, operate and conrol a string of fifty-eight silent-drama houses in Southern California.

This deal, while made more than a week ago, was not officially announced until this week. Mr. Harry C. Arthur, Jr., general manager of the West Coast string, was instrumental in closing the deal for the important theatrical acquisitions. With Mr. Jack Callicott, Mr. Arthur has just returned from a trip through various Coast cities, where a thorough investigation of general theatrical conditions was made. With the rapid growth and expansion made during the past three years by the West Coast syndicate, the acquisition of these prominent outlying theaters will greatly add to their local prestige and popularity.

Miss Naldi, whose work will be one of the features of the Fred Niblo production, "Blood and Sand," which stars Rodolph Valentino, will play leading roles in a number of Paramount production.

LAND SALE DISCLOSES PRICE GAIN

Imperial Acreage Worth $2400 Sixteen Years Ago Now Brings $20,000

An interesting and significant sale of Imperial Valley land is announced by W. P. Mansfield of Brawley, who was a visitor in Los Angeles yesterday. Mr. Mansfield sold forty acres of his fine ranch southwest of Brawley to Emil Steiner at $500 an acre.

Mr. Mansfield was one of the pioneer ranchers in Imperial Valley. He went there about twenty years ago and began to improve a 320-acre tract about a mile southwest of Brawley. Sixteen years ago he sold thirty acres of his land, then in a raw state, to Mr. Steiner at $80 an acre. Mr. Steiner had no capital and bought the land on extended payments. Four years ago he bought twelve acres of land in alfalfa from Mr. Mansfield at $400 an acre. Mr. Steiner proposes to plant the forty acres just purchased to grapefruit and grapes. The land was planted to cantaloupes last winter, Mr. Mansfield having rented it at $50 and $55 an acre.

Mr. Mansfield is one of the most successful and best known of Imperial Valley ranch owners. He now has 225 acres in cultivation. He said yesterday that he values his land planted to grapes at $2000 an acre.

"It is a significant fact," said Mr. Mansfield yesterday, "that the highest prices for improved lands in Imperial Valley are paid by old settlers and not by newcomers. The more a man knows about Imperial Valley land and its productiveness the more faith he has in it.

"The winter vegetable crop of Imperial Valley is only in its infancy. In two years the valley will ship out as many carloads of lettuce as it now ships of cantaloupes and there will be a heavy increase in the shipment of winter vegetables generally.

"Land prices generally in the valley are abnormally low. They are a way out of proportion to the value of the crops they grow and the rental prices. I expect this condition to change soon. Construction of a control dam on the Colorado will increase the market value of lands fifty dollars an acre or more in my opinion and in addition to that the consistent heavy yield and ability of the valley to produce in advance of other regions will tend to bring land prices to a higher and more appropriate level."

PASADENA STREET IN BAD REPAIR

Contractor's Efforts Give Rise to New Joke on Much Advertised Automobile

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PASADENA, July 17.—Though a shipment of twenty-inch water main to be laid under East Colorado street, Pasadena's principal thoroughfare, has not yet arrived, city officials today ordered the paving contractor to start tearing up the old paving Wednesday and to push the work with all possible speed, regardless of the fact that the paving cannot be relaid until the water main is installed. The pipe, ordered from an eastern manufacturer, should have been here a week ago, and may have been delayed by the rail strike.

The south side of the street will be torn up first, shifting traffic to the north side, already torn up by the laying of a new gas main. As Colorado is practically the only through street in an east and west direction the city affords, the effect on automobile traffic of the repaving will be considerable.

The condition of the street has already given rise to a new flivver joke. Anyone inquiring for a good place to get parts for his car is advised, with a straight face, to go out East Colorado street and keep your eye peeled."

Double shifts will be worked on the repaving, however, and it is hoped to have it completed by November 21. In the mean time the best way to get across Pasadena will be by airplane.

LIGHT IS BURNING QUESTION

Altadena Citizens Argue Problem of Illuminating Public Thoroughfares

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PASADENA, July 17.—Whether Altadena shall have a few bright lights or many dim ones on its streets, a question that has split the Altadena Citizens' Association from top to bottom, will be settled by a plebiscite of the affected citizenry, it was announced today. There will be some of each installed on trial and after a few weeks Altadenans will be asked to express their preference.

The controversy concerns a new type highway lamp which is said to illuminate the road 300 feet in each direction. Opponents of this lamp say it is too bright and will make the streets dangerous for automobile traffic, and that there are too many trees in Altadena to make such a lamp effective. They want smaller lamps and more of them. The proponents of the new light say it is much less costly to operate in proportion to the light given and that Altadena should be down to the minute in such things.

Three new type and six old type lamps will be hung, accordingly, the County Supervisors have been trying to please Altadena in selecting the type of lamp, but without much success heretofore. They have decided a trial is necessary to settle the dispute.

ACCEPT OFFER FOR BOND SALE

Imperial Irrigation Issue is Disposed Of

Financial Houses Agree to Sell Portion at Once

Take Option on Four to Six Million More

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL CENTRO, July 17. — Late this afternoon the directors of the Imperial Irrigation District and Mutual Water Company representatives accepted an offer to sell $1,000,000 of the recently authorized improvement bonds at 94, and to give an option on an additional $4,500,000 of the $6,500,000 issue at the same figure.

The sale and option were made to the First Securities Company of Los Angeles and the Anglo-London-Paris Securities Company of San Francisco. The option will expire January 1 next, and provides that if any of the bonds are resold at more than par the bond houses and the district will divide all sums above par on a 50-50 basis.

The selling charge for the entire issue as figured in the syndicate offer comes to $487,500. J. W. Harrison of the Anglo-London-Paris Securities Company tendered the syndicate's check for $20,000 as initial payment on the purchase of $1,000,000 worth of the bonds.

D. F. Harbison offered another proposal from the district, that the bonding syndicate take $2,500,000 bonds voted for drainage, and let the people of Imperial Valley absorb the remaining $5,000,000 for consolidation purposes. Replying for the syndicate Mr. Harrison said this arrangement might be made, but he argued that if the $5,000,000 were dumped upon the market it would demoralize the general bond-selling scheme. He contended that the syndicate could handle the entire issue to the best advantage on terms offered by disposing of it gradually, as the market could profitably carry the absorption. The mutual companies he said, could not handle the $5,000,000 issue unless the banks accepted bonds in payment of mutual company accounts, something he did not believe the banks could do, following the volume of liquidation necessitated by recovery from war inflation.

Following Mr. Harrison, John E. Barber, representing the First Securities Company of Los Angeles, went into the general history of Imperial Valley securities in the experience of the First National banking group.

Many Rescued as Long Beach Vessel Drifts

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, July 17.—Twenty men and women, endangered when the pleasure boat Tourist, on which they were passengers, became disabled at sea ten miles off Newport were rescued by the fishing boat Music and brought to Long Beach late Sunday afternoon, it became known here this morning. Efforts to keep the news of the rescue from becoming known were successful until noon today.

Returning from the albacore fields off Catalina Island Sunday afternoon, Capt. Ray Bolmer of the Music sighted the Tourist wallowing in the trough of a choppy sea, her engine disabled and sail set to keep her head up into the wind. The little craft was in grave danger and the Music went to her relief. After circling the boat three times Capt. Bolmer succeeded in getting a line aboard and the Tourist was towed to the Pine-avenue pier, here, where the passengers disembarked.

Long Beach City Attorney Urges Walks be Built

"Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, July 17.—Urging the construction by the city of a board walk extending from Golden avenue to the jetties on the west beach and a similar walk extending from Alamitos avenue to Belmont Pier on the east beach, City Attorney George L. Hoodenpyl returned home today from Atlantic City, where he had gone to inspect and report on piers and board walks there.

Coupled to Seaside avenue and the pike on the east and west, the recommended walks would give pedestrians a continuous promenade from practically the entire distance of the beach, according to Mr. Hoodenpyl.

HEROIC DEATH PROVES HOAX

Bottle Hints at Tragedy But Contains Address of Undertaker

BY A "TIMES" CORRESPONDENT
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, July 17.—"I died bravely at sea. Who finds this call my folks, Mr. and Mrs. Stieff, Home 62, Long Beach."

This message, found in a bottle floating in the surf here and turned over to the police, launched an investigation that promised to lead to a tragedy. Checking up of the telephone number, however, revealed that Home 62 is the number of an undertaking parlor, and one more hoax died a-bornin'.

VICTORY IS PREDICTED FOR MOORE

Supporters of Candidate in Pasadena Pleased at Heavy Registration

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PASADENA, July 17.—Registration of voters for the primary in Pasadena is likely to break all records, the Moore-for-Senator Republican Club learned today, and may be nearly 100 per cent by the time the books close. It is already past 90 per cent.

This foretells a big vote for Charles C. Moore in this end of Los Angeles county, in the opinion of club officials. The canvass of the city now being conducted has surprised the Moore workers, and it is now believed the vote for Moore will far surpass that cast for Herbert Hoover in the Presidential primaries. Hoover won Pasadena about 3 to 1. In one precinct the canvassers did not find a single Johnson supporter.

The Moore meeting here Friday noon will demonstrate the preponderance of sentiment very clearly, the Moore managers say. This meeting will be held in Library Park, instead of Central Park as at first announced, as Library Park will accommodate a larger crowd and has a better speakers' stand. No Johnson meetings have yet been scheduled.

The Women's Moore Club, to be organized tomorrow at Moore headquarters by Mrs. Charles E. Ashcroft and others, with Mrs. Robert J. Burdette as a speaker, will have a large membership, it is believed. Several hundred are expected to attend the organization meeting.

One Campaign Committee for Two Candidates

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PASADENA, July 17.—The candidacies of A. Burlingame Johnson for the State Senate, and of W. F. Creller for the Assembly on the Republican ticket have been teamed. A committee to support both at the primaries was formed today at a luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce. W. H. Archdeacon was named chairman, and J. W. Wood campaign manager. Other members are John McDonald, Jr., Mrs. Charles E. Ashcroft, Mrs. J. H. Woodworth, Mrs. E. M. Stanton, Harry M. Ticknor, Herbert L. Hahn, C. S. Conner, George E. Waldo, Dr. C. D. Lockwood, S. H. Halstead, MacD. Snowball and Joseph Feldman. There are two other candidates for each office.

Nominating petitions for thirteen members of the Republican County Central Committee representing Pasadena were completed for filing today. Those named are Mrs. Frances MacLaughlin, Mrs. Charles L. Ashcroft, Mrs. Kate J. Woodworth, Mrs. Rose D. Stanton, W. H. Archdeacon, John McWilliams, Jr., C. S. Conner, William Esterbrook, Harley F. Newell, E. J. Robinson, A. L. Rowland, John McDonald and G. Lumber Concern Seeks to Locate at Long Beach

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, July 17. — If necessary transportation facilities are provided the San Pedro Lumber Company will locate a large lumber yard and mill in the Long Beach harbor industrial district it was indicated here today. Closing of the deal depends it is said on whether or not the Pacific Electric will consent to provide sufficient spur tackage to care for the business of the plant.

Negotiations are being conducted for the deal by A. M. Goodhue former manager of the company's local plant which was recently sold. The site under consideration comprises about two and one third acres south side of Seventh street directly opposite the plant of the Curtis Corporation. The site is owned by the Los Angeles Dock and Terminal Company.

LONG BEACH, July 17.—H. Hulge of Los Angeles couldn't afford the price of a dressing-room at the bath-house here. In the interests of economy he sauntered into an abandoned shack at 70 Santa Clara avenue Sunday, where he disrobed and donned his bathing suit for a dip in the ocean.

Today Huige told police he wishes he had not been quite so frugal. While he was in the surf his dressing-room was visited by a thief who took $150 in cash and a watch valued at $183.
